A CONSTITUTION OR FORM OF GOVERNMENT FOR THE Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

P R E A M B L E .

The end of the institution, maintenance and administration of government, is to secure the existence of the body politic, to protect it, and to furnish the individuals who compose it with the power of enjoying, in safety and tranquillity, their natural rights, and the blessings of life : and whenever these great objects are not obtained, the people have a right to alter the government, and to take measures necessary for their safety, prosperity and happiness.

Objects of government.

The body politic is formed by a voluntary association of individuals : it is a social compact, by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good. It is the duty of the people, therefore, in framing a constitution of government, to provide for an equitable mode of making laws, as well as for an impartial interpretation and a faithful execution of them ; that every man may, at all times, find his security in them.

Body politic, how formed.
Its nature.

We, therefore, the people of Massachusetts, acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the goodness of the great Legislator of the universe, in affording us, in the course of his providence, an opportunity, deliberately and peaceably, without fraud, violence or surprise, of entering into an original, explicit and solemn compact with each other ; and of forming a new constitution of civil government for ourselves and posterity; and devoutly imploring his direction in so interesting a design, do agree upon, ordain and establish the following Declaration of Rights and Frame of Government, as the CONSTITUTION of the COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

PART THE FIRST.

A Declaration of the Rights of the Inhabitants of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Equality and natural rights of all men.

ART. I. All men are born free and equal, and have certain natural, essential and unalienable rights; among which may be reckoned the right of enjoying and defending their lives and liberties; that of acquiring, possessing and protecting property; in fine, that of seeking and obtaining their safety and happiness.

Right and duty of public religious worship.

II. It is the right as well as the duty of all men in society, publicly, and at stated seasons, to worship the SUPREME BEING, the great Creator and Preserver of the universe. And no subject shall be hurt, molested or restrained, in his person, liberty or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession or sentiments; provided he doth not disturb the public peace, or obstruct others in their religious worship.

Protection therein.

Amendment, Art. XI., substituted for this.

[III.* As the happiness of a people, and the good order and preservation of civil government, essentially depend upon piety, religion and morality; and as these cannot be generally diffused through a community, but by the institution of the public worship of God, and of public instructions in piety, religion and morality; Therefore, to promote their happiness, and to secure the good order and preservation of their Government, the people of this Commonwealth have a right to invest their legislature with power to authorize and require, and the legislature shall, from time to time, authorize and require the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, to make suitable provision, at their own expense, for the institution of the public worship of God, and for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion and morality, in all cases where such provision shall not be made voluntarily.

Legislature empowered to compel provision for public worship;

* NOTE.—Articles of the original constitution and articles of amendment thereto which have become inoperative, by reason of subsequent amendments, are printed in smaller type and enclosed in brackets: obsolete portions of articles, in some instances confined to a sentence or single word, are covered by brackets, but allowed to stand in type uniform with the matter still in force.

And the people of this Commonwealth have also a right to, and do, invest their legislature with authority to enjoin upon all the subjects an attendance upon the instructions of the public teachers aforesaid, at stated times and seasons, if there be any on whose instructions they can conscientiously and conveniently attend.

Provided, notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, precincts, and other bodies politic, or religious societies, shall at all times, have the exclusive right of electing their public teachers, and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance.

And all moneys, paid by the subject, to the support of public worship, and of the public teachers aforesaid, shall, if he require it, be uniformly applied to the support of the public teacher or teachers of his own religious sect or denomination, provided there be any on whose instructions he attends; otherwise it may be paid toward the support of the teacher or teachers of the parish or precinct in which the said moneys are raised.

And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves peaceably, and as good subjects of the Commonwealth, shall be equally under the protection of the law: and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law.]

IV. The people of this Commonwealth have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign and independent State; and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction and right, which is not, or may not hereafter, be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America, in Congress assembled.

V. All power residing originally in the people, and being derived from them, the several magistrates and officers of government, vested with authority, whether legislative, executive or judicial, are their substitutes and agents, and are at all times accountable to them.

VI. No man, nor corporation or association of men, have any other title to obtain advantages, or particular and exclusive privileges, distinct from those of the community, than what arises from the consideration of services rendered to the public; and this title being in nature neither hereditary, nor transmissible to children or descendants, or relations by blood, the idea of a man born a magistrate, lawgiver or judge, is absurd and unnatural.

VII. Government is instituted for the common good; for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people; and not for the profit, honor or private interest of any one man, family or class of men: Therefore the people alone have an incontestable, unalienable and indefeasible right to institute government; and to reform, alter or totally change the same, when their protection, safety, prosperity and happiness require it.

VIII. In order to prevent those who are vested with authority from becoming oppressors, the people have a right at such periods and in such manner as they shall establish and to enjoin attendance thereon.

Exclusive right of electing religious teachers secured.

Option as to whom parochial taxes may be paid, unless, &c.

All denominations equally protected. Subordination of one sect to another prohibited.

Right of self government secured.

Accountability of all officers, &c.

Services rendered to the public being the only title to peculiar privileges, hereditary offices are absurd and unnatural.

Objects of government; right of people to institute and change it.

Right of people to secure rotation in office.

by their frame of government, to cause their public officers to return to private life ; and to fill up vacant places by certain and regular elections and appointments.

All, having the qualifications prescribed, equally eligible to office.

IX. All elections ought to be free ; and all the inhabitants of this Commonwealth, having such qualifications as they shall establish by their frame of government, have an equal right to elect officers, and to be elected, for public employments.

Right of protection and duty of contribution correlative.

X. Each individual of the society has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty and property, according to standing laws. He is obliged, consequently, to contribute his share to the expense of this protection ; to give his personal service, or an equivalent, when necessary : but no part of the property of any individual can, with justice, be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent, or that of the representative body of the people. In fine, the people of this Commonwealth are not contrrollable by any other laws than those to which their constitutional representative body have given their consent. And whenever the public exigencies require that the property of any individual should be appropriated to public uses, he shall receive a reasonable compensation therefor.

Taxation founded on consent.

Private property not to be taken for public uses without, &c.

Remedies by recourse to the law, to be free, complete and prompt.

XI. Every subject of the Commonwealth ought to find a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character. He ought to obtain right and justice freely, and without being obliged to purchase it ; completely, and without any denial ; promptly, and without delay, conformably to the laws.

Prosecutions regulated.

XII. No subject shall be held to answer for any crimes or offence until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him ; or be compelled to accuse, or furnish evidence against himself : and every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to him ; to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defence by himself, or his counsel, at his election. And no subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled or deprived of his property, immunities or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled or deprived of his life, liberty or estate, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land.

Right to trial by jury, in criminal cases, except, &c.

And the legislature shall not make any law that shall subject any person to a capital or infamous punishment, excepting for the government of the army and navy, without trial by jury.

- XIII. In criminal prosecutions, the verification of facts, in the vicinity where they happen, is one of the greatest securities of the life, liberty and property of the citizen. Crimes to be proved in the vicinity.
- XIV. Every subject has a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. All warrants, therefore, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation, and if the order in the warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places, or to arrest one or more suspected persons, or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the persons or objects of search, arrest or seizure: and no warrant ought to be issued but in cases, and with the formalities, prescribed by the laws. Right of search and seizure regulated.
- XV. In all controversies concerning property, and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has heretofore been otherways used and practised, the parties have a right to a trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in causes arising on the high seas, and such as relate to mariners' wages, the legislature shall hereafter find it necessary to alter it. Right to trial by jury sacred, except, &c.
- XVI. The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a State: it ought not, therefore, to be restrained in this Commonwealth. Liberty of the press.
- XVII. The people have a right to keep and to bear arms for the common defence. And as, in time of peace, armies are dangerous to liberty, they ought not to be maintained without the consent of the legislature; and the military power shall always be held in an exact subordination to the civil authority, and be governed by it. Right to keep and bear arms. Standing armies dangerous. Military power subordinate to civil.
- XVIII. A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution, and a constant adherence to those of piety, justice, moderation, temperance, industry and frugality, are absolutely necessary to preserve the advantages of liberty, and to maintain a free government. The people ought, consequently, to have a particular attention to all those principles, in the choice of their officers and representatives: and they have a right to require of their lawgivers and magistrates, an exact and constant observance of them, in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of the Commonwealth. Moral qualifications for office.
- XIX. The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble to consult upon the common good; give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by the way of addresses, petitions or Moral obligations of lawgivers and magistrates. Right of people to instruct representatives and petition legislature.

remonstrances, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer.

Power to suspend the laws or their execution.

XX. The power of suspending the laws, or the execution of the laws, ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived from it, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for.

Freedom of debate, &c., and reason thereof.

XXI. The freedom of deliberation, speech and debate, in either house of the legislature, is so essential to the rights of the people, that it cannot be the foundation of any accusation or prosecution, action or complaint, in any other court or place whatsoever.

Frequent sessions, and objects thereof.

XXII. The legislature ought frequently to assemble for the redress of grievances, for correcting; strengthening and confirming the laws, and for making new laws, as the common good may require.

Taxation founded on consent.

XXIII. No subsidy, charge, tax, impost or duties, ought to be established, fixed, laid or levied, under any pretext whatsoever, without the consent of the people, or their representatives in the legislature.

Ex post facto laws prohibited.

XXIV. Laws made to punish for actions done before the existence of such laws, and which have not been declared crimes by preceding laws, are unjust, oppressive and inconsistent with the fundamental principles of a free government.

Legislature not to convict of treason, &c.

XXV. No subject ought, in any case, or in any time, to be declared guilty of treason or felony by the legislature.

Excessive bail or fines, and cruel punishments prohibited.

XXVI. No magistrate or court of law shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines, or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.

No soldier to be quartered in any house, unless, &c.

XXVII. In time of peace, no soldier ought to be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; and in time of war, such quarters ought not to be made but by the civil magistrate, in a manner ordained by the legislature.

Citizens exempt from law-martial, unless, &c.

XXVIII. No person can in any case be subjected to law-martial, or to any penalties or pains, by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.

Judges of supreme judicial court.

XXIX. It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as free, impartial and independent as the lot of humanity will admit. It is, therefore, not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, and of every citizen, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices as long as they behave them-ascertained and established by standing laws.

XXX. In the government of this Commonwealth, the Separation of executive, judicial, and legislative departments.
legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers, or either of them: the executive shall never exercise the legislative and judicial powers, or either of them: the judicial shall never exercise the legislative and executive powers, or either of them: to the end it may be a government of laws, and not of men.

PART THE SECOND.

The Frame of Government.

The people, inhabiting the territory formerly called the Title of body politic.
Province of Massachusetts Bay, do hereby solemnly and mutually agree with each other, to form themselves into a free, sovereign and independent body politic or state, by the name of THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

CHAPTER I.

THE LEGISLATIVE POWER.

SECTION I.

The General Court.

ART. I. The department of legislation shall be formed Legislative department.
by two branches, a Senate and House of Representatives; by each of which shall have a negative on the other.

The legislative body [shall assemble every year on the See amendments, Art. X.
last Wednesday in May, and at such other times as they shall judge necessary; and shall dissolve and be dissolved on the day next preceding the said last Wednesday in May; and] shall be styled, THE GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

II. No bill or resolve of the senate or house of represen- Governor's veto.
tatives shall become a law, and have force as such, until it shall have been laid before the governor for his revisal; and if he, upon such revision, approve thereof, he shall signify his approbation by signing the same. But if he have any Bill may be passed by two-thirds of each house, notwithstanding.

objection to the passing of such bill or resolve, he shall return the same, together with his objections thereto, in writing, to the senate or house of representatives, in whichsoever the same shall have originated, who shall enter the objections sent down by the governor, at large, on their records, and proceed to reconsider the said bill or resolve; but if, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the said senate or house of representatives shall, notwithstanding the said objections, agree to pass the same, it shall, together with the objections, be sent to the other branch of the legislature, where it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present, shall have the force of a law: but in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays; and the names of the persons voting for or against the said bill or resolve, shall be entered upon the public records of the Commonwealth.

See amendments, Art. I.

And in order to prevent unnecessary delays, if any bill or resolve shall not be returned by the governor within five days after it shall have been presented, the same shall have the force of a law.

General court may constitute judicatories, courts of record, &c.

III. The general court shall forever have full power and authority to erect and constitute judicatories and courts of record, or other courts, to be held in the name of the Commonwealth, for the hearing, trying and determining of all manner of crimes, offences, pleas, processes, complaints, actions, matters, causes and things, whatsoever, arising or happening within the Commonwealth, or between or concerning persons inhabiting or residing, or brought within the same; whether the same be criminal, or civil, or whether the said crimes be capital or not capital, and whether the said pleas be real, personal or mixed; and for the awarding and making out of execution thereupon: to which courts and judicatories are hereby given and granted full power and authority, from time to time, to administer oaths or affirmations, for the better discovery of truth in any matter in controversy, or depending before them.

Courts, &c., may administer oaths.

General court may enact laws, &c.,

IV. And further, full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the said general court, from time to time, to make, ordain and establish all manner of wholesome and reasonable orders, laws, statutes and ordinances, directions and instructions, either with penalties or without, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution, as they shall judge to be for the good and welfare of this Commonwealth, and for the government and ordering thereof, and of the subjects of the same, and for the necessary support and defence of the government thereof; and to name not repugnant to the constitution; and settle annually, or provide by fixed laws, for the naming and settling, all civil officers within the said Commonwealth, the election and constitution of whom are not hereafter in this form of government otherwise provided for; and to set forth the several duties, powers and limits, of the several civil and military officers of this Commonwealth, and the forms of such oaths, or affirmations as shall be respectively administered unto them for the execution of their several offices and places so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution; and to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessments, rates and taxes, upon all the inhabitants of, and persons resident, and estates lying, within the said Commonwealth; and also to impose and levy reasonable duties and excises upon any produce, goods, wares, merchandise and commodities whatsoever, brought into, produced, manufactured, or being within the same; to be issued and disposed of by warrant, under the hand of the governor of this Commonwealth, for the time being, with the advice and consent of the council, for the public service, in the necessary defence and support of the government of the said Commonwealth, and the protection and preservation of the subjects thereof, according to such acts as are or shall be in force within the same.

may provide for the election or appointment of officers;

prescribe their duties;

impose taxes;

duties and excises;

to be disposed of for defence, protection, &c.

And while the public charges of government, or any part thereof, shall be assessed on polls and estates, in the manner that has hitherto been practised, in order that such assessments may be made with equality, there shall be a valuation of estates within the Commonwealth, taken anew once in every ten years at least, and as much oftener as the general court shall order.

Valuation of estates once in ten years, at least, while, &c.

CHAPTER I.

SECTION II.

Senate.

[ART. I. There shall be annually elected, by the freeholders and other inhabitants of this Commonwealth, qualified as in this constitution is provided, forty persons to be councillors and senators, for the year ensuing their election; to be chosen by the inhabitants of the districts, into which the Commonwealth may, from time to time, be divided by the general court for that purpose: and the general court, in assigning the numbers to be elected by the respective districts, shall govern themselves by the proportion of the public taxes paid by the said districts; and timely make known, to the inhabitants of the Commonwealth, the limits of each district, and the number of councillors and senators to be chosen therein : provided, that the number of such districts shall never be less than thirteen ; and that no district be so large as to entitle the same to choose more than six senators.

See amendments, Arts. XIII, XVI. and XXII.

Counties to be districts, until, &c.
See amendments, Arts. XIII. and XXII.

And the several counties in this Commonwealth shall, until the general court shall determine it necessary to alter the said districts, be districts for the choice of councillors and senators, (except that the counties of Dukes county and Nantucket shall form one district for that purpose,) and shall elect the following number for councillors and senators, viz :—

Suffolk, six ; Essex, six ; Middlesex, five ; Hampshire, four ; Plymouth, three ; Barnstable, one ; Bristol, three ; York, two ; Dukes county and Nantucket, one ; Worcester, five ; Cumberland, one ; Lincoln, one ; Berkshire, two.]

Manner and time of choosing senators and councillors.

See amendments, Arts. II., X., XIV. and XV.

See amendments, Arts. III., XX., XXIII. and XXVI.

Word "inhabitant" defined.

Selectmen to preside at town meetings.

Return of votes.

See amendments, Art. II.

Amendments, Art. X.

II. The Senate shall be the first branch of the legislature ; [and the senators shall be chosen in the following manner, viz. : there shall be a meeting on the first Monday in April, annually, forever, of the inhabitants of each town in the several counties of this Commonwealth, to be called by the selectmen, and warned in due course of law, at least seven days before the first Monday in April, for the purpose of electing persons to be senators and councillors ; and at such meetings every male inhabitant of twenty-one years of age and upwards, having a freehold estate, within the Commonwealth, of the annual income of three pounds, or any estate of the value of sixty pounds, shall have a right to give in his vote for the senators for the district of which he is an inhabitant.] And to remove all doubts concerning the meaning of the word "inhabitant," in this constitution, every person shall be considered as an inhabitant, for the purpose of electing and being elected into any office or place within this State, in that town, district or plantation where he dwelleth or hath his home.

The selectmen of the several towns shall preside at such meetings impartially, and shall receive the votes of all the inhabitants of such towns, present and qualified to vote for senators, and shall sort and count them in open town meeting, and in presence of the town clerk, who shall make a fair record, in presence of the selectmen, and in open town meeting, of the name of every person voted for, and of the number of votes against his name ; and a fair copy of this record shall be attested by the selectmen and the town clerk, and shall be sealed up, directed to the secretary of the Commonwealth, for the time being, with a superscription expressing the purport of the contents thereof, and delivered by the town clerk of such towns, to the sheriff of the county in which such town lies, thirty days at least before [the last Wednesday in May, annually ; or it shall be delivered into the secretary's office seventeen days at least before the said last Wednesday in May ; and the sheriff of each county shall deliver all such certificates, by him received, into the secretary's office, seventeen days before the said last Wednesday in May.]

And the inhabitants of plantations unincorporated, qualified as this constitution provides, who are or shall be empowered and required to assess taxes upon themselves toward the support of government, shall have the same privilege of voting for councillors and senators, in the plantations where they reside, as town inhabitants have in their respective towns ; and the plantation meetings for that purpose shall be held, annually, [on the same first Monday in April,] at such place in the plantations, respectively, as the assessors thereof shall direct ; which assessors shall have like authority for notifying the electors, collecting and returning the votes, as the selectmen and town clerks have in their several towns, by this constitution. And all other persons living in places unincorporated, (qualified as aforesaid,) who shall be assessed to the support of government, by the assessors of an adjacent town, shall have the privilege of giving in their votes for councillors and senators, in the town where they shall be assessed, and be notified of the place of meeting, by the selectmen of the town where they shall be assessed, for that purpose, accordingly.

Inhabitants of unincorporated plantations, who pay State taxes, may vote.

Plantation meetings. See amendments, Art. X.

Assessors to notify, &c.

III. And that there may be a due convention of senators [on the last Wednesday in May,] annually, the governor, with five of the council, for the time being, shall, as soon as may be, examine the returned copies of such records ; and fourteen days before the said day, he shall issue his summons to such persons as shall appear to be chosen by a majority of voters, to attend on that day, and take their seats accordingly ; [provided, nevertheless, that for the first year, the said returned copies shall be examined by the president and five of the council of the former constitution of government ; and the said president shall, in like manner, issue his summons to the persons so elected, that they may take their seats as aforesaid.]

Governor and council to examine and count votes, and issue summonses.

See amendments, Art. X.

IV. The senate shall be the final judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of their own members, as pointed out in the constitution ; and shall, on the said [last Wednesday in May,] annually, determine and declare who are elected by each district to be senators, [by a majority of votes : and in case there shall not appear to be the full number of senators returned, elected by a majority of votes, for any district, the deficiency shall be supplied in the following manner, Senate to be final judge of elections, &c., of its own members.

See amendments, Arts. X., XIV. and XXIV.

Vacancies, how filled.	viz. : The members of the house of representatives, and such senators as shall be declared elected, shall take the names of such persons as shall be found to have the highest number of votes in such district, and not elected, amounting to twice the number of senators wanting, if there be so many voted for ; and out of these, shall elect by ballot a number of senators sufficient to fill up the vacancies in such district ; and in this manner all such vacancies shall be filled up in every district of the Commonwealth ; and in like manner all vacancies in the senate, arising by death, removal out of the State or otherwise, shall be supplied as soon as may be after such vacancies shall happen.]
Qualifications of a senator. See amendments, Arts. XIII. and XXII.	V. Provided, nevertheless, that no person shall be capable of being elected as a senator, [who is not seized in his own right of a freehold, within this Commonwealth, of the value of three hundred pounds at least, or possessed of personal estate of the value of six hundred pounds at least, or of both to the amount of the same sum, and] who has not been an inhabitant of this Commonwealth for the space of five years immediately preceding his election, and, at the time of his election, he shall be an inhabitant in the district for which he shall be chosen.
Senate not to adjourn more than two days.	VI. The senate shall have power to adjourn themselves ; provided such adjournments do not exceed two days at a time.
Shall choose its officers and establish its rules.	VII. The senate shall choose its own president, appoint its own officers, and determine its own rules of proceedings.
Shall try all impeachments.	VIII. The senate shall be a court, with full authority to hear and determine all impeachments made by the house of representatives, against any officer or officers of the Commonwealth, for misconduct and mal-administration in their offices : but, previous to the trial of every impeachment, the members of the senate shall, respectively be sworn, truly and impartially to try and determine the charge in question, according to evidence. Their judgment, however, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold or enjoy any place of honor, trust or profit, under this Commonwealth : but the party so convicted shall be, nevertheless, liable to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to the laws of the land.
Oath.
Limitation of sentence.
Quorum.	IX. Not less than sixteen members of the senate shall constitute a quorum for doing business.

CHAPTER I.

SECTION III.

House of Representatives.

ART. I. There shall be, in the legislature of this Commonwealth, a representation of the people, annually elected, and founded upon the principle of equality.

Representation of the people.

[II. And in order to provide for a representation of the citizens of this Commonwealth, founded upon the principle of equality, every corporate town, containing one hundred and fifty ratable polls, may elect one representative; every corporate town, containing three hundred and seventy-five ratable polls, may elect two representatives; every corporate town, containing six hundred ratable polls, may elect three representatives; and proceeding in that manner, making two hundred and twenty-five ratable polls the mean increasing number for every additional representative.

Representatives, by whom chosen.

See amendments, Arts. XII., XIII. and XXI.

Provided, nevertheless, that each town now incorporated, not having one hundred and fifty ratable polls, may elect one representative; but no place shall hereafter be incorporated with the privilege of electing a representative, unless there are within the same one hundred and fifty ratable polls.]

Proviso as to towns having less than 150 ratable polls.

And the house of representatives shall have power, from time to time, to impose fines upon such towns as shall neglect to choose and return members to the same, agreeably to this constitution.

Towns liable to fine in case, &c.

The expenses of travelling to the general assembly, and returning home, once in every session, and no more, shall be paid by the government, out of the public treasury, to every member who shall attend as seasonably as he can, in the judgment of the house, and does not depart without leave.

Expense of travelling to and from the general court, how paid.

III. Every member of the house of representatives shall be chosen by written votes: [and, for one year at least next preceding his election, shall have been an inhabitant of, and have been seized in his own right of a freehold of the value of one hundred pounds, within the town he shall be chosen to represent, or any ratable estate to the value of two hundred pounds; and he shall cease to represent the said town, immediately on his ceasing to be qualified as aforesaid.]

Qualifications of a representative. See amendments, Arts. XIII., XIV. and XXI.

[IV. Every male person being twenty-one years of age, and resident in any particular town in this Commonwealth, for the space of one year next preceding, having a freehold estate within the same town, of the annual income of three pounds, or any estate of the value of sixty pounds, shall have a right to vote in the choice of a representative or representatives for the said town.]

Qualifications of a voter.

See amendments, Arts. III., XX. and XXIII.

Representatives, when chosen See amendments, Arts. X. and XV. [V. The members of the house of representatives shall be chosen annually in the month of May, ten days at least before the last Wednesday of that month.]

House alone can impeach.

VI. The house of representatives shall be the grand inquest of this Commonwealth; and all impeachments made by them shall be heard and tried by the senate.

House to originate all money bills.

VII. All money bills shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Not to adjourn more than two days at a time.

VIII. The house of representatives shall have power to adjourn themselves; provided such adjournment shall not exceed two days at a time.

Quorum. See amendments, Art. XXI.

[IX. Not less than sixty members of the house of representatives shall constitute a quorum for doing business.]

House to judge of returns, &c., of its own members; to choose its officers and establish its rules, &c. May punish for certain offences.

X. The house of representatives shall be the judge of the returns, elections and qualifications of its own members, as pointed out in the constitution; shall choose their own speaker, appoint their own officers, and settle the rules and orders of proceeding in their own house. They shall have authority to punish by imprisonment, every person, not a member, who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house, by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence; or who, in the town where the general court is sitting, and during the time of its sitting, shall threaten harm to the body or estate of any of its members, for anything said or done in the house; or who shall assault any of them therefor; or who shall assault or arrest any witness, or other person, ordered to attend the house, in his way in going or returning; or who shall rescue any person arrested by the order of the house.

Privileges of members.

And no member of the house of representatives shall be arrested, or held to bail on mean process, during his going unto, returning from, or his attending, the general assembly.

Senate.

Governor and council may punish. General limitation.

XI. The senate shall have the same powers in the like cases; and the governor and council shall have the same authority to punish in like cases: provided, that no imprisonment, on the warrant or order of the governor, council, senate or house of representatives, for either of the above described offences, be for a term exceeding thirty days.

Trial may be by committee, or otherwise.

And the senate and house of representatives may try and determine all cases where their rights and privileges are concerned, and which, by the constitution, they have authority to try and determine, by committees of their own members, or in such other way as they may, respectively, think best.

CHAPTER II.

EXECUTIVE POWER.

SECTION I.

Governor.

ART. I. There shall be a supreme executive magistrate, Governor.
 who shall be styled—THE GOVERNOR OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS; and whose title shall be—His EXCEL- His title.
 LENCY.

II. The governor shall be chosen annually; and no per- To be chosen annually. Qualifications. son shall be eligible to this office, unless, at the time of his election, he shall have been an inhabitant of this Commonwealth for seven years next preceding; and unless he shall, at the same time, be seized, in his own right, of a freehold, within the Commonwealth, of the value of one thousand pounds; [and unless he shall declare himself to be of the Christian religion.] See amendments, Art. VII.

[III. Those persons who shall be qualified to vote for senators and representatives, within the several towns of this Commonwealth, shall, at a meeting to be called for that purpose, on the first Monday of April, annually, give in their votes for a governor, to the selectmen, who shall preside at such meetings; and the town clerk, in the presence and with the assistance of the selectmen, shall, in open town meeting, sort and count the votes, and form a list of the persons voted for, with the number of votes for each person against his name; and shall make a fair record of the same in the town books, and a public declaration thereof in the said meeting; and shall, in the presence of the inhabitants, seal up copies of the said list, attested by him and the selectmen, and transmit the same to the sheriff of the county, thirty days at least before the last Wednesday in May; and the sheriff shall transmit the same to the secretary's office, seventeen days at least before the said last Wednesday in May; or the selectmen may cause returns of the same to be made, to the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth, seventeen days at least before the said day; and the secretary shall lay the same before the senate and the house of representatives, on the last Wednesday in May, to be by them examined; and in case of an election by a majority of all the votes returned, the choice shall be by them declared and published; but if no person shall have a majority of votes, the house of representatives shall, by ballot, elect two out of four persons, who had the highest number of votes, if so many shall have been voted for; but, if otherwise, out of the number voted for;
 and make return to the senate of the two persons so elected; on which, the senate shall proceed, by ballot, to elect one who shall be declared governor.] By whom chosen, if he have a majority of votes. See amendments, Arts. II., X., XXV. and XV.

IV. The governor shall have authority, from time to How chosen, when no person has a majority. Power of governor, and of governor and council.
 time, at his discretion, to assemble and call together the councillors of this Commonwealth for the time being; and the governor, with the said councillors, or five of them, at least, shall, and may, from time to time, hold and keep a council, for the ordering and directing the affairs of the Commonwealth, agreeably to the constitution and the laws of the land.

May adjourn or prorogue the general court upon request, and convene the same.

See amendments, Art. X.

V. The governor, with advice of council, shall have full power and authority, during the session of the general court, to adjourn or prorogue the same at any time the two houses shall desire; [and to dissolve the same on the day next preceding the last Wednesday in May; and, in the recess of the said court, to prorogue the same from time to time, not exceeding ninety days in any one recess;] and to call it together sooner than the time to which it may be adjourned or prorogued, if the welfare of the Commonwealth shall require the same; and in case of any infectious distemper prevailing in the place where the said court is next at any time to convene, or any other cause happening, whereby danger may arise to the health or lives of the members from their attendance, he may direct the session to be held at some other the most convenient place within the State.

See amendments, Art. X.

[And the governor shall dissolve the said general court on the day next preceding the last Wednesday in May.]

Governor and council may adjourn the general court in cases, &c., but not exceeding ninety days.

VI. In cases of disagreement between the two houses, with regard to the necessity, expediency or time of adjournment or prorogation, the governor, with advice of the council, shall have a right to adjourn or prorogue the general court, not exceeding ninety days, as he shall determine the public good shall require.

Governor to be commander-in-chief.

VII. The governor of this Commonwealth, for the time being, shall be the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, and of all the military forces of the State, by sea and land; and shall have full power, by himself, or by any commander, or other officer or officers, from time to time, to train, instruct, exercise and govern the militia and navy; and, for the special defence and safety of the Commonwealth, to assemble in martial array, and put in warlike posture the inhabitants thereof, and to lead and conduct them, and with them, to encounter, repel, resist, expel and pursue, by force of arms, as well by sea as by land, within or without the limits of this Commonwealth, and also to kill, slay and destroy, if necessary, and conquer, by all fitting ways, enterprises and means whatsoever, all and every such person and persons as shall, at any time hereafter, in a hostile manner, attempt or enterprise the destruction, invasion, detriment or annoyance of this Commonwealth; and to use and exercise, over the army and navy, and over the militia in actual service, the law martial, in time of war or invasion, and also in time of rebellion, declared by the legislature to exist, as occasion shall necessarily require ; and to take and surprise, by all ways and means whatsoever, all and every such person or persons, with their ships, arms, ammunition and other goods, as shall, in a hostile manner, invade or attempt the invading, conquering or annoying this Commonwealth ; and that the governor be intrusted with all these and other powers incident to the offices of captain-general and commander-in-chief, and admiral, to be exercised agreeably to the rules and regulations of the constitution, and the laws of the land, and not otherwise.

Provided, that the said governor shall not, at any time hereafter, by virtue of any power by this constitution granted, or hereafter to be granted to him by the legislature, transport any of the inhabitants of this Commonwealth, or oblige them to march out of the limits of the same, without their free and voluntary consent, or the consent of the general court ; except so far as may be necessary to march or transport them by land or water, for the defence of such part of the State to which they cannot otherwise conveniently have access.

VIII. The power of pardoning offences, except such as persons may be convicted of before the senate, by an impeachment of the house, shall be in the governor, by and with the advice of council ; but no charter or pardon, granted by the governor, with advice of the council, before conviction, shall avail the party pleading the same, notwithstanding any general or particular expressions contained therein, descriptive of the offence or offences intended to be pardoned.

IX. All judicial officers, [the attorney-general, the solicitor-general, all sheriffs,] coroners [and registers of probate,] shall be nominated and appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the council ; and every such nomination shall be made by the governor, and made at least seven days prior to such appointment.

X. The captains and subalterns of the militia shall be elected by the written votes of the train-band and alarm list of their respective companies, [of twenty-one years of age and upwards ;] the field officers of regiments shall be elected by the written votes of the captains and subalterns of their respective regiments ; the brigadiers shall be elected, in like manner, by the field officers of their respective brigades ; and such officers, so elected, shall be commissioned by the governor, who shall determine their rank.

The legislature shall, by standing laws, direct the time and manner of convening the electors, and of collecting votes, and of certifying to the governor the officers elected.

Limitation.

Governor and council may pardon offences, except, &c.

But not before conviction.

All judicial officers, &c., how nominated and appointed. See amendments, Arts. XIV., XVII. and XIX.

Militia officers, how elected.

See amendments Art. V.

How commissioned.

Elections of officers.

Major-generals,
how appointed and commissioned

The major-generals shall be appointed by the senate and house of representatives, each having a negative upon the other ; and be commissioned by the governor.

Vacancies, how filled, in case,
&c.

And if the electors of brigadiers, field officers, captains or subalterns shall neglect or refuse to make such elections, after being duly notified, according to the laws for the time being, then the governor, with advice of council, shall appoint suitable persons to fill such offices.

Officers duly commissioned, how removed.
See amendments,
Art. IV.

[And no officer, duly commissioned to command in the militia, shall be removed from his office, but by the address of both houses to the governor, or by fair trial in court-martial, pursuant to the laws of the Commonwealth for the time being.]

Adjutants, &c., how appointed.

The commanding officers of regiments shall appoint their adjutants and quartermasters ; the brigadiers their brigade-majors ; and the major-generals their aids ; and the governor shall appoint the adjutant-general.

Adjutant-general.

Army officers,
how appointed.

The governor, with advice of council, shall appoint all officers of the continental army, whom by the confederation of the United States it is provided that this Commonwealth shall appoint,—as also all officers of forts and garrisons.

Organization of militia.

The divisions of the militia into brigades, regiments and companies, made in pursuance of the militia laws now in force, shall be considered as the proper divisions of the militia of this Commonwealth, until the same shall be altered in pursuance of some future law.

Money, how drawn from the treasury, except,
&c.

XI. No moneys shall be issued out of the treasury of this Commonwealth and disposed of (except such sums as may be appropriated for the redemption of bills of credit or treasurer's notes, or for the payment of interest arising thereon.) but by warrant under the hand of the governor for the time being, with the advice and consent of the council, for the necessary defence and support of the Commonwealth, and for the protection and preservation of the inhabitants thereof, agreeably to the acts and resolves of the general court.

Public boards and certain officers to make quarterly returns.

XII. All public boards, the commissary-general, all superintending officers of public magazines and stores, belonging to this Commonwealth, and all commanding officers of forts and garrisons within the same, shall, once in every three months, officially and without requisition, and at other times, when required by the governor, deliver to him an account of all goods, stores, provisions, ammunition, cannon with their appendages, and small arms with their accoutrements, and of all other public property whatever under their care, respectively ; distinguishing the quantity, number, quality and kind of each, as particularly as may be ; together with the condition of such forts and garrisons; and the said commanding officer shall exhibit to the governor, when required by him, true and exact plans of such forts, and of the land and sea, or harbor or harbors, adjacent.

And the said boards, and all public officers, shall communicate to the governor, as soon as may be after receiving the same, all letters, dispatches and intelligences of a public nature, which shall be directed to them respectively.

XIII. As the public good requires that the governor should not be under the undue influence of any of the members of the general court, by a dependence on them for his support—that he should, in all cases, act with freedom for the benefit of the public—that he should not have his attention necessarily diverted from that object to his private concerns—and that he should maintain the dignity of the Commonwealth in the character of its chief magistrate—it is necessary that he should have an honorable stated salary, of a fixed and permanent value, amply sufficient for those purposes, and established by standing laws: and it shall be among the first acts of the general court, after the commencement of this constitution, to establish such salary by law accordingly.

Salary of governor.

Permanent and honorable salaries shall also be established by law for the justices of the supreme judicial court.

Salaries of justices of supreme judicial court.

And if it shall be found that any of the salaries aforesaid, so established, are insufficient, they shall, from time to time, be enlarged, as the general court shall judge proper.

Salaries to be enlarged, if insufficient.

CHAPTER II.

SECTION II.

Lieutenant-Governor.

ART. I. There shall be annually elected a lieutenant-governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, whose title shall be—His Honor; and who shall be qualified, in point of religion, property, and residence in the Commonwealth, in the same manner with the governor; and the day and manner of his election, and the qualifications of the electors, shall be the same as are required in the election of a governor. The return of the votes for this officer, and the declaration of his election, shall be in the same manner; [and if no one person shall be found to have a majority of all the votes returned, the vacancy shall be filled by the senate and house of representatives, in the same manner as the governor is to be elected, in case no one person shall have a majority of the votes of the people to be governor.]

How chosen.

President of council.

Lieutenant-governor a member of, except, &c.

Lieutenant-governor to be acting governor, in case, &c.

II. The governor, and in his absence the lieutenant-governor, shall be president of the council, but shall have no vote in council; and the lieutenant-governor shall always be a member of the council, except when the chair of the governor shall be vacant.

III. Whenever the chair of the governor shall be vacant, by reason of his death, or absence from the Commonwealth, or otherwise, the lieutenant-governor, for the time being, shall, during such vacancy, perform all the duties incumbent upon the governor, and shall have and exercise all the powers and authorities, which, by this constitution, the governor is vested with, when personally present.

CHAPTER II.

SECTION III.

Council, and the Manner of settling Elections by the Legislature.

Council.

See amendments,
Art. XVI.

ART. I. There shall be a council, for advising the governor in the executive part of the government, to consist of [nine] persons besides the lieutenant-governor, whom the governor, for the time being, shall have full power and authority, from time to time, at his discretion, to assemble and call together; and the governor, with the said councillors, or five of them at least, shall and may, from time to time, hold and keep a council, for the ordering and directing the affairs of the Commonwealth, according to the laws of the land.

Number; from whom, and how chosen.

See amendments,
Arts. X., XIII. and XVI.

Senators becoming councillors, seats vacated.

Rank of councillors.

[II. Nine councillors shall be annually chosen from among the persons returned for councillors and senators, on the last Wednesday in May, by the joint ballot of the senators and representatives assembled in one room; and in case there shall not be found, upon the first choice, the whole number of nine persons who will accept a seat in the council, the deficiency shall be made up by the electors aforesaid from among the people at large; and the number of senators left, shall constitute the senate for the year. The seats of the persons thus elected from the senate, and accepting the trust, shall be vacated in the senate.]

III. The councillors, in the civil arrangements of the Commonwealth, shall have rank next after the lieutenant-governor.

No district to have more than two.

[IV. Not more than two councillors shall be chosen out of any one district in this Commonwealth.]

V. The resolutions and advice of the council shall be recorded in a register and signed by the members present ; and this record may be called for, at any time, by either house of the legislature ; and any member of the council may insert his opinion, contrary to the resolution of the majority.

Register of council.

VI. Whenever the office of the governor and lieutenant-governor shall be vacant by reason of death, absence, or otherwise, then the council, or the major part of them, shall, during such vacancy, have full power and authority, to do and execute, all and every such acts, matters and things, as the governor or the lieutenant-governor might, or could, by virtue of this constitution, do or execute, if they, or either of them, were personally present.

Council to exercise the power of governor, in case, &c.

[VII. And whereas the elections appointed to be made by this constitution on the last Wednesday in May annually, by the two houses of the legislature, may not be completed on that day, the said elections may be adjourned from day to day, until the same shall be completed. And the order of elections shall be as follows : the vacancies in the senate, if any, shall first be filled up ; the governor and lieutenant-governor shall then be elected, provided there should be no choice of them by the people ; and afterwards the two houses shall proceed to the election of the council.]

Elections may be adjourned until, &c.

Order thereof.

Amendments, Arts. XVI. and XXV.

CHAPTER II.

SECTION IV.

Secretary, Treasurer, Commissary, &c.

ART. I. [The secretary, treasurer and receiver-general, and the commissary-general, notaries public and naval officers, shall be chosen annually, by joint ballot of the senators and representatives, in one room.] And, that the citizens of this Commonwealth may be assured, from time to time, that the moneys remaining in the public treasury, upon the settlement and liquidation of the public accounts, are their property, no man shall be eligible as treasurer and receiver-general more than five years successively.

Secretary, &c. ; by whom and how chosen. See amendments, Arts. IV. and XVII.

Treasurer ineligible for more than five successive years.

II. The records of the Commonwealth shall be kept in the office of the secretary, who may appoint his deputies, for whose conduct he shall be accountable ; and he shall attend the governor and council, the senate and house of representatives in person, or by his deputies, as they shall respectively require.

Secretary to keep records ; to attend the governor and council, &c.

CHAPTER III.

JUDICIARY POWER.

Tenure of all commission officers to be expressed. Judicial officers to hold office during good behavior, except, &c. May be removed on address.

Justices of supreme judicial court to give opinions when required.

Justices of the peace; tenure of their office.

Provisions for holding probate courts.

Causes of marriage and divorce, how determined.

ART. I. The tenure that all commission officers shall by law have in their offices shall be expressed in their respective commissions. All judicial officers, duly appointed, commissioned and sworn, shall hold their offices during good behavior, excepting such concerning whom there is different provision made in this constitution: provided, nevertheless, the governor, with consent of the council, may remove them upon the address of both houses of the legislature.

II. Each branch of the legislature, as well as the governor and council, shall have authority to require the opinions of the justices of the supreme judicial court, upon important questions of law, and upon solemn occasions.

III. In order that the people may not suffer from the long continuance in place of any justice of the peace, who shall fail of discharging the important duties of his office with ability or fidelity, all commissions of justices of the peace shall expire and become void in the term of seven years from their respective dates; and, upon the expiration of any commission, the same may, if necessary, be renewed, or another person appointed, as shall most conduce to the well being of the Commonwealth.

IV. The judges of probate of wills, and for granting letters of administration, shall hold their courts at such place or places, on fixed days, as the convenience of the people shall require; and the legislature shall, from time to time, hereafter, appoint such times and places; until which appointments, the said courts shall be holden at the times and places which the respective judges shall direct.

[V. All causes of marriage, divorce and alimony, and all appeals from the judges of probate, shall be heard and determined by the governor and council until the legislature shall, by law, make other provision.]

CHAPTER IV.

DELEGATES TO CONGRESS.

Delegates to congress.

[The delegates of this Commonwealth to the congress of the United States shall, some time in the month of June, annually, be elected by the joint ballot of the senate and house of representatives assembled together in one room; to serve in congress for one year, to commence on the first Monday in November then next ensuing. They shall have commissions under the hand of the governor, and the great seal of the Commonwealth; but may be recalled at any time within the year, and others chosen and commissioned, in the same manner, in their stead.]

CHAPTER V.

THE UNIVERSITY AT CAMBRIDGE, AND ENCOURAGEMENT OF LITERATURE, &c.

SECTION I.

The University.

ART. I. Whereas our wise and pious ancestors, so early as the year one thousand six hundred and thirty-six, laid the foundation of Harvard College, in which university many persons of great eminence have, by the blessing of God, been initiated in those arts and sciences which qualified them for public employments, both in church and state ; and whereas the encouragement of arts and sciences, and all good literature, tends to the honor of God, the advantage of the Christian religion, and the great benefit of this and the other United States of America,—it is declared, that the PRESIDENT AND FELLOWS OF HARVARD COLLEGE, in their corporate capacity, and their successors in that capacity, their officers and servants, shall have, hold, use, exercise and enjoy, all the powers, authorities, rights, liberties, privileges, immunities and franchises, which they now have, or are entitled to have, hold, use, exercise and enjoy ; and the same are hereby ratified and confirmed unto them, the said president and fellows of Harvard College, and to their successors, and to their officers and servants, respectively, forever.

Harvard College.

Powers, privileges, &c., of the president and fellows, confirmed.

II. And whereas there have been, at sundry times, by divers persons, gifts, grants, devises of houses, lands, tenements, goods, chattels, legacies and conveyances, heretofore made, either to Harvard College in Cambridge, in New England, or to the president and fellows of Harvard College, or to the said college, by some other description, under several charters successively ; it is declared, that all the said gifts, grants, devises, legacies and conveyances, are hereby forever confirmed unto the president and fellows of Harvard College, and to their successors, in the capacity aforesaid, according to the true intent and meaning of the donor or donors, grantor or grantors, devisor or devisors.

Property devised.

Gifts, grants, and conveyances confirmed.

III. And whereas by an act of the general court of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, passed in the year one thousand six hundred and forty-two, the governor and deputy-governor, for the time being, and all the magistrates of that jurisdiction, were, with the president, and a number of the clergy in the said act described, constituted the overseers of

Board of Overseers established by general court of 1642.

Overseers established by constitution.

Power of alteration reserved to the legislature.

Harvard College ; and it being necessary, in this new constitution of government, to ascertain who shall be deemed successors to the said governor, deputy-governor, and magistrates ; it is declared, that the governor, lieutenant-governor, council and senate of this Commonwealth, are, and shall be deemed, their successors ; who, with the president of Harvard College, for the time being, together with the ministers of the congregational churches in the towns of Cambridge, Watertown, Charlestown, Boston, Roxbury and Dorchester, mentioned in the said act, shall be, and hereby are, vested with all the powers and authority belonging, or in any way appertaining, to the overseers of Harvard College : provided, that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the legislature of this Commonwealth from making such alterations in the government of the said university, as shall be conducive to its advantage, and the interest of the republic of letters, in as full a manner as might have been done by the legislature of the late Province of the Massachusetts Bay.

CHAPTER V.

SECTION II.

The Encouragement of Literature, &c.

Duty of legislatures and magistrates in all future periods. See amendments, Art. XVIII.

Wisdom and knowledge, as well as virtue, diffused generally among the body of the people, being necessary for the preservation of their rights and liberties ; and as these depend on spreading the opportunities and advantages of education in the various parts of the country, and among the different orders of the people, it shall be the duty of legislatures and magistrates, in all future periods of this Commonwealth, to cherish the interests of literature and the sciences, and all seminaries of them ; especially the university at Cambridge, public schools, and grammar schools in the towns ; to encourage private societies, and public institutions, rewards and immunities, for the promotion of agriculture, arts, sciences, commerce, trades, manufactures, and a natural history of the country ; to countenance and inculcate the principles of humanity and general benevolence, public and private charity, industry and frugality, honesty and punctuality in their dealings ; sincerity, good humor, and all social affections, and generous sentiments, among the people.

CHAPTER VI.

OATHS AND SUBSCRIPTIONS; INCOMPATIBILITY OF AND EXCLUSION FROM OFFICES; PECUNIARY QUALIFICATIONS; COMMISSIONS; WRITS; CONFIRMATION OF LAWS; HABEAS CORPUS; THE ENACTING STYLE; CONTINUANCE OF OFFICERS; PROVISION FOR A FUTURE REVISAL OF THE CONSTITUTION, &C.

ART. I. [Any person chosen governor, lieutenant-governor, councillor, senator or representative, and accepting the trust, shall, before he proceed to execute the duties of his place or office, make and subscribe the following declaration, viz. : Declaration of executive and legislative officers.

“I, A. B., do declare, that I believe the Christian religion, and have a firm persuasion of its truth; and that I am seized and possessed, in my own right, of the property required by the constitution, as one qualification for the office or place to which I am elected.” See amendments, Art. VII.

And the governor, lieutenant-governor and councillors, shall make and subscribe the said declaration, in the presence of the two houses of assembly; and the senators and representatives, first elected under this constitution, before the president and five of the council of the former constitution; and forever afterwards, before the governor and council for the time being.]

And every person chosen to either of the places or offices aforesaid, as also any person appointed or commissioned to any judicial, executive, military or other office under the government, shall, before he enters on the discharge of the business of his place or office, take and subscribe the following declaration, and oaths or affirmations, viz. : Declaration and oaths of all officers.

[“I, A. B., do truly and sincerely acknowledge, profess, testify and declare, that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is, and of right ought to be, a free, sovereign and independent State; and I do swear, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the said Commonwealth, and that I will defend the same against traitorous conspiracies and all hostile attempts whatsoever; and that I do renounce and abjure all allegiance, subjection and obedience to the king, queen or government of Great Britain, (as the case may be,) and every other foreign power whatsoever; and that no foreign prince, person, prelate, state or potentate, hath, or ought to have, any jurisdiction, superiority, pre-eminence, authority, dispensing or other power, in any matter, civil, ecclesiastical or spiritual, within this Commonwealth; except the authority and power which is or may be vested by their constituents in the congress of the United States: and I do further testify and declare, that no man, or body of men, hath, or can have, any right to absolve or discharge me from the obligation of this oath, declaration or affirmation; and that I do make this acknowledgment, profession, testimony, declaration, denial, renunciation and abjuration, heartily and truly, according to the common meaning and acceptance of the foregoing words, without any equivocation, mental evasion or secret reservation whatsoever. So help me, God.”] See amendments, Art. VI.

“I, A. B., do solemnly swear and affirm, that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as _____, according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the rules and regulations of the constitution, and the laws of the Commonwealth. So help me, God."

See amendments,
Art. VI.

[Provided, always, that when any person, chosen or appointed as aforesaid, shall be of the denomination of the people called Quakers, and shall decline taking the said oaths, he shall make his affirmation in the foregoing form, and subscribe the same, omitting the words, "I do swear," "and abjure," "oath or," "and abjuration," in the first oath; and in the second oath, the words "swear and," and in each of them the words, "So help me, God;" substituting instead thereof, "This I do under the pains and penalties of perjury."]

Oaths and affirmations, how administered.

And the said oaths or affirmations shall be taken and subscribed by the governor, lieutenant-governor and councillors, before the president of the senate, in the presence of the two houses of assembly; and by the senators and representatives first elected under this constitution, before the president and five of the council of the former constitution; and forever afterwards before the governor and council for the time being; and by the residue of the officers aforesaid, before such persons, and in such manner, as from time to time shall be prescribed by the legislature.

Plurality of offices prohibited to governor, &c., except, &c.

See amendments,
Art. VIII.

II. No governor, lieutenant-governor, or judge of the supreme judicial court, shall hold any other office or place, under the authority of this Commonwealth, except such as by this constitution they are admitted to hold, saving that the judges of the said court may hold the offices of justices of the peace through the State; nor shall they hold any other place or office, or receive any pension or salary from any other State, or government or power, whatever.

Same subject.

No person shall be capable of holding or exercising at the same time, within this State, more than one of the following offices, viz.: judge of probate—sheriff—register of probate—or register of deeds; and never more than any two offices, which are to be held by appointment of the governor, or the governor and council, or the senate, or the house of representatives, or by the election of the people of the State at large, or of the people of any county, military offices, and the offices of justices of the peace excepted, shall be held by one person.

Incompatible offices.

See amendments,
Art. VIII.

No person holding the office of judge of the supreme judicial court—secretary—attorney-general—[solicitor-general]—treasurer or receiver-general—judge of probate—commissary-general—president, professor or instructor of Harvard College—sheriff—clerk of the house of representatives—register of probate—register of deeds—clerk of the supreme judicial court—[clerk of the inferior court of common pleas]—or officer of the customs, including in this description naval officers—shall at the same time have a seat in the senate or house of representatives; but their being chosen or appointed to, and accepting the same, shall operate as a resignation of their seat in the senate or house of representatives; and the place so vacated shall be filled up.

And the same rule shall take place in case any judge of the said supreme judicial court, or judge of probate, shall accept a seat in council; or any councillor shall accept of either of those offices or places. Same subject.

And no person shall ever be admitted to hold a seat in the legislature, or any office of trust or importance under the government of this Commonwealth, who shall in the due course of law, have been convicted of bribery or corruption, in obtaining an election or appointment. Bribery, &c., operates disqualification.

III. In all cases where sums of money are mentioned in this constitution, the value thereof shall be computed in silver, at six shillings and eight pence per ounce; and it shall be in the power of the legislature, from time to time, to increase such qualifications, as to property, of the persons to be elected to offices, as the circumstances of the Commonwealth shall require. Value of money ascertained. Property qualifications. See amendments, Art. XIII.

IV. All commissions shall be in the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, signed by the governor, and attested by the secretary or his deputy, and have the great seal of the Commonwealth affixed thereto. Provisions respecting commissions.

V. All writs, issuing out of the clerk's office in any of the courts of law, shall be in the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; they shall be under the seal of the court from whence they issue; they shall bear test of the first justice of the court to which they shall be returnable who is not a party, and be signed by the clerk of such court. Provisions respecting writs.

VI. All the laws, which have heretofore been adopted, used and approved, in the Province, Colony or State of Massachusetts Bay, and usually practised on in the courts of law, shall still remain and be in full force, until altered or repealed by the legislature; such parts only excepted as are repugnant to the rights and liberties contained in this constitution. Continuation of former laws, except, &c.

VII. The privilege and benefit of the writ of habeas corpus shall be enjoyed in this Commonwealth, in the most free, easy, cheap, expeditious and ample manner; and shall not be suspended by the legislature, except upon the most urgent and pressing occasions, and for a limited time, not exceeding twelve months. Benefit of habeas corpus secured, except, &c.

The enacting style.

VIII. The enacting style, in making and passing all acts, statutes and laws, shall be—"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same."

Officers of former government continued until, &c.

[IX. To the end there may be no failure of justice, or danger arise to the Commonwealth, from a change of the form of government, all officers, civil and military, holding commissions under the government and people of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, and all other officers of the said government and people, at the time this constitution shall take effect, shall have, hold, use, exercise and enjoy all the powers and authority to them granted or committed, until other persons shall be appointed in their stead; and all courts of law shall proceed in the execution of the business of their respective departments; and all the executive and legislative officers, bodies and powers, shall continue in full force, in the enjoyment and exercise of all their trusts, employments and authority, until the general court, and the supreme and executive officers under this constitution, are designated and invested with their respective trusts, powers and authority.]

Provision for revising constitution. Amendments, Art. IX.

X. In order the more effectually to adhere to the principles of the constitution, and to correct those violations which by any means may be made therein, as well as to form such alterations as from experience shall be found necessary, the general court, which shall be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five, shall issue precepts to the selectmen of the several towns, and to the assessors of the unincorporated plantations, directing them to convene the qualified voters of their respective towns and plantations, for the purpose of collecting their sentiments on the necessity or expediency of revising the constitution, in order to amendments.

Same subject.

And if it shall appear, by the returns made, that two-thirds of the qualified voters throughout the State, who shall assemble and vote in consequence of the said precepts, are in favor of such revision or amendment, the general court shall issue precepts, or direct them to be issued from the secretary's office, to the several towns, to elect delegates to meet in convention for the purpose aforesaid.

The said delegates to be chosen in the same manner and proportion as their representatives in the second branch of the legislature are by this constitution to be chosen.]

Provision for preserving and publishing this constitution.

XI. This form of government shall be enrolled on parchment, and deposited in the secretary's office, and be a part of the laws of the land; and printed copies thereof shall be prefixed to the book containing the laws of this Commonwealth, in all future editions of the said laws.

ARTICLES OF AMENDMENT.

ART. I. If any bill or resolve shall be objected to, and not approved by the governor; and if the general court shall adjourn within five days after the same shall have been laid before the governor for his approbation, and thereby prevent his returning it with his objections, as provided by the constitution, such bill or resolve shall not become a law, nor have force as such.

Bill, &c., not approved within five days, not to become a law, if legislature adjourn in the meantime.

ART. II. The general court shall have full power and authority to erect and constitute municipal or city governments, in any corporate town or towns in this Commonwealth, and to grant to the inhabitants thereof such powers, privileges and immunities, not repugnant to the constitution, as the general court shall deem necessary or expedient for the regulation and government thereof, and to prescribe the manner of calling and holding public meetings of the inhabitants in wards or otherwise, for the election of officers under the constitution, and the manner of returning the votes given at such meetings: provided, that no such government shall be erected or constituted in any town not containing twelve thousand inhabitants; nor unless it be with the consent, and on the application, of a majority of the inhabitants of such town, present and voting thereon, pursuant to a vote at a meeting duly warned and holden for that purpose; and provided, also, that all by-laws, made by such municipal or city government, shall be subject, at all times, to be annulled by the general court.

General court empowered to charter cities.

Proviso.

ART. III. Every male citizen of twenty-one years of age and upwards, (excepting paupers and persons under guardianship,) who shall have resided within the Commonwealth one year, and within the town or district, in which he may claim a right to vote, six calendar months next preceding any election of governor, lieutenant-governor, senators or representatives, and who shall have paid, by himself, or his parent, master or guardian, any state or county tax, which shall, within two years next preceding such election, have been assessed upon him, in any town or district of this Commonwealth; and also, every citizen who shall be by law exempted from taxation, and who shall be in all other respects qualified as above mentioned, shall have a right to vote in such election of governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives; and no other person shall be entitled to vote in such elections.

Qualifications of voters for governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives. 11 Pick. 538. See amendments, Arts. XX., XXIII. and XXVI.

Notaries public,
and removed.

ART. IV. Notaries public shall be appointed by the governor, in the same manner as judicial officers are appointed, and shall hold their offices during seven years, unless sooner removed by the governor, with the consent of the council, upon the address of both houses of the legislature.

Vacancies in the offices of secretary and treasurer, how filled in case,
&c.
See amendments,
Art. XVII.

[In case the office of secretary or treasurer of the Commonwealth shall become vacant from any cause, during the recess of the general court, the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall nominate and appoint, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, a competent and suitable person to such vacant office, who shall hold the same until a successor shall be appointed by the general court.]

Commissary-general may be appointed, in case,
&c.

Whenever the exigencies of the Commonwealth shall require the appointment of a commissary-general, he shall be nominated, appointed and commissioned, in such manner as the legislature may, by law, prescribe.

Militia officers,
how removed.

All officers commissioned to command in the militia, may be removed from office in such manner as the legislature may, by law, prescribe.

Who may vote for captains and subalterns.

ART. V. In the elections of captains and subalterns of the militia, all the members of their respective companies, as well those under as those above the age of twenty-one years, shall have a right to vote.

Oath to be taken by all officers.

ART. VI. Instead of the oath of allegiance prescribed by the constitution, the following oath shall be taken and subscribed by every person chosen or appointed to any office, civil or military, under the government of this Commonwealth, before he shall enter on the duties of his office, to wit:—

“I, A. B., do solemnly swear, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and will support the constitution thereof. So help me, God.”

Proviso: Quaker
may affirm.

Provided, That when any person shall be of the denomination called Quakers, and shall decline taking said oath, he shall make his affirmation in the foregoing form, omitting the word “swear,” and inserting, instead thereof, the word “affirm,” and omitting the words, “So help me, God,” and subjoining, instead thereof, the words “This I do under the pains and penalties of perjury.”

Tests abolished.

ART. VII. No oath, declaration or subscription, excepting the oath prescribed in the preceding article, and the oath of office, shall be required of the governor, lieutenant-governor, councillors, senators or representatives, to qualify them to perform the duties of their respective offices.

ART. VIII. No judge of any court of this Commonwealth, (except the court of sessions,) and no person holding any office under the authority of the United States (postmasters excepted,) shall, at the same time, hold the office of governor, lieutenant-governor or councillor, or have a seat in the senate or house of representatives of this Commonwealth; and no judge of any court in this Commonwealth, (except the court of sessions,) nor the attorney-general, [solicitor-general, county-attorney,] clerk of any court, sheriff, treasurer and receiver-general, register of probate, nor register of deeds, shall continue to hold his said office after being elected a member of the Congress of the United States, and accepting that trust; but the acceptance of such trust, by any of the officers aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken to be a resignation of his said office; [and judges of the courts of common pleas shall hold no other office under the government of this Commonwealth, the office of justice of the peace and militia offices excepted.]

of offices.

ART. IX. If, at any time hereafter, any specific and particular amendment or amendments to the constitution be proposed in the general court, and agreed to by a majority of the senators and two-thirds of the members of the house of representatives present and voting thereon, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on the journals of the two houses, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the general court then next to be chosen, and shall be published; and if, in the general court next chosen as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of the senators and two-thirds of the members of the house of representatives present and voting thereon, then it shall be the duty of the general court to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people; and if they shall be approved and ratified by a majority of the qualified voters, voting thereon, at meetings legally warned and holden for that purpose, they shall become part of the constitution of this Commonwealth.

Amendments to constitution, how made.

ART. X. The political year shall begin on the first Wednesday of January, instead of the last Wednesday of May; and the general court shall assemble every year on the said first Wednesday of January, and shall proceed, at that session, to make all the elections, and do all the other acts, which are by the constitution required to be made and done at the session which has heretofore commenced on the last Wednesday of May. And the general court shall be and termination.

dissolved on the day next preceeding the first Wednesday of January, without any proclamation or other act of the governor. But nothing herein contained shall prevent the general court from assembling at such other times as they shall judge necessary, or when called together by the governor. The governor, lieutenant-governor and councillors, shall also hold their respective offices for one year next following the first Wednesday of January, and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead.

Meetings for the choice of governor, lieutenant-governor, &c., when to be held. May be adjourned. See amendments, Art. XV.

[The meeting for the choice of governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives, shall be held on the second Monday of November in every year; but meetings may be adjourned, if necessary, for the choice of representatives, to the next day, and again to the next succeeding day, but no further. But in case a second meeting shall be necessary for the choice of representatives, such meetings shall be held on the fourth Monday of the same month of November.]

All the [other] provisions of the constitution, respecting the elections and proceedings of the members of the general court, or of any other officers or persons whatever, that have reference to the last Wednesday of May as the commencement of the political year, shall be so far altered, as to have like reference to the first Wednesday of January.

Article, when to go into operation.

This article shall go into operation on the first day of October, next following the day when the same shall be duly ratified and adopted as an amendment of the constitution; and the governor, lieutenant-governor, councillors, senators, representatives, and all other state officers, who are annually chosen, and who shall be chosen for the current year, when the same shall go into operation, shall hold their respective offices until the first Wednesday of January then next following, and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead, and no longer; and the first election of the governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives, to be had in virtue of this article, shall be had conformably thereunto, in the month of November following the day on which the same shall be in force and go into operation, pursuant to the foregoing provision.

Inconsistent provisions annulled.

All the provisions of the existing constitution, inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, are hereby wholly annulled.

Religious freedom established.

ART. XI. Instead of the third article of the bill of rights, the following modification and amendment thereof is substituted:—

“As the public worship of God, and instructions in piety, religion and morality, promote the happiness and prosperity of a people, and the security of a republican government ; therefore the several religious societies of this Commonwealth, whether corporate or unincorporate, at any meeting legally warned and holden for that purpose, shall ever have the right to elect their pastors or religious teachers, to contract with them for their support, to raise money for erecting and repairing houses for public worship, for the maintenance of religious instruction, and for the payment of necessary expenses ; and all persons belonging to any religious society shall be taken and held to be members, until they shall file with the clerk of such society a written notice declaring the dissolution of their membership, and thenceforth shall not be liable for any grant or contract which may be thereafter made or entered into by such society ; and all religious sects and denominations, demeaning themselves peaceably, and as good citizens of the Commonwealth, shall be equally under the protection of the law ; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law."

[ART. XII. In order to provide for a representation of the citizens of this Commonwealth, founded upon the principles of equality, a census of the ratable polls in each city, town and district of the Commonwealth, on the first day of May, shall be taken and returned into the secretary's office, in such manner as the legislature shall provide, within the month of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, and in every tenth year thereafter, in the month of May, in manner aforesaid : and each town or city having three hundred ratable polls at the last preceding decennial census of polls, may elect one representative, and for every four hundred and fifty ratable polls, in addition to the first three hundred, one representative more.

Census of ratable polls to be taken in 1837, and decennially thereafter.

Any town having less than three hundred ratable polls shall be represented thus : The whole number of ratable polls, at the last preceding decennial census of polls, shall be multiplied by ten, and the product divided by three hundred ; and such town may elect one representative as many years within ten years, as three hundred is contained in the product aforesaid.

Representatives, how apportioned. See amendments, Arts. XIII. and XXI.

Towns having less than 300 ratable polls, how, represented.

Any city or town having ratable polls enough to elect one or more representatives, with any number of polls beyond the necessary number, may be represented, as to that surplus number, by multiplying such surplus number by ten, and dividing the product by four hundred and fifty ; and such city or town may elect one additional representative as many years, within the ten years, as four hundred and fifty is contained in the product aforesaid.

Fractions, how represented.

Any two or more of the several towns and districts may, by consent of a majority of the legal voters present at a legal meeting in each of said towns and districts, respectively, called for that purpose, and held previous to the first day of July, in the year in which the decennial census of polls shall be taken, form themselves into a representative district, to continue until the next decennial census of polls, for the election of a representative or representatives ; and such districts shall have all the rights, in regard to representation, which would belong to a town containing the same number of ratable polls.

The governor and council to determine the number of representatives to which each town is entitled.

The governor and council shall ascertain and determine, within the months of July and August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, according to the foregoing principles, the number of representatives which each city, town and representative district is entitled to elect, and the number of years, within the period of ten years then next ensuing, that each city, town and representative district may elect an additional representative; and where any town has not a sufficient number of polls to elect a representative each year, then, how many years within the ten years, such town may elect a representative; and the same shall be done once in ten years thereafter, by the governor and council, and the number of ratable polls in each decennial census of polls shall determine the number of representatives which each city, town and representative district may elect as aforesaid; and when the number of representatives to be elected by each city, town or representative district is ascertained and determined as aforesaid, the governor shall cause the same to be published forthwith for the information of the people, and that number shall remain fixed and unalterable for the period of ten years.

New apportionment to be made once in every ten years.

Inconsistent provisions annulled.

All the provisions of the existing constitution inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, are hereby wholly annulled.]

Census of inhabitants to be taken in 1840, and decennially thereafter, for basis of representation. See amendments, Art. XXII.

ART. XIII. [A census of the inhabitants of each city and town, on the first day of May, shall be taken and returned into the secretary's office, on or before the last day of June, of the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and of every tenth year thereafter; which census shall determine the apportionment of senators and representatives for the term of ten years.

Senatorial districts declared permanent. See amendments, Art. XXII.

The several senatorial districts now existing, shall be permanent. The senate shall consist of forty members; and in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and every tenth year thereafter, the governor and council shall assign the number of senators to be chosen in each district, according to the number of inhabitants in the same. But, in all cases, at least one senator shall be assigned to each district.

House of representatives, how apportioned. See amendments, Art. XXI.

The members of the house of representatives shall be apportioned in the following manner: Every town or city containing twelve hundred inhabitants, may elect one representative; and two thousand four hundred inhabitants shall be the mean increasing number, which shall entitle it to an additional representative.

Small towns, how represented.

Every town containing less than twelve hundred inhabitants shall be entitled to elect a representative as many times, within ten years, as the number one hundred and sixty is contained in the number of the inhabitants of said town. Such towns may also elect one representative for the year in which the valuation of estates within the Commonwealth shall be settled.

Towns may unite into representative districts.

Any two or more of the several towns may, by consent of a majority of the legal voters present at a legal meeting, in each of said towns, respectively, called for that purpose, and held before the first day of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty, and every tenth year thereafter, form themselves into a representative district, to continue for the term of ten years; and such districts shall have all the rights, in regard to representation, which would belong to a town containing the same number of inhabitants.

Basis of representation, and ratio of increase.

The number of inhabitants which shall entitle a town to elect one representative, and the mean increasing number, which shall entitle a town or city to elect more than one, and also the number by which the population of towns, not entitled to a representative every year, is to be divided, shall be increased, respectively, by one-tenth of the numbers above mentioned, whenever the population of the Commonwealth shall have increased to seven hundred and seventy thousand, and for every additional increase of seventy thousand inhabitants, the same addition of one-tenth shall be made, respectively, to the said numbers above mentioned.

In the year of each decennial census, the governor and council shall, before the first day of September, apportion the number of representatives which each city, town and representative district is entitled to elect, and ascertain how many years, within ten years, any town may elect a representative, which is not entitled to elect one every year; and the governor shall cause the same to be published forthwith.

The governor and council to apportion the number of representatives of each town once in every ten years.

Nine councillors shall be annually chosen from among the people at large, on the first Wednesday of January, or as soon thereafter as may be, by the joint ballot of the senators and representatives, assembled in one room, who shall, as soon as may be, in like manner, fill up any vacancies that may happen in the council, by death, resignation or otherwise. No person shall be elected a councillor who has not been an inhabitant of this Commonwealth for the term of five years immediately preceding his election; and not more than one councillor shall be chosen from any one senatorial district in the Commonwealth.]

Councillors to be chosen from the people at large. See amendments, Art. XVI. Qualifications of councillors.

No possession of a freehold, or of any other estate, shall be required as a qualification for holding a seat in either branch of the general court, or in the executive council.

Freehold as a qualification not required

ART. XIV. In all elections of civil officers by the people of this Commonwealth, whose election is provided for by the constitution, the person having the highest number of votes shall be deemed and declared to be elected.

Elections by the people to be by plurality of votes.

ART. XV. The meeting for the choice of governor, lieutenant-governor, senators and representatives, shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, annually; but in case of a failure to elect representatives on that day, a second meeting shall be holden, for that purpose, on the fourth Monday of the same month of November.

Time of annual election of governor and legislature.

ART. XVI. Eight councillors shall be annually chosen by the inhabitants of this Commonwealth, qualified to vote for governor. The election of councillors shall be determined by the same rule that is required in the election of governor. The legislature, at its first session after this amendment shall have been adopted, and at its first session after the next State census shall have been taken, and at its first session after each decennial State census thereafterwards, shall divide the Commonwealth into eight districts of contiguous territory, each containing a number of inhabitants as nearly equal as practicable, without dividing any town or ward of a city, and each entitled to elect one councillor: provided, however, that if, at any time, the constitution shall provide for the division of the Commonwealth into forty senatorial districts, then the legislature shall so arrange the councillor districts, that each district shall consist of five contiguous senatorial districts, as they shall be, from time to time, established by the legislature. No person shall be eligible to the office of councillor who has not been an inhabitant of the Commonwealth for the term of five years immediately preceding his election. The day and manner of the election, the return of the votes, and the declaration of the said elections, shall be the same as are required in the election of governor. Whenever there shall be a failure to elect the full number of councillors, the vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as is required for filling vacancies in the senate; and vacancies occasioned by death, removal from the State, or otherwise, shall be filled in like manner, as soon as may be after such vacancies shall have happened. And that there may be no delay in the organization of the government on the first Wednesday of January, the governor, with at least five councillors for the time being, shall, as soon as may be, examine the returned copies of the records for the election of governor, lieutenant-governor, and councillors; and ten days before the said first Wednesday in January he shall issue his summons to such persons as appear to be chosen, to attend on that day to be qualified accordingly; and the secretary shall lay the returns before the senate and house of representatives on the said first Wednesday in January, to be by them examined; and in case of the election of either of said officers, the choice shall be by them declared and published; but in case there shall be no election of either of said officers, the legislature shall proceed to fill such vacancies in the manner provided in the constitution for the choice of such officers.

ART. XVII. The secretary, treasurer and receiver-general, auditor, and attorney-general, shall be chosen annually, on the day in November prescribed for the choice of governor; and each person then chosen as such, duly qualified in other respects, shall hold his office for the term of one year from the third Wednesday in January next thereafter, and until another is chosen and qualified in his stead. The qualification of the voters, the manner of the election, the return of the votes, and the declaration of the election, shall be such as are required in the election of governor. In case of a failure to elect either of said officers on the day in November aforesaid, or in case of the decease, in the mean time, of the person elected as such, such officer shall be chosen on or before the third Wednesday in January next thereafter, from the two persons who had the highest number of votes for said offices on the day in November aforesaid, by joint ballot of the senators and representatives, in one room; and in case the office of secretary, or treasurer and receiver-general, or auditor, or attorney-general, shall become vacant, from any cause, during an annual or special session of the general court, such vacancy shall in like manner be filled by choice from the people at large; but if such vacancy shall occur at any other time, it shall be supplied by the governor by appointment, with the advice and consent of the council. The person so chosen or appointed, duly qualified in other respects, shall hold his office until his successor is chosen and duly qualified in his stead. In case any person chosen or appointed to either of the offices aforesaid, shall neglect, for the space of ten days after he could otherwise enter upon his duties, to qualify himself in all respects to enter upon the discharge of such duties, the office to which he has been elected or appointed shall be deemed vacant. No person shall be eligible to either of said offices unless he shall have been an inhabitant of this Commonwealth five years next preceding his election or appointment.

To qualify within ten days, otherwise office to be deemed vacant.

Qualification requisite.

ART. XVIII. All moneys raised by taxation in the towns and cities for the support of public schools, and all moneys which may be appropriated by the State for the support of common schools, shall be applied to, and expended in, no other schools than those which are conducted according to law, under the order and superintendence of the authorities of the town or city in which the money is to be expended; and such moneys shall never be appropriated to any religious sect for the maintenance, exclusively, of its own school.

School moneys not to be applied for sectarian schools.

ART. XIX. The legislature shall prescribe, by general law, for the election of sheriffs, registers of probate, commissioners of insolvency, and clerks of the courts, by the people of the several counties, and that district-attorneys shall be chosen by the people of the several districts, for such term of office as the legislature shall prescribe.

Legislature to prescribe for the election of sheriffs, registers of probate, &c., by the people.

ART. XX. No person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this Commonwealth, who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language and write his name: provided, however, that the provisions of this amendment shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any persons who shall be sixty years of age or upwards at the time this amendment shall take effect.

Census of legal voters and of inhabitants, when taken, &c.

See General Stat. chapter 20.

ART. XXI. A census of the legal voters of each city and town, on the first day of May, shall be taken and returned into the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth, on or before the last day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven; and a census of the inhabitants of each city and town, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of every tenth year thereafter. In the census aforesaid, a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters; and in each city said enumeration shall specify the number of such legal voters aforesaid, residing in each ward of such city. The enumeration aforesaid shall determine the apportionment of representatives for the periods between the taking of the census.

House to consist of 240 members; representatives to be apportioned upon basis of legal voters.

The house of representatives shall consist of two hundred and forty members, which shall be apportioned by the legislature, at its first session after the return of each enumeration as aforesaid, to the several counties of the Commonwealth, equally, as nearly as may be, according to their relative numbers of legal voters, as ascertained by the next preceding special enumeration; and the town of Cohasset, in the county of Norfolk, shall, for this purpose, as well as in the formation of districts, as hereinafter provided, be considered a part of the county of Plymouth; and it shall be the duty of the secretary of the Commonwealth, to certify, as soon as may be after it is determined by the legislature, the number of representatives to which each county shall be entitled, to the board authorized to divide each county into representative districts. The mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, the county commissioners of other counties than Suffolk,—or in lieu of the mayor and aldermen of the city of Boston, or of the county commissioners in each county other than Suffolk, such board of special commissioners in each county, to be elected by the people of the county, or of the towns therein, as may for that purpose be provided by law, shall, on the first Tuesday of August next after each assignment of representatives to each county, assemble at a shire town of their respective counties, and proceed as soon as may be, to divide the same into representative districts of contiguous territory, so as to apportion the representation assigned to each county equally, as nearly as may be, according to the relative number of legal voters in the several districts of each county ; and such districts shall be so formed that no town or ward of a city shall be divided therefor, nor shall any district be made which shall be entitled to elect more than three representatives. Every representative, for one year at least next preceding his election, shall have been an inhabitant of the district for which he is chosen, and shall cease to represent such district when he shall cease to be an inhabitant of the Commonwealth. The districts in each county shall be numbered by the board creating the same, and a description of each, with the numbers thereof and the number of legal voters therein, shall be returned by the board, to the secretary of the Commonwealth, the county treasurer of each county, and to the clerk of every town in each district, to be filed and kept in their respective offices. The manner of calling and conducting the meetings for the choice of representatives, and of ascertaining their election, shall be prescribed by law. Not less than one hundred members of the house of representatives shall constitute a quorum for doing business ; but a less number may organize temporarily, adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members.

Qualifications of representatives.

Districts to be numbered, described and certified.

One hundred members a quorum.

ART. XXII. A census of the legal voters of each city and town, on the first day of May, shall be taken and returned into the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth, on or before the last day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven ; and a census of the inhabitants of each city and town, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of every tenth year thereafter. In the census aforesaid, a special enumeration shall be made of the legal voters, and in each city said enumeration shall specify the number of such legal voters aforesaid, residing in each ward of such city. The enumeration aforesaid shall determine the apportionment of senators for the periods between the taking of the census. The senate shall consist of forty members. The general court shall, at its first session after each next preceding special enumeration, divide the Commonwealth into forty districts of adjacent territory, each district to contain, as nearly as may be, an equal number of legal voters, according to the enumeration aforesaid : provided, however, that no town or ward of a city shall be divided therefor ; and such districts shall be formed, as nearly as may be, without uniting two counties, or parts of two or more counties, into one district. Each district shall elect one senator, who shall have been an inhabitant of this Commonwealth five years at least immediately preceding his senate.

ART. XXIV. Any vacancy in the senate shall be filled by election by the people of the unrepresented district, upon the order of a majority of senators elected.

council.

ART. XXV. In case of a vacancy in the council, from a failure of election, or other cause, the senate and house of representatives shall, by concurrent vote, choose some eligible person from the people of the district wherein such vacancy occurs, to fill that office. If such vacancy shall happen when the legislature is not in session, the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, may fill the same by appointment of some eligible person.

Twenty-third article of amendments annulled.

ART. XXVI. The twenty-third article of the articles of amendment of the constitution of this Commonwealth, which is as follows, to wit : "No person of foreign birth shall be entitled to vote, or shall be eligible to office unless he shall have resided within the jurisdiction of the United States for two years subsequent to his naturalization, and shall be otherwise qualified, according to the constitution and laws of this Commonwealth : provided, that this amendment shall not affect the rights which any person of foreign birth possessed at the time of the adoption thereof ; and provided, further, that it shall not affect the rights of any child of a citizen of the United States, born during the temporary absence of the parent therefrom," is hereby wholly annulled.

THE FRAMING AND POPULAR ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The Constitution of Massachusetts was agreed upon by delegates of the people, in convention, begun and held at Cambridge, on the first day of September, 1779, and continued by adjournments to the second day of March, 1780, when the convention adjourned to meet on the first Wednesday of the ensuing June. In the meantime the Constitution was submitted to the people, to be adopted by them, provided two-thirds of the votes given should be in the affirmative. When the convention assembled, it was found that the Constitution had been adopted by the requisite number of votes, and the convention accordingly Resolved "That the said Constitution or Frame of Government shall take place on the last Wednesday of October next; and not before, for any purpose, save only for that of making elections, agreeable to this resolution." The first legislature assembled at Boston, on the twenty-fifth day of October, 1780.

ARTICLES OF AMENDMENT.

The first nine Articles of Amendment were submitted, by delegates in convention assembled, November 15, 1820, to the people, and by them approved and ratified April 9, 1821.

The tenth Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1829-30, and 1830-31, respectively, and was approved and ratified by the people, May 11, 1831.

The eleventh Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1832 and 1833, and was approved by the people, November 11, 1833.

The twelfth Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1835 and 1836, and was approved by the people, the fourteenth day of November, 1836.

The thirteenth Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1839 and 1840, and was approved by the people, the sixth day of April, 1840.

The fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth Articles were adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1854 and 1855, and ratified by the people, the twenty-third day of May, 1855.

The twentieth, twenty-first and twenty-second Articles were adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1856 and 1857, and ratified by the people on the first day of May, 1857.

The twenty-third Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1858 and 1859, and ratified by the people on the ninth day of May, 1859.

The twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth Articles were adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1859 and 1860, and ratified by the people on the seventh day of May, 1860.

The twenty-sixth Article was adopted by the legislatures of the political years 1862 and 1863, and ratified by the people on the sixth day of April, 1863.

cemetery, upon such terms and conditions as they by their rules and regulations shall from time to time prescribe ; and said trustees may from time to time make such rules and regulations in regard to the mode and manner in which the proprietors shall exercise the rights granted to them in their respective lots or subdivisions of land in said cemetery as to them shall seem fit, the same not being inconsistent with this act or the laws of this Commonwealth, and such rules and regulations shall be binding upon all proprietors in the same.

SECTION 8. Said board of trustees are hereby authorized to take and hold any grant, donation or bequest of property upon trust, to apply the same or the income thereof for the improvement or embellishment of said cemetery, or for the erection, repair, preservation or renewal of any monument, fence or other erection, or for the planting and cultivation of trees, shrubs or plants in or around any lot, or for improving said premises in any other manner or form, consistent with the purposes for which said cemetery is established, according to the terms of such grant, donation or bequest ; and whenever any such grant, donation or bequest, or any deposit of any money shall be made by the proprietor of any lot in said cemetery, for the annual repair, preservation or embellishment of such lot and the erections thereon, the said trustees may give to such proprietor or his representative, an agreement or obligation in such form and upon such conditions as they may establish, binding themselves and their successors to preserve and keep in repair said lot forever, or for any such period as may be agreed on. And any sums of money so received by said trustees shall be by them invested in United States stocks, or the bonds of any of the New England states, or bonds of cities or towns in the New England states, or mortgages of real estate ; and all such property received under the provisions of this act, (unless other provision is made by the terms of any such grant, donation or bequest,) shall be under the direction of said board of trustees, and the income of such fund or funds shall be appropriated by said board of trustees, in such manner as shall, in their opinion, best promote the purposes for which said grants, donations, bequests or deposits are made ; but said board of trustees shall not be liable to make any renewal or reconstruction of any monument or other erection on any lot in said cemetery, unless such liability shall be expressed in the agreement given by them as aforesaid, or in the terms and conditions under which they accept any grant, donation or bequest.

SECTION 9. All personal property now belonging to the said cemetery, and the proceeds of all sales of lots in lands now held, or hereafter to be acquired by said cemetery, shall be forever devoted and applied to the preservation, improvement, embellishment, protection and enlargement of said cemetery, and the incidental expenses thereof, and to no other purpose.

Chap. 79. AN ACT TO ANNEX A PART OF THE TOWN OF BOLTON TO THE TOWN OF HUDSON.

Be it enacted, §c., as follows:

Boundary line changed between Bolton and Hudson.

SECTION 1. The boundary line between the town of Bolton in the county of Worcester, and the town of Hudson in the county of Middlesex, is hereby altered and established as follows, to wit:—Beginning at a stone monument on the present boundary line between the counties of Worcester and Middlesex, at the south-westerly corner of the town of Stow and at the northerly corner of the town of Hudson, thence running south eighty-six degrees west four hundred thirty-eight and twenty-one hundredths rods to a stone monument at an angle; thence south sixty-six and one-half degrees west, three hundred and forty-six rods to the present dividing line between the said town of Bolton and the town of Berlin in the county of Worcester; thence south fifty and one-fourth degrees east four hundred and forty-seven rods along the said dividing line between Bolton and Berlin to the present line of the town of Hudson; and all that portion of land with the inhabitants thereon, easterly and south-easterly of the line hereby established, is hereby set off from said town of Bolton and annexed to and made a part of said town of Hudson in the county of Middlesex; and the line between the aforesaid termini, separating said counties of Worcester and Middlesex, is hereby altered and established as herein specified: provided, however, that the several courts, civil and criminal, in and for said county of Worcester, shall have full authority to hear, determine, render judgment, issue execution, enforce and complete all suits, processes and matters arising on the territory so transferred, pending before any of said courts at the time this act shall take effect, as if this act had not been passed; and all crimes committed on said territory before the passage of this act, in which proceedings have not been commenced at the time of its passage, shall be prosecuted and punished in said county of Worcester, in the same manner as if this act had not been passed.

Proceedings in civil and criminal courts not to be affected.

SECTION 2. The selectmen of said town of Hudson shall procure, at the expense of said town, and cause to be erected at the points where the line, as herein altered and established between said town of Bolton in the county of Worcester and said town of Hudson in the county of Middlesex, crosses the several roads or highways, and also at the angles in said dividing line, good and sufficient stone monuments, lettered as the law provides; and said selectmen shall also cause suitable monuments to be maintained and continued, showing the line between said town of Bolton and said town of Hudson, as they have hitherto existed, and shall cause said line to be perambulated in like manner and with the like penalties for neglect, as now by law is or are provided in respect to the boundary lines of cities and towns, until the next apportionment of senators and representatives in pursuance of the twenty-first and twenty-second articles of amendment of the constitution; such penalties to be recovered against the said town of Hudson.

Hudson to erect stone monuments showing the dividing line between the towns.

SECTION 3. The said territory hereby transferred to said town of Hudson, with the inhabitants thereon, shall, for the purpose of electing senators, continue to be and remain a part of the said town of Bolton; and all the inhabitants residing upon the territory so transferred, shall, until otherwise provided for, by and under the constitution, always enjoy in relation to the election of senators, all the rights and privileges of, and in relation to voting in the said town of Bolton, which they would have possessed if this act had not been passed. And the said territory, hereby transferred to said town of Hudson, with the inhabitants thereon, shall also remain part of said town of Bolton for the purpose of electing the representatives to the general court to which the district of which said town of Bolton forms a part is entitled, and for the purpose of electing state and county officers, representative to congress and electors of president and vice-president of the United States, as said town of Bolton shall vote for the said officers, until the next decennial census, or until another apportionment be made in pursuance of the provisions of the constitution; and the selectmen of said town of Hudson shall make a true list of all persons within the limits of that part of Bolton, hereby annexed to said town of Hudson, qualified to vote at any such election, and shall post up the same in said town of Hudson, and shall correct the same as required by law, and keep said list so posted up in said town of Hudson until ten days prior to any election in which said list is required to be used, and shall then deliver a true copy of said list to the selectmen of said town of Bolton seven days at least before such election. And the selectmen of the said town of Bolton shall, after receiving said list, post up, revise and correct the same in the same manner as they revise the list of the voters of said town, and shall use said list at said elections with the general list of the voters of said town.

SECTION 4. The inhabitants of said territory, hereby annexed to said town of Hudson, shall be holden to pay all arrears of taxes which have been legally assessed upon them by said town of Bolton, and all taxes, heretofore assessed and not collected, shall be collected and paid to the treasurer of the town of Bolton, in the same manner as if this act had not been passed. The said town of Hudson shall pay to said town of Bolton, annually, in the month of November, one-fourth part of all state and county taxes that may be assessed in said year upon said town of Bolton previous to the next state valuation, and if the same are not paid in the said month of November in any year, the said town of Bolton may maintain an action therefor against the said town of Hudson.

SECTION 5. Said town of Hudson shall be liable for the support of all persons who now do, or shall hereafter stand in need of relief, as paupers, whose settlement was gained by, or derived from, a settlement gained or derived within the limits of that part of said town of Bolton hereby annexed to said town of Hudson; and the said town of Hudson shall also pay to the said town of Bolton, from time to time, as the expenses may be incurred by the said town of Bolton, one-fourth part of all moneys, expended by the said town of Bolton for the support or relief of any pauper or paupers who have gained a settlement in the said town of Bolton under and by virtue of the provisions of chapter two hundred and thirty of the acts of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and all acts now passed or that may hereafter be passed in addition or supplementary thereto: and if the said town of Hudson shall, upon the demand of the said town of Bolton therefor, refuse or for the space of ten days neglect to pay the same, the said town of Bolton may maintain an action therefor against the said town of Hudson.

SECTION 6. The said town of Hudson shall pay to the said town of Bolton, within three months from the passage of this act, the sum of ten thousand dollars, with interest thereon, from the twentieth day of February, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight.

Hudson to pay Bolton $10,000.

SECTION 7. The said town of Bolton shall convey to the said town of Hudson, upon request of said town, by a good and sufficient deed, the lot of land with the school-house thereon, belonging to said town of Bolton, and the appurtenances thereto belonging, situated within the annexed territory; and the said town of Hudson shall receive no other part of the corporate property, and shall not be liable to pay any part of the debt of the said town of Bolton.

Bolton to convey school-house to Hudson.

Hudson not liable for town debt.

SECTION 8. The said town of Hudson may assess upon its inhabitants, from time to time, such sums of money as the said town shall pay to the said town of Bolton, under the provisions of this act.

Hudson may assess inhabitants to pay Bolton.

SECTION 9. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved March 20, 1868.

AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF THE COUNTY OF HAMPDEN TO CONSTRUCT TWO DIKES IN THE TOWN OF WEST SPRINGFIELD.

Chap. 80.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. The county commissioners for the county of Hampden, are hereby authorized and directed to locate and cause to be constructed, in the town of West Springfield, two dikes, to wit: one on the south side of the highway between the toll-bridge and the Agawam bridge, and the other on or near the bank of the Connecticut River, between the bridge of the Boston and Albany Railroad Company and the common, for the purpose of protecting highways and private property from damage in times of freshet.

Hampden County commissioners to construct dikes in West Springfield.

SECTION 2. Before proceeding to locate the dikes, the commissioners shall cause to be published, for two successive weeks, in the newspaper having the largest circulation in the county of Hampden, a notice of the time and place at which they will meet to fix and determine the location of the dikes, and hear all parties interested in relation to the same. A description of the location of the dikes shall be recorded in the office of the town clerk of West Springfield, within twenty days after such determination.

Description of location to be recorded.

Lands on which dikes are located may be entered upon.

SECTION 3. Any person or persons employed by the commissioners, or acting under any contract with the commissioners, to construct the dikes, shall have authority to enter upon the lands on which the dikes may be located, and such adjoining lands as may be required, for the purpose of constructing the same, pursuant to the order of the commissioners.

Commissioners to apportion expense between town and the lands benefited; also, to award damages.

SECTION 4. After the completion of the dikes, the commissioners shall determine the extent of territory benefited thereby, and what portion of the expense thereof shall be borne by the town, and what portion by the owners of the lands so benefited, and the amount of damages caused by the construction of the dikes to each of such owners, and shall cause a notice of such determination, to be published in the newspaper having the largest circulation in the county, and shall also deposit a list of such owners, with the amount of damages awarded to each, in the office of the said town clerk, and also give notice thereof in said newspaper.

To give public notice of awards.

Persons or corporations aggrieved may apply for a jury.

SECTION 5. Within two months after the first publication of the notice of the determination of the commissioners, mentioned in the last preceding section, or after the list has been deposited in the clerk's office, the town, or any person or corporation aggrieved by such determination, may apply for a jury in like manner, and the proceedings thereupon shall be the same, as in the case of a jury called to act upon laying out or discontinuing highways: provided, that the application shall contain specifications of the objections of the party applying for a jury to the determination of the commissioners, to which specifications such party shall be confined upon the hearing before the jury. If, upon the hearing, the objections to the determination are not sustained, the costs arising upon the application shall be paid by the applicant, otherwise by the proprietors of the lands benefited, and the town, in the proportions required of them respectively for the construction of the dikes, and the commissioners may, if they deem it expedient, determine anew the division of the expense and the territory benefited by the dikes. Any person or corporation neglecting to apply for a jury in the manner herein provided, shall be concluded by the determination of the commissioners, and shall not be entitled to recover in an action at law or otherwise, any assessment, or any part thereof, which he may pay, or which may be collected of him under the provisions of this act.

Application to specify objections to determination of commissioners

Costs.

Determination of commissioners final, unless jury is applied for within two months of notice.

SECTION 6. After two months from the final determination of the commissioners, as to the division of the expense and the extent of territory benefited by the dikes, that portion of the expense of constructing the dikes, which shall be borne by the owners of lands in the district benefited thereby, shall be equitably and ratably assessed by three assessors, to be appointed by the commissioners, and the assessments so made shall be collected by the collector of the town. In making the assessments, the damages awarded to any owner of land, shall be deducted from the amount to be assessed upon the land of such owner; and if the damages shall exceed the benefits which the land of any owner shall derive from the dikes, the excess certified by the commissioners shall be paid to such owner by the town treasurer. Such assessment shall constitute a lien upon the real estate assessed, in the same manner as taxes are a lien upon real estate, and shall be collected in the manner provided by chapter twelve of the General Statutes for the collection of taxes. Any person aggrieved by the amount assessed to him, shall be entitled to the remedies provided in sections forty-three, forty-four and forty-five of chapter eleven of the General Statutes.

How expense to be borne by owners of lands benefited is to be assessed and collected.

Assessments to be lien upon real estate.

Person aggrieved may apply for abatement.

SECTION 7. The assessments, when collected, shall be paid to the treasurer of the town, and after such payment and the construction of the dikes have been approved by the commissioners, the town shall be liable for all expenses lawfully incurred for such construction, and any person or persons to whom money may be due for labor or materials furnished upon any contracts with the commissioners, or by their order, may recover the same of the town in an action of contract.

Assessments to be paid to town treasurer.

Town liable for expenses of construction.

SECTION 8. When any lands to be assessed under the provisions of this act shall be held by a tenant for life or years, the assessors shall determine how much damages shall be allowed, and how much shall be assessed to the tenant, and how much to the landlord or reversioner, and shall allow and assess the same accordingly.

How made, when lands are held by tenant.

SECTION 9. The dikes constructed under this act shall be held to be the property of the town, and by the town shall be maintained and repaired, and the town shall pay such part of the expense of rebuilding, maintaining and repairing the same, as required by the commissioners upon the original construction thereof, and the balance of the expense shall be assessed by the assessors of the town upon the owners of lands in the district determined by the commissioners to be benefited as herein provided, and the assessments shall

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE TOWN OF HYDE PARK.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Town composed of parts of Dorchester, Dedham and Milton.

Boundaries.

SECTION 1. All the territory now within the towns of Dorchester, Dedham and Milton, in the county of Norfolk, comprised within the following limits, that is to say : beginning at the north-easterly side of Paul's Bridge, so called, where it crosses Neponset River from Milton to Dedham ; thence running down the Neponset River by the thread of the stream to a point two thousand and thirteen feet below the lower side of Paul's Bridge ; thence by a line running north sixty-six and one-third degrees east (magnetic,) five thousand three hundred and forty-four feet, to a point in the field north-west of E. W. Capen's house, and measuring one hundred and fifteen feet on a course south, eighty-seven degrees east (magnetic,) from an oak tree ; thence north ten degrees (magnetic,) two thousand seven hundred and eight feet to the boundary wall of land of James M. Robbins ; thence by said wall and a continuation thereof north twenty-five and one-third degrees west (magnetic,) one thousand seven hundred and fifty-seven feet to the Neponset River ; then running north-easterly by a straight line passing from said last mentioned point, through a point distant fifty feet north-westerly from the north-westerly corner of the house of Amor Hollingsworth to Neponset River ; then running north-easterly, following the said Neponset River to a point where the line of the said river intersects a straight line drawn from a point on the westerly line of Brush Hill Road, distant eleven hundred feet south-westerly from the junction of Brush Hill Road and Brush Hill Turnpike to a point on the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad, distant fourteen hundred feet north-easterly from the railroad bridge over River Street in Dorchester at the station on said railroad now called River Street Station ; then crossing the said Neponset River in continuation of the said line, and continuing north-westerly in the same course, and in a straight line, to the present boundary line between Dorchester and West Roxbury ; then running south-westerly on the present boundary line between Dorchester and West Roxbury, to a monument on the present boundary line between Dorchester and Dedham, being the extreme westerly point of the present town of Dorchester; then running south-easterly on the present boundary line between the towns of Dedham and Dorchester, one hundred and nine rods, to a monument on a hill, being one of the monuments between the towns of Dedham and Dorchester; then running southerly in a straight line to a point in the centre of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad, distant one hundred and forty-six rods westerly from the point where the centre line of said railroad crosses the centre line of the Boston and Providence Railroad at Readville, so called; then running south-easterly in a straight line to a monument on Neponset River, at the corner of the towns of Milton, Canton and Dedham, being the extreme northerly point of the town of Canton; then running north-easterly on said river to the point of beginning: is hereby incorporated into a town by the name of Hyde Park; and said town of Hyde Park is hereby invested with all the powers, privileges, rights and immunities, and is subject to all the duties and requisitions to which other towns are entitled and subjected by the constitution and laws of this Commonwealth.

Powers and duties.

SECTION 2. The inhabitants of said town of Hyde Park shall be holden to pay all arrears of taxes which have been legally assessed upon them by the towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham, respectively; and all taxes heretofore assessed and not collected, shall be collected and paid to the treasurers of the towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham, respectively, in the same manner as if this act had not been passed; and until the next general valuation of estates in this Commonwealth, the town of Hyde Park shall annually pay over to the said towns of Dorchester, Dedham and Milton, respectively, the proportion of any state or county tax which the said towns of Dorchester, Dedham and Milton, respectively, may be required to pay upon the inhabitants or estates hereby set off; said proportion to be ascertained and determined by the respective valuations of the said towns of Dorchester, Dedham and Milton, next preceeding the passage of this act.

Taxes.

SECTION 3. Said towns of Dorchester, Milton, Dedham and Hyde Park shall be respectively liable for the support of all persons who now do or shall hereafter stand in need of relief as paupers, whose settlement was gained by or derived from a settlement gained or derived within their respective limits.

Support of paupers.

SECTION 4. The towns of Dorchester, Milton, Dedham and Hyde Park shall retain and own the corporate property within their respective limits, and the town of Hyde Park shall not be liable for any portion of the debts of the other three towns, nor be entitled to any of their corporate property except that included within its limits.

Provisions for choice of state and federal officers.

SECTION 5. The town of Hyde Park, for the purpose of electing representatives to congress, senators and representatives to the general court and members of the governor's council, until the next decennial census, or until another apportionment be made, shall remain a part of said towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham, respectively, and vote therefor at such places, respectively, as the said towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham shall vote; and the selectmen of Hyde Park shall make a true list of all persons within their town qualified to vote at every such election, and shall post up the same in said town of Hyde Park, and shall correct the same as required by law, and shall deliver a true list of all such voters as are entitled to vote in said towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham, respectively, to the selectmen thereof, seven days at least before such election, to be used thereat.

Certain streets may be extended, and, when completed, to be public ways of Milton.

SECTION 6. The selectmen of the town of Hyde Park, subject to the approval of the inhabitants according to law, may extend any public streets, highways or townways, running south-easterly from Neponset River, which it may lay out and make within its own limits to any point or points on Brush Hill Road, in the town of Milton, south-westerly of the land now owned by James M. Robbins; and all parts of such streets and ways which may be within the town of Milton shall become public ways of Milton, whenever they shall have been laid out and completed by the town of Hyde Park to the satisfaction of the county commissioners of the county of Norfolk.

First meeting for choice of town officers, how called.

SECTION 7. Any justice of the peace within and for the county of Norfolk may issue his warrant, directed to any principal inhabitant of the town of Hyde Park, requiring him to notify and warn the inhabitants thereof, qualified to vote in town affairs, to meet at the time and place appointed, for the purpose of choosing all such town officers as towns are by law authorized and required to choose at their annual meetings; and said warrant shall be served by posting up copies thereof, all attested by the person to whom the same is directed, in three public places in said town, seven days at least before such meeting. Such justice, or in his absence, such principal inhabitant, shall preside until the choice of moderator in said meeting. The selectmen of the towns of Dorchester, Milton and Dedham shall, before said meeting, prepare a list of voters from their respective towns within said Hyde Park qualified to vote at said meeting, and shall deliver the same to the person presiding at such meeting before the choice of a moderator thereof.

SECTION 8. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved April 22, 1868.

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE WHITIN MACHINE WORKS.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

SECTION 1. John C. Whitin, Josiah Lasell, John M. Whitin, their associates and successors, are hereby made a corporation by the name of the Whitin Machine Works, for the manufacture of castings, and various kinds of machinery ; also, for the manufacture of fabrics from cotton and other fibrous materials, in the town of Northbridge, in the county of Worcester ; with all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties, restrictions and liabilities set forth in all general laws, which are now or may hereafter be in force relating to manufacturing corporations.

SECTION 2. The capital stock of said corporation shall not exceed one million dollars, and shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each ; and said corporation may hold such real and personal estate, as may be necessary or convenient for the purposes set forth in this act, and shall not commence business until five hundred thousand dollars of its capital stock shall have been paid in.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

persons, being applicants therefor, and as many other such persons as in their opinion the public convenience may require, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter provided.

License commissioners to license in counties of Suffolk and Nantucket.

Term of office.

SECTION 3. The powers and duties of the county commissioners under this act, shall, for the counties of Suffolk and Nantucket, be vested in and discharged by three license commissioners for each county. The said commissioners shall be chosen by the people of said counties at an election to be held on the third Tuesday of May next, to hold office, one for one year, one for two years, and one for three years, from the first day of January, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and until their respective successors shall be qualified; and thereafter shall be chosen at the regular November election in each year, one commissioner for each of said counties, to hold office for the term of three years, from the first Wednesday of January following his election, and until his successor is qualified. Vacancies occurring in the office of license commissioner shall be filled at the next November election, for the unexpired term, and the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the council, shall appoint a commissioner to hold office during the interval.

Vacancies, how filled.

Compensation.

The said license commissioners shall be paid from the treasury of the counties aforesaid, five dollars each, with their necessary travelling expenses, stationery, clerk hire and office rent, for every day actually employed in the duties of their office, and they may appoint a clerk and fix a reasonable sum as his salary.

Licenses, to whom may be granted and upon what terms.

SECTION 4. Licenses shall be granted only to the following classes of persons, for the purposes, and on payment of the fees hereafter named, to wit:

First. Licensed innholders, to sell to be drunk on the premises, who shall pay a fee of one hundred dollars.

Second. Licensed common victuallers, to sell to be drunk on the premises, who shall pay a fee of one hundred dollars.

Third. Liquor dealers engaged in no other business in connection therewith, to sell not to be drunk on the premises, who shall pay a fee of one hundred dollars.

Fourth. Liquor dealers engaged in no other business connected therewith, to sell to be drunk on the premises, who shall pay a fee of one hundred dollars.

Fifth. Grocers, apothecaries and druggists: to sell not to be drunk on the premises, who shall pay a fee of fifty dollars.

Sixth. Brewers and distillers. Brewers and distillers may sell intoxicating liquors, of their own manufacture, and at their place of manufacture, or their regular place of business, in quantities of not less than thirty gallons, the whole to be exported from the state, and no part thereof to be used therein, and the burden shall be upon such persons, in any proceeding under this act, to prove that the sale was for exportation, as aforesaid. Brewers and distillers may be licensed to sell not to be drunk on the premises, for a fee of one hundred dollars. Any person or persons, non-residents of this Commonwealth, engaged in selling, trading or vending intoxicating liquors, and any hawker, peddler, or travelling agent, engaged in selling for any person or persons, who are non-residents of this Commonwealth, or who have no licensed place of business established therein, are hereby prohibited from making sales, offering for sale, vending, trading, or contracting, in any manner whatsoever, in intoxicating liquors, within the limits of this Commonwealth. And any person so selling, offering for sale, vending, trading or contracting, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and imprisonment not exceeding six months.

Non-residents and their agents, and persons not licensed, prohibited from selling liquors.

Penalty.

SECTION 5. If any person having a license to sell to be drunk on the premises shall be found to have been at the time the license was granted engaged in or shall afterwards engage in the business of a grocer, apothecary, druggist, brewer or distiller, on the premises described in his license, or in any place connected therewith, his license shall thereby be forfeited, and he shall not be licensed for a period of one year after the expiration of the term of the forfeited license, and no license shall be granted to be exercised on the premises described in the license so forfeited, for the residue of the term thereof.

License to sell to be drunk on the premises, how forfeited.

SECTION 6. The inhabitants of any city or town may, on the third Monday in May next, and thereafter, at their regular annual meeting for the choice of city or town officers, vote that no license shall be granted in such town or city, which will authorize the sale, to be drunk on the premises, of either distilled or fermented liquors, or both. In which case the commissioners shall grant no such license, except to licensed innholders to sell to their actual and bonâ fide guests.

Not to be granted, except to licensed innholders, when cities and towns so vote

SECTION 7. Every license shall be signed by the major part of the commissioners and recorded; shall bear the date of the day when issued; shall specify the building in which sales of liquors are authorized to be made, and where practicable, the part of the building; and whether said liquors may or may not be drunk on the premises of the person licensed; and shall expire on the first day of May, unless sooner adjudged to be void. One dollar shall in all cases be paid to the clerk of the commissioners, by the person receiving the license, in addition to the fee herein provided.

Commissioners to report to city and town authorities licenses they intend to issue: if objected to not to issue until after full hearing had.

SECTION 8. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to report to the mayor and aldermen of each city, and to the selectmen of each town, within their respective counties, the licenses they intend to issue within such city or town; which report shall be made fourteen days before the license would take effect. And if the mayor and aldermen or the selectmen shall, before the time for the license to take effect, in writing object to any license on the ground of the personal unfitness of the licensee to exercise the license in question, such license shall not be issued unless such commissioners, after a full hearing, shall otherwise determine.

Provisions concerning forfeiture of license.

SECTION 9. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to revoke any license upon proof satisfactory to them that the licensee has violated, or permitted to be violated, any of the provisions of this act, after a summary hearing of the licensee, or notice and reasonable opportunity for him to be heard. After such revocation, the licensee shall not be licensed for one year after the expiration of the term of the license so revoked; and no license shall be granted to be exercised on the premises described in the license so revoked, for the residue of the term of the revoked license. And the commissioners shall give to the municipal authorities of any city or town, notice of the revocation of any license granted to be exercised therein.

Liquors to be drunk on premises not to be sold between twelve at night and five in the morning.

SECTION 10. A license to sell intoxicating liquors, to be drunk on the premises of the person licensed, shall confer no authority to sell between the hours of twelve o'clock in the night and five o'clock in the next morning, nor during any part of the Lord's day: provided, however, that innholders shall have the right at all times to furnish their guests with any article which they shall by license be authorized to sell, but not to keep or maintain a public bar on the Lord's day; and provided, that apothecaries and druggists may sell liquors at such times, on a requisition of a licensed medical practitioner therefor, made out and signed during the prohibited period or periods, not to be drunk on the premises.

Innholders and druggists excepted.

Intoxicated persons and minors.

SECTION 11. No licensed person shall sell intoxicating liquor to any intoxicated person, or to any person under twenty-one years of age.

Fees for licenses, to whom paid and how applied.

SECTION 12. All fees for licenses under this act shall be paid to the commissioners of the respective counties wherein the same are granted; and the said commissioners shall, on the first day of every alternate month, beginning with the month of June in each year, pay over to the treasurer of each town or city one-half of the fees received by them for licenses, to be exercised in such town or city, and the residue of their receipts to the treasurer of the Commonwealth; and any officer neglecting to make such payment shall forfeit the sum of fifty dollars for each and every day said sum received by him as aforesaid shall be retained in violation of this section.

Penalty for neglect.

SECTION 13. The several commissioners shall, on the first day of every alternate month, beginning with the month of June in each year, return to the secretary of the Commonwealth the name of each person licensed, his place of residence, the date and character of his license, and the amount of his license fee. Any officer neglecting to make such return shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars for each offence.

Return to secretary of the Commonwealth.

Penalty.

SECTION 14. The said commissioners, and the mayor and aldermen of any city, and the selectmen of any town, and any police officer or constable specially authorized by them, may at any time enter upon the premises of any persons licensed under this act, to ascertain the manner in which such persons conduct their business, and to preserve order therein. And such officers may at any time take samples for analysis from any liquors kept by such licensed persons; and in case said liquors are found to be pure or of good quality, the expense of such analysis shall be paid by the treasurer of the city or town whose officers demanded the analysis; but if such liquors are found to be impure or of bad quality, the expense of the analysis shall be paid by the licensed person, and may be recovered upon a complaint made by the treasurer of the city or town in which said samples were taken, against such licensed person, who shall thereupon forfeit his license, and shall not be licensed again within three years, and no license shall be granted to be exercised on the premises described in the license so forfeited, for the residue of the term thereof. Proceedings for the recovery of the expense of said analysis, and for the decree of forfeiture of said license, may be had before any municipal or police court, or any trial justice, and such court or justice may also order such liquors, found to be impure or of bad quality, to be destroyed.

Officers may enter premises of licensed persons, may take liquors for analysis; expense of analysis, how paid.

Impure liquors to be destroyed.

SECTION 15. When any person, by the excessive use of intoxicating liquor, injures his health, exposes his family to want or violence, or the town or city of his settlement to expense, the mayor and aldermen and the selectmen of such town or city, shall, in writing, forbid any licensed person to sell or deliver to him any such liquor, for the residue of the year of his license; and they may, in like manner, forbid any person licensed in any other city or town, to sell or deliver such liquor to such person, during the time aforesaid; and said prohibition shall be recorded by the city or town clerks, in a record book of said city or town, and the mayor and aldermen and selectmen, shall, in like manner, from year to year, renew such prohibition, as to such persons as, in their opinion, shall not have reformed.

Penalty for selling to prohibited person.

SECTION 16. If any person during the time of such prohibition, and having notice thereof, whether by the official notice aforesaid or otherwise, shall give or sell to, or purchase or procure for or in behalf of, any such prohibited person, any intoxicating liquor, he shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisonment in the house of correction for a term not exceeding six months.

Compensation to wife, minor children and others, for loss or injury from selling to prohibited person.

SECTION 17. A married woman may have an action of tort in her own name, against any person who has sold or given to, or purchased or procured for her husband any liquors, in violation of the two preceding sections, and may recover compensation for any loss or injury accruing to her thereby, and whatever she may recover shall be her own property; and any child of a person living with, and dependent in whole or in part upon said person to or for whom any liquor may have been sold, given, purchased or procured in violation of the two preceding sections, may have a like action in his own name, or if a minor in the name of guardian or next friend, and may recover compensation for any loss or injury accruing to him thereby, and whatever may be recovered shall be his own property. And any person may have a like action to recover compensation for any loss or injury accruing to him by means of any such sale, gift, purchase, or transfer in violation of the two preceding sections.

Penalties.

SECTION 18. Any person convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and confinement at hard labor in the house of correction not exceeding six months.

Any licensed person so convicted, shall in addition to said penalties forfeit his license, and shall not again be licensed for the period of one year after the expiration of the term of his license; and no license shall be granted to any person under this act to be exercised on the premises described in the said forfeited license during the residue of the term thereof.

Proceedings in case terms of this act are violated.

SECTION 19. If a violation of the terms or provisions of this act shall be committed on the premises in which a license is authorized to be exercised, the licensee shall forfeit his license, unless he shall satisfy the authorities having power to revoke the same or to decree it forfeit, that the violation took place without his knowledge and against his will, and that he had used due care and diligence to prevent the occurrence thereof. In case of a violation of any of the terms of the license or of any of the provisions of this act, the license may be revoked by the commissioners, as provided in this act, or it may be decreed forfeit as part of the judicial decree or judgment where proceedings are had before any court or justice for any other purpose named in this act, and the pendency of such proceedings shall not suspend or interfere with the authority of the commissioners to revoke the same.

SECTION 20. The delivery of intoxicating liquor in or from any building, booth, stand or other place, except a private dwelling-house, or in or from any private dwelling-house, if any part thereof or its dependencies is used as an inn, eating-house or shop of any kind, or other place of common resort,—such delivery in either case being to any person not bonâ fide a resident therein,—shall be prima facie evidence that such delivery is a sale of intoxicating liquors.

What to be deemed evidence of a sale.

SECTION 21. The terms intoxicating liquors or liquors in this act shall be construed to include ale, porter, strong beer, lager beer, cider and all wines, as well as distilled spirits.

What to be deemed "intoxicating liquors."

SECTION 22. Every person licensed as aforesaid, shall keep a true account of the liquors consigned to him for sale, or purchased by him, and the original bills of sale or invoices of the same, specifying the name and place of business of the person of whom the same were purchased, and the date of each purchase and the price thereof; and he shall, before the first day of every alternate month, beginning with the month of May in each year during which such license shall be in force, return to the treasurer of the city or town within which the business under such license is carried on, a true account, under oath, of all liquors sold, given away or disposed of by him during the then preceding two months, with the true value thereof, according to the price at which the same were sold; and he shall thereupon within the five days from and after the said first days of every alternate month respectively, pay to said treasurer or to the collector of taxes of said city or town, at their offices respectively, the following tax upon the value of the liquors so sold, given away or disposed of, to wit: innholders, common victuallers, and liquor dealers selling to be drunk on the premises, two per cent.; brewers, licensed under the fourth section of this act, and vendors of case of false returns; penalties.

malt liquors, to be carried away and not to be drunk on the premises, at the rate of five cents a barrel of thirty gallons; all other licensed persons one per centum. And in case the city or town treasurer to whom such return is made as aforesaid, shall have reason to suspect or believe that the said return is false or fraudulent, and shall so declare under oath, the person making such return shall, when requested, produce to the said treasurer, or to any other person or persons by him duly authorized to examine the same, his books and accounts showing the amount of his purchases, consignments and sales, and his bills and vouchers therefor, and shall make true answers in writing, to be signed by him and under oath, to any questions proposed to him by said treasurer or other person or persons duly authorized by him as aforesaid, in relation to said liquors and his dealings in respect to the same. A failure to make any return or payment required to be made under this section, or to comply with any other of the provisions of the same, or any false swearing in such return, or in the answers to the questions which may be proposed as aforesaid, shall be a forfeiture of said license, and upon satisfactory evidence thereof, said commissioners shall revoke and annul the same, and no license shall be granted to the licensee for the period of one year after the expiration of the term of the license so revoked.

Proceedings when returns and payments are not made.

SECTION 23. AN ACT TO AUTHORIZE THE CITY OF BOSTON AND THE TOWN OF WEST ROXBURY TO IMPROVE STONY BROOK AND ITS TRIBUTARIES.

Chap. 223

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

SECTION 1. The city of Boston and the town of West Roxbury, for the purpose of sewerage, may remove obstructions in or over Stony Brook and the tributaries thereof, so far as the said brook and tributaries flow within the limits of said city and said town respectively; may divert the water and alter the course and deepen the channel thereof; and the more effectually to make the said improvements, may take or purchase land, not exceeding four rods in width, on either side of the present channel of said brook and of its tributaries, or of any channel into which said waters may be diverted, within the limits of said city and town respectively. Said city or town, as the case may be, shall, within sixty days from the time they shall take any of said lands, file in the office of the registry of deeds for the county in which said lands are situate, a description of the land so taken, as certain as is required in a common conveyance of land, and a statement that the same are taken pursuant to the provisions of this act; which said statement shall be signed by the mayor of said city, or the selectmen of said town, as the case may be; and the title to all land so taken shall vest in said city or said town, as the case may be.

Boston and West Roxbury may remove obstructions from Stony Brook.

May divert the water, alter channel, &c.

May take or purchase land.

To file description of lands taken.

Statement to be signed by mayor or selectmen.

SECTION 2. Any person injured in his property by any of the acts done by said city or town, under the first section of this act, shall, upon application to the mayor and aldermen of said city, or the selectmen of said town, according as said property is situate in said city or town, have compensation therefor, the amount thereof to be determined by said mayor and aldermen or said selectmen. And said mayor and aldermen, or said selectmen, as the case may be, shall finally adjudicate upon the question of damages, within thirty days after the filing of said application, unless the parties agree in writing to extend the time. In case damages are awarded, payment shall be made forthwith by said city or town, as the case may be.

Compensation for damages.

SECTION 3. If the applicant is aggrieved, either by the estimate of his damages or by a refusal or neglect within thirty days to estimate the same, he may, within three months from the expiration of said thirty days or of the extended time, as provided in the second section, apply for a jury and have his damages assessed in the manner provided when land is taken in laying out highways. If the damages are increased by the jury, the damages and costs shall be paid by the city or town, as the case may be ; otherwise, the costs arising on such application shall be paid by the applicant.

Expense of improvement, how and by whom to be paid.

SECTION 4. All the expenses of improving said brook and its tributaries, authorized by this act, including all damages paid under the preceding sections, shall be paid by said city or town, according as they may be incurred within their respective limits. But the mayor and aldermen of said city and the selectmen of said town may assess upon the estates within their respective limits bordering upon said brook and its tributaries, a part of the expenses incurred respectively by them, not exceeding however one-half thereof, and not exceeding the amount of the benefit in proportion to the benefit which they may adjudge said estates to have sustained by said improvements.

Assessments to be lien upon real estate for one year.

Estate may be sold as for non-payment of taxes.

SECTION 5. All assessments made under the fourth section of this act shall constitute a lien on the real estate assessed for one year after they are laid, and may, together with all incidental costs and expenses, be levied by sale thereof, (except as provided in the sixth section of this act,) if the assessment is not paid within three months after a written demand of payment, made either upon the person assessed or upon any person then occupying the estate, or posted upon the premises ; such sale to be conducted in like manner as sales for the non-payment of taxes.

Assessments may be apportioned into three parts, to be paid in three years.

SECTION 6. If the owner of any estate, assessed as provided in the fifth section, desires to have the amount of said assessment apportioned, he shall give notice thereof in writing to the board of aldermen or to the selectmen, as the case may be, at any time before a demand is made upon him for the payment thereof ; and said board of aldermen or selectmen shall thereupon apportion the said amount into three equal parts, which apportionment shall be certified to the assessors, and the said assessors shall add one of said equal parts to the annual tax of said estate each year for the three years next ensuing.

Person aggrieved by assessment may apply for a jury.

SECTION 7. Any person aggrieved by the assessment under the fourth section of this act may, within three months after a written demand for payment, as provided in the fifth section of this act, petition for a jury or committee in the same manner as appeals are made when land is taken in laying out highways. If the assessment is not confirmed by the jury, the costs of the application shall be paid by the city or town, as the case may be ; otherwise, the same shall be paid by the applicant.

Costs.

SECTION 8. When the improvements authorized by this act shall have been completed, that part of Stony Brook and its tributaries flowing within said city and town shall be and remain under the control of said city and town respectively: provided, however, that the city of Boston shall neither cause nor permit any obstructions to the flow of the waters from said town of West Roxbury.

Stony Brook to be under control of Boston and W. Roxbury.

Proviso.

SECTION 9. This act shall not be construed to authorize the said city or town to restrain or dam up any of the streams now flowing into Stony Brook or into the tributaries thereof.

Streams not to be obstructed.

Approved May 19, 1868.

in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-four, and may deposit on call in such national banking associations, and receive interest therefor, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as they are now authorized to invest in the stock of, and to deposit in certain national banking associations, under the provisions of chapter two of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

SECTION 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved May 19, 1868.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT TO ESTABLISH THE CITY OF NEW BEDFORD.

Chap. 228

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. The inhabitants of the city of New Bedford shall continue to be a body politic and corporate under the name of the city of New Bedford, and as such shall have, exercise and enjoy all the rights, immunities, powers and privileges, and shall be subject to all the duties and obligations, now incumbent upon and belonging to said city as a municipal corporation.

New Bedford to continue to be a city.

SECTION 2. The administration of the fiscal, prudential and municipal affairs of said city, with the conduct and government thereof, shall be vested in one principal officer, to be styled the mayor; one council of six, to be denominated the board of aldermen; and one council of twenty-four, to be denominated the common council, each of which boards shall have a negative upon the other. The two boards in their joint capacity shall be denominated the city council; and the mayor and the members thereof shall be sworn to the faithful performance of the duties of their respective offices. A majority of each board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; and no member of either board shall receive any compensation for his services, or be eligible to, or hold any office under the city government, (the mayoralty excepted,) the salary of which is payable from the city treasury.

Administration of affairs vested in mayor and boards of aldermen and common council.

Boards in joint capacity styled city council.

Members and mayor to be sworn.

Quorum.

Boards to serve without compensation, &c.

SECTION 3. The meetings of the citizens for the election of municipal officers shall be held on the first Tuesday of December annually; and the said officers so chosen shall enter upon the duties of their respective offices on the first Tuesday of January succeeding their election, and shall hold their said offices for the term of one year thereafter, and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead, except the assessor at large, and the members of the school committee, who shall severally hold their respective offices for three years from the first Tuesday of January succeeding their election, and until others are chosen and qualified in their stead.

Municipal officers to be elected annually on first Tuesday of December.

Terms of office.

Warrants for meetings, how to be issued and served.

All warrants for the meetings of citizens for municipal purposes, to be held either in wards or in general meetings, shall be issued by the mayor and aldermen, and shall be in such form, and shall be served, executed and returned at such time, and in such manner as the city council may by ordinance direct.

Election qualifications, and duties of wardens, clerks and inspectors of elections.

SECTION 4. On the first Tuesday in December, annually, there shall be chosen by ballot, in each of the wards of the city of New Bedford, a warden, clerk, and three inspectors of elections, who shall be different persons, residents of the ward in which they are chosen, whose term of office shall commence on the first Tuesday of January next ensuing, and they shall hold their offices for one year thereafter, and until others have been chosen and qualified in their stead; and the warden, clerk and inspectors, before entering upon their duties, shall respectively make oath, faithfully and impartially to discharge their several duties relative to all elections, which oath may be administered by the city clerk to the warden, and by the warden to the ward clerk and inspectors, or to either or all of said officers, by any justice of the peace for the county of Bristol. A certificate that said oath has been taken shall be entered upon the records of the ward by the clerk thereof.

It shall be the duty of such warden to preside at all ward meetings, with the powers of moderators of town meetings; and if at any such meetings the warden shall be absent, the clerk, and in case of the absence of the clerk, an inspector shall preside, according to seniority of age, until a warden pro tempore shall be chosen by ballot.

The clerk shall record all the proceedings, and certify the votes given, and shall within twenty-four hours after the closing of the polls deliver to the city clerk, for safe keeping, all such records and journals, together with all documents and papers, held by him in such capacity. It shall be the duty of the inspectors of elections to assist the warden in receiving, assorting and counting the votes. In case of failure to elect a warden, ward clerk, or the whole number of inspectors, the same proceedings shall be had as are herein-after provided for the election of councilmen.

Election and qualifications of mayor, aldermen and common councilmen.

SECTION 5. The mayor, and six aldermen, one alderman being selected from each ward, shall be elected by the qualified voters of the city at large, voting in their respective wards; and four common councilmen shall be elected from and by the voters of each ward, being residents in the wards when elected. All said officers shall be chosen by ballot.

SECTION 6. On the first Tuesday in December, annually, the qualified voters in each ward shall give in their votes for mayor, aldermen and common councilmen, as provided in the preceding section. All the votes so given shall be assorted, counted, declared and registered in open ward meeting, by causing the names of persons voted for, and the number of votes given for each, to be written in the ward record at length. The clerk of the ward, within twenty-four hours after such election, shall deliver to the persons elected members of the common council certificates of their election, signed by the warden and clerk, and by a majority of the inspectors of elections, and shall deliver to the city clerk a copy of the records of such election, certified in like manner: provided, however, that if the choice of members of the common council, school committee, overseers of the poor and assistant assessors shall not be effected on that day, the meeting may be adjourned by the presiding officer of the wards for the purpose of filling such vacancies, to a time not less than twenty-four, or more than seventy-two hours subsequent to the hour when the polls were opened at the first balloting.

Proceedings at and after meetings for elections of mayor, &c.

Proviso as to adjournment of meetings.

SECTION 7. The board of aldermen shall, as soon as conveniently may be, examine the copies of the records of the several wards, certified as aforesaid, and shall cause the person elected mayor, to be notified in writing of his election; but if it shall appear that no person has received a plurality of the votes, or if the person elected shall refuse to accept the office, the board shall forthwith issue its warrants for a new election, and the same proceedings shall be had in all respects as are herein before provided for the choice of mayor, and repeated from time to time until a mayor shall be chosen.

Mayor elect to be notified.

Proceedings in case of failure to elect mayor or aldermen, or refusal to serve.

If it shall appear that the whole number of aldermen have not been elected, the same proceedings shall be had as are herein before provided, in regard to the office of mayor. Each alderman shall be notified in writing of his election, by the mayor and aldermen for the time being.

In case of the decease or resignation of the mayor, the board of aldermen and common council shall respectively by vote declare that a vacancy exists, and the cause thereof; whereupon the two boards shall meet in convention, and elect a mayor to fill such vacancy; and the mayor thus elected shall hold his office during the remainder of the year, and until another shall be elected and qualified in his stead.

—in case of vacancy in office of mayor or aldermen.

In absence of mayor, who to preside.

In case of the absence of the mayor or of his inability to perform the duties of his office, the board of aldermen shall elect one of their number a presiding officer, who shall perform all the duties incumbent on the mayor, until the inability shall be removed.

Mayor and city council to meet in convention on first Tuesday of January and be qualified.

SECTION 8. The mayor, aldermen and common councilmen elect shall, on the first Tuesday of January, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, meet in convention, when the oath required by this act shall be administered to the mayor, by any justice of the peace for the county of Bristol, and to the members of the two boards present, by the mayor or city clerk, or by any justice of the peace for the county of Bristol; and a certificate setting forth that such oath has been taken, shall be entered upon the journals of the mayor and aldermen, and of the common council, by their respective clerks.

Certificate of qualification to be recorded.

Record in case of failure to elect mayor.

Whenever it shall appear that a mayor has not been elected previously to the said first Tuesday in January, the mayor and aldermen for the time being shall make a record of the fact, an attested copy of which the city clerk shall read at the opening of the convention, to be held as aforesaid on the first Tuesday of January.

Organization of common council.

After the oaths have been administered as aforesaid, the two branches shall separate, and the common council shall be organized by the choice of a president and clerk, to hold their offices during the pleasure of the common council; the clerk to be under oath faithfully to perform the duties of his office.

Proceeding if the mayor or members of city council are absent at organization.

In case of the absence of the mayor elect, on the first Tuesday of January, the city government shall organize itself in the manner herein before provided, and may proceed to business in the same manner as if the mayor were present; and the oath of office may at any time thereafter, in convention of the two branches, be administered to the mayor, and to any member of the city council absent at the organization. Each board shall keep a record of its own proceedings, and shall be judge of the election of its own members.

Each board to keep a record and judge election of members.

Duties of mayor.

SECTION 9. The mayor shall be the chief executive officer of the city. It shall be his duty to be vigilant and active in causing the laws, ordinances and regulations of the city to be enforced, and to keep a general supervision over the conduct of all subordinate officers; and he may, whenever the public good shall require, remove any officer over whose appointment he has, in accordance with the provisions of this charter, exercised the power of nomination.

He may call special meetings of the board of aldermen and common council, or either of them, when, in his opinion, the interests of the city require, by causing notices to be left at the usual dwelling-place of each member of the board or boards to be convened.

He shall, from time to time, communicate to both boards such information, and recommend such measures as the business and interests of the city may, in his opinion, require.

The mayor, when present, shall preside in the board of aldermen, and in convention of the two branches, but shall have a casting vote only.

The mayor shall receive for his services a salary to be fixed on or before the first Tuesday in June, annually, for the succeeding year, by the city council; which salary shall not exceed the sum of fifteen hundred dollars annually, and he shall receive no other compensation: but such salary shall not be increased or diminished during the period for which he is chosen.

Salary.

Not to be changed during period for which chosen.

SECTION 10. The executive power of said city generally, together with the administration of the police, and all the powers now vested in the selectmen of towns by the general laws of the Commonwealth, by particular laws relative to the powers and duties of said selectmen, or by the usages, votes and ordinances of said city of New Bedford, shall be and hereby are vested in the mayor and aldermen, as fully and amply as if the same were herein specially enumerated.

Executive powers vested in mayor and aldermen.

The mayor and aldermen may require any person appointed a marshal or constable of the city, to give bonds, with such security and to such amount as they may deem reasonable and proper; upon which bonds the like proceedings and remedies may be had as are by law provided in case of constables' bonds required by the selectmen of towns in this Commonwealth.

Powers regarding requirement of bonds by constables, &c.

All meetings of the mayor and aldermen (when they are not engaged in executive business,) and of the city council and common council, shall be open to the public.

Meetings to be open, except, &c.

SECTION 11. The mayor and aldermen shall be surveyors of highways.

Surveyors of highways.

SECTION 12. The city council shall annually, as soon after their organization as may be convenient, elect by joint ballot in convention, a city marshal and assistant-marshals and constables, who shall hold their offices until others are chosen and qualified in their stead; and all other needful police officers, who shall hold office for such time as the city council shall by standing ordinance prescribe: provided, how- ever, that no person shall be chosen a marshal or constable, or to any other office in the department of the police of the city, who shall not have been nominated to the city council by the mayor.

Proviso.

Subordinate officers to be appointed as prescribed by ordinance.

The city council shall in such manner as their ordinance shall prescribe, appoint or elect all subordinate officers (whose appointment or election is not otherwise provided for,) for the ensuing year. In case of a vacancy in any of said offices, the same shall be filled in the manner prescribed in this section.

Treasurer and city clerk.

The city council shall in the month of April, annually, elect by joint ballot, in convention, a city treasurer, who shall be collector of taxes, and a city clerk, for the ensuing year, who shall hold their respective offices until others are chosen and qualified in their stead. If by reason of temporary absence or disability, the city clerk is prevented from performing the duties of his office, the board of aldermen may appoint a city clerk pro tempore, who shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duties, and shall hold the office until the disability shall be removed, or a vacancy is declared and filled in the manner prescribed in this section. The city council shall define the duties and fix the compensations of all officers appointed or elected by them, when such duties and compensations shall not be defined and fixed by the laws of the Commonwealth.

City clerk pro tempore may be elected, if clerk absent.

Officers' duties and compensations to be defined by city council.

Appropriations.

The city council shall take care that no money be paid from the treasury unless granted or appropriated; shall secure a just and prompt accountability by requiring bonds, with sufficient penalties and sureties, from all persons intrusted with the receipt, custody or disbursement of money; shall have the care and superintendence of the city buildings, and the custody and management of all city property, with the power to let or sell what may be legally sold; and to purchase property, real or personal, in the name and for the use of the city, whenever the interest or convenience of the inhabitants may in their judgment require it.

Accountability.

Care of public property.

Power to sell and purchase.

Account of receipts and expenditures to be published.

The city council shall as often as once in a year cause to be published for the use of the inhabitants, a particular account of the receipts and expenditures, a schedule of the city property, and a statement of the city debt.

Powers of city council concerning streets and ways.

SECTION 13. The mayor and aldermen shall have the same power in relation to laying out, widening, altering or discontinuing any street or way, and the allowance of damages, which selectmen of towns now by law have; and the city council shall have the same power in relation to the acceptance, widening, altering or discontinuing of streets and ways, which the inhabitants of towns now by law have.

Any person aggrieved by any proceedings of the mayor and aldermen or city council, in the exercise of such powers, shall have the same right of appeal to the county commissioners of the county of Bristol as is given by the laws of this Commonwealth to appeal from the decision of selectmen or inhabitants of towns.

Appeals for damages.

SECTION 14. All the power and authority by law vested in the board of health for towns shall be vested in the city council, to be carried into execution by the appointment of health commissioners, or in such manner as the city council may deem expedient.

Health officers.

SECTION 15. The city council shall have authority to cause drains and common sewers to be laid through any streets or private lands, paying the owners such damage, as they may sustain thereby, and to require all persons to pay a reasonable sum for the privilege of opening any drain into said public drains or common sewers.

Regulations concerning drains and sewers.

SECTION 16. The city council may establish ordinances for the inspection, survey, weighing, admeasurement and sale of all lumber, wood, coal and bark within the city, and impose suitable penalties for the violation thereof.

—inspection and sale of lumber, &c.

SECTION 17. The city council shall have the same power to make all salutary and needful ordinances as towns have by the laws of this Commonwealth, to make and establish by-laws, and to annex penalties, not exceeding fifty dollars, for the breach thereof; which ordinances shall take effect and be in force from and after the time therein respectively limited, without the sanction of any court or authority whatever; and all ordinances of said city shall be duly published in such newspapers as the city council shall direct: provided, however, that all by-laws, regulations and ordinances now in force in the city of New Bedford shall, until they expire by their own limitation or be revised or repealed by the city council, remain in force; and all fines and forfeitures for the breach of any by-law or ordinance of the city, shall be paid into the city treasury.

City council may make ordinances, with penalties.

Proviso.

SECTION 18. It shall be the duty of the city council, and they are empowered during the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five, and in every tenth year thereafter, to cause a new division of the city to be made into six wards, in such manner as to include an equal number of voters in each ward, as nearly as conveniently may be, consistently with well defined limits to each ward; and until such division be made, the boundary lines of the wards shall remain as now established.

New division of wards to be made every ten years.

City clerk to be clerk of board of aldermen, and be sworn.	SECTION 19. The city clerk shall be clerk of the board of aldermen, and shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duties ; he shall perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the board of aldermen, and shall perform all the duties and exercise all the powers by law incumbent upon or vested in clerks of towns. He shall call meetings of the city council or of either branch thereof upon being requested so to do by a majority of its members in writing, by causing notices to be left at the usual dwelling-place of each member of the board or boards to be convened.
His duties.
Term of office.	He shall be chosen for one year, and until another is chosen and qualified in his place, but may at any time be removed by the city council. He shall deliver to his successor in office, as soon as chosen and qualified, all journals, records, record books, papers, documents and other things held by him in his capacity as city clerk.
Overseers of the poor.	SECTION 20. The qualified voters, at their respective annual ward meetings shall elect by ballot, one person in each ward, who shall be a resident of the ward, to be an overseer of the poor ; and the persons thus chosen, shall with the mayor of the city, constitute the board of overseers of the poor, and shall have all the powers, and be subject to all the duties belonging to overseers of the poor of towns.
School committee.	SECTION 21. The qualified voters at their respective annual ward meetings shall elect by ballot, one person in each ward, who shall be a resident of the ward, to be a member of the school committee, who shall hold his office for three years. And the persons thus chosen, with those whose terms of office have not expired, shall constitute the school committee, and have the care and superintendence of the public schools. The president of the common council shall be ex officio , a member of the school committee.
Assessors of taxes.	SECTION 22. The qualified voters of the city, at the annual meetings in their respective wards, shall elect by ballot, one person to be an assessor at large, who shall hold his office for three years, and until another is chosen and qualified in his stead ; and the person thus chosen assessor at large, with those whose terms of office have not expired, shall constitute the board of assessors, and shall exercise all the powers, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities of assessors of towns.
Vacancies.	In case of a vacancy in the board of assessors, the city council, in convention, shall elect, by ballot, a person to fill the same, who shall hold the office until the next annual meeting for the choice of municipal officers, and until another person shall be chosen and qualified in his stead ; and at said annual meeting, a person shall be elected to said office, who shall hold the same for the residue of the unexpired term.

The qualified voters shall, at the same time, and in like manner, elect one person in each ward, who shall be a resident in the ward, to be an assistant-assessor, who shall hold his office for one year, and until another is chosen and qualified in his stead; and it shall be the duty of the persons so chosen, to furnish the assessors with all such information as they may require, relative to the persons and property taxable in their respective wards; and they shall receive for their services such compensation, per diem, as the city council may determine.

Assistant-assessors.

All taxes shall be assessed, apportioned and collected in the manner prescribed by the laws of the Commonwealth: provided, however, that the city council may establish further or additional provisions for the collection thereof.

Taxes to be assessed, &c., according to law. Proviso.

In case of failure to elect an assessor at large, the same proceedings shall be had as are herein before provided in regard to aldermen.

SECTION 23. All elections for county, state and United States officers who are voted for by the people, shall be held at meetings of the citizens qualified to vote in such elections in their respective wards, at the time fixed by law for these elections respectively; and at such meetings, all the votes given for said several officers respectively, shall be assorted, counted, declared and registered in open ward meeting, by causing the names of all persons voted for, and the number of votes given for each, to be written in the ward record at length; and the ward clerk shall forthwith deliver to the city clerk a certified copy of the record of such elections.

Proceedings at and after meetings for election of county, state and federal officers

The city clerk shall forthwith record such returns, and the mayor and aldermen shall, within two days after every such election, examine and compare all said returns, and make out a certificate of the result of such elections, to be signed by the mayor and a majority of the aldermen, and also by the city clerk, which shall be transmitted or delivered in the same manner as similar returns are by law directed to be made by selectmen of towns.

In all elections for representatives to the general court, in case the whole number proposed to be elected shall not be chosen, the mayor and aldermen shall forthwith issue their warrants for a new election, conformably to the provisions of the constitution and laws of the Commonwealth.

SECTION 24. Prior to every election, the mayor and aldermen shall make out lists of all the citizens of each ward qualified to vote in such elections, in the manner in which selectmen of towns are required to make out lists of voters; and for that purpose they shall have full access to the assessors' books and lists, and be empowered to call for the assistance of all assessors, assistant-assessors, and other city officers; and they shall deliver said lists, so prepared and corrected, to the clerks of the several wards, to be used at such elections; and no person shall be entitled to vote at such election whose name is not borne on such list.

No person to vote unless name is on list.

Rules regarding lists may be established by city council.

And the city council shall have authority to establish such rules and regulations as to making out, publishing and using such lists of qualified voters, as they shall deem proper, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the Commonwealth.

General meetings of citizens.

SECTION 25. General meetings of the citizens qualified to vote, may, from time to time, be held, to consult upon the public good, to instruct representatives, and to take all lawful measures to obtain redress of any grievances, according to the right secured to the people by the constitution of the Commonwealth; and such meetings shall be duly warned by the mayor and aldermen upon the requisition of fifty qualified voters.

Police court.

SECTION 26. The police court of New Bedford shall have cognizance of all offences against the ordinances, by-laws and regulations, established by the city council of the city of New Bedford, and may, on conviction thereof, award such sentence as law and justice may require.

Any person aggrieved by such sentence may appeal therefrom to the superior court for the county of Bristol, under the restrictions and conditions provided by law in other cases of appeal from said court.

In all prosecutions by complaint before the said police court, founded on the special acts of the legislature, on the ordinances and by-laws of the city of New Bedford, it shall be sufficient to set forth in such complaint the offence, fully and plainly, substantially and formally; and in such complaint, it shall not be necessary to set forth such special act, by-law or ordinance, or any part thereof.

Charter may be amended by legislature.

SECTION 27. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to prevent the legislature from altering or amending the same, whenever it shall deem it expedient.

Repeal.

SECTION 28. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed; and no act which has been heretofore repealed, shall be revived by the repeal of acts mentioned in this section.

Act void unless accepted by inhabitants.

SECTION 29. This act shall be void unless the inhabitants of said city at a legal meeting called for that purpose shall, by a vote of a majority of the voters present and voting thereon, by written ballot, determine to adopt the same, within sixty days from and after its passage.

Approved May 20, 1868.

SECTION 7. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved June 3, 1868.

Chap. 276

AN ACT IN AMENDMENT OF AN ACT CONCERNING THE LAYING OUT, ALTERING, WIDENING AND IMPROVING THE STREETS OF BOSTON.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

Estates in Boston benefited by laying out, &c., streets, may be assessed for part of expense.

SECTION 1. Wherever any street in the city of Boston shall be laid out, widened, extended, discontinued, graded or altered, and in the opinion of the board of aldermen of said city, any real estate, including any, a part of which may have been taken for such purpose, shall receive any benefit and advantage therefrom, beyond that general advantage which all real property in the said city may receive therefrom, the said board may adjudge and determine the value of such benefit and advantage to any such estate, and may assess upon the same a proportional share of the expense of such laying out, widening, discontinuance, grading or alteration, including damages paid under the second section of the act of which this is in amendment: provided, that the entire amount assessed for such benefit or advantage upon all the estates shall not exceed in amount one-half the amount of such adjudged benefit and advantage, but in no case shall such assessment exceed the amount to be paid by the said city for such laying out, widening, discontinuance, grading or alteration.

Limit of amount to be assessed.

SECTION 2. The fifth section of the one hundred and seventy-fourth chapter of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-six, is hereby repealed; but this repeal shall not affect any rights or liabilities which have already accrued under the section hereby repealed. Repeal.

SECTION 3. The word street in this act shall be construed to include highways, town ways, courts, lanes and alleys. "Street" defined.

SECTION 4. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved June 4, 1868.

AN ACT FOR THE ABATEMENT OF A NUISANCE IN THE CITY OF BOSTON, AND FOR THE PRESERVATION OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH IN SAID CITY.

Chap. 277

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. The city of Boston may purchase or otherwise take the lands or any of them, not within the limits of the Boston and Albany Railroad, in said city, which are below the grade of eighteen feet above mean low-water, and all estates, any part of which is below said grade, with the buildings and other fixtures on the land so purchased or taken, situated and lying within the district which is bounded on the north-east by Pleasant street, on the east by Washington street, on the south by Dover street, and on the west and north-west by Tremont street. Said city shall within sixty days from the time they shall take any of said lands, file in the office of the registry of deeds for the county of Suffolk, a description of the lands so taken, as certain as is required in a common conveyance of lands, and a statement that the same are taken pursuant to the provisions of this act, which said description and statement shall be signed by the mayor of said city; and the title to all lands so taken shall vest in Boston may take —to file description of lands in registry of deeds.

If damages are agreed upon, to be paid forthwith.

Grade to be raised.

Lands of State not to be injured.

Parties in interest may file bill in equity in S. J. court.

Court to give the usual notice.

Parties failing to appear, to be forever barred.

Description of lands to be filed.

If of less value by act of city or Boston Water Power Company, facts to be stated, &c.

the city of Boston; and if any party whose land is taken, shall agree with the said city upon the damage done to him by the said taking, the same shall be paid to him by the said city forthwith. And it shall be the duty of the city of Boston forthwith to raise the grade of said territory so purchased or taken, laying out and filling up the same with good materials, with reference to a complete drainage thereof, so as to abate the present nuisance, and to preserve the health of the city, and in no wise to affect injuriously the lands of the Commonwealth or its grantees in the back bay, or the system of drainage therein.

SECTION 2. Any person entitled to any estate in any part of the land so taken, may at any time within one year from the time when the same shall be taken, as well in his own behalf as in behalf of all other persons having estates in the land so taken, file a bill in equity in the supreme judicial court, in the county of Suffolk, setting forth the taking of the complainant's land, and the condition of the same in respect to its capacity for drainage, and whether the complainant claims any and what damages against the city of Boston, or the Boston Water Power Company, or any other corporation or person, by reason of any and what wrongful act or omission by their causing a diminution in the value of his land at the time of said taking, and praying an assessment of damages against such parties. And upon the filing of such a bill the said court shall cause notice of the pendency of said bill to be given to the parties named therein as defendants, according to the course of courts of equity, and also public notice thereof, to all persons in whose behalf such bills shall be filed, to appear and become parties thereto, if they shall think fit to do so. Said court shall prescribe how such public notice shall be given, and what length of time shall be allowed for appearing and becoming a party to such suit. Any party failing so to appear and become a party within the time prescribed by the court shall be forever barred from recovering any damages on account of such taking. Each person so appearing and becoming a party, shall file a written description of the land in which he claims an estate, together with a plan thereof, so as clearly to distinguish the same from all other lands, and shall also declare what estate he claims therein. If he claims that the value of said lands at the time of taking the same was lessened by any unlawful act or omission of the city of Boston or the Boston Water Power Company, or any other corporation or person, so that the value of the land, in its condition when taken, would not be a just compensation for all the estate and rights of the party in and in reference to the same, such party shall also state what such injury is, and how and by whom the same had been or is caused, and what right or title of the party is violated, and what amount of damages in gross is claimed by him, as compensation therefor, from each of the parties defendant.

SECTION 3. Upon the expiration of the time allowed for appearance to the said bill, the said court shall appoint three commissioners, who shall receive such compensation as the said court shall fix, to be paid by the city of Boston.

Commissioners to be appointed by the court and paid by city.

SECTION 4. It shall be the duty of the said commissioners, after due notice, to hear each of the said parties, including the said city of Boston, and the said Boston Water Power Company, and other parties named as defendants, and to assess the present value of each parcel of the said land claimed by any party so appearing, with its capacity for drainage in its present condition; and the amount in gross, if any, of damages done to such parcel of land by reason of any unlawful act or omission of the city of Boston, or the Water Power Company, or any other party defendant, affecting its value at the time of said taking.

—to hear the parties and assess damages.

SECTION 5. Said commissioners, or the major part of them, shall make report to the said court of their doings, and when requested by any party, of the evidence touching any exception intended to be taken by him.

—to report to the court.

SECTION 6. Any party aggrieved may either except to the report of the said commissioners, and have the exception heard and determined by the said court, according to its course as a court of equity, or may apply to said court to have proper issues framed and tried by a jury, and proceeded in as in other cases of issues ordered by said court. And on the trial of any such issue, the report of the commissioners respecting its subject-matter shall be prima facie evidence of what is therein stated.

If report excepted to, trial to be had.

Report to be prima facie evidence.

SECTION 7. When it shall be finally determined what amount of damages any party is entitled to recover against the city of Boston, or the Boston Water Power Company, or any other party defendant, a separate decree shall be entered accordingly, and execution therefor shall be issued, without regard to the pendency of the claims of any other party or parties, or of other claims of such complainant.

Separate decrees for damages to be entered against different defendants.

SECTION 8. If any party shall elect a jury, he shall recover his legal costs, if the award of the commissioners shall be altered in his favor; otherwise, he shall be liable for the legal costs of the other party or parties.

Costs, in trial by jury.

Boston not to be exempted from liability to abutters.

SECTION 9. Nothing in this act shall be construed as exempting the city of Boston from any obligation it would otherwise be under, to make compensation to the owners of lands abutting on or near to the territory described in the first section of this act, for any injury it may do to such lands in any acts of raising, filling or draining said territory or any part thereof.

If damages are claimed from the State, allegations to be made in separate article in bill.

SECTION 10. If any party shall allege that the value of his land, at the time of the said taking, had been diminished by any act or omission of the Commonwealth or its agents or officers, for which diminution the Commonwealth ought to make him compensation, he shall make the allegations relating thereto in a separate article of the bill, in the nature of a petition of right against the Commonwealth, and the court shall cause notice thereof to be served upon the attorney-general. And the attorney-general shall appear, and may make a separate answer thereto; and the commissioners appointed by the court to assess damages under this act, are hereby empowered to make a separate report of the damages, if any, caused to any party, by any act or omission for which the Commonwealth is responsible, and shall, at the request of the attorney-general, report the evidence, together with the grounds of their opinion why the Commonwealth ought to pay the same. And it shall be the duty of the supreme judicial court to instruct the said commissioners on any matter of law involved in their decision, at the request of any party or of the commissioners, and the proceedings shall be conformed as nearly as possible to those in suits in equity. And the final report of the commissioners on the subject of the claims upon the Commonwealth shall be filed in court in the cause, and a duplicate thereof transmitted to his excellency the governor. And if, in the opinion of the court, it is reasonable that the Commonwealth bear any part of the costs or expenses, the same shall be certified with the said report.

Attorney-general to be notified and make separate answer.

Separate report to be made.

S. J. C. to instruct commissioners in matters of law.

Report to be filed in court and sent to governor.

Costs.

Court to make orders, and may require security for costs, &c.

Costs to be paid as court orders.

Railways may be laid to transport earth.

SECTION 11. Said court may make all orders and decrees necessary to carry into full effect the intent of this act, and may, at its discretion, at any stage of the proceedings, order a party to give security for the payment of damages or costs.

SECTION 12. All legal costs which shall accrue in proceedings under this act, not otherwise provided for, shall be paid as the said court shall order.

SECTION 13. The city of Boston is hereby authorized to lay railway tracks through any street or streets of said city, and to maintain them so long as it may be necessary, to enable them to transport earth and other material to fill up the district aforesaid, under the provisions of this act.

SECTION 14. All lands taken under this act otherwise than by purchase, shall be taken within three years from the passage thereof. Lands to be taken within three years.

SECTION 15. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved June 4, 1868.

AN ACT RELATING TO THE ESTABLISHMENT OF UNION SCHOOLS.

Chap. 278

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. Two or more towns may unite in establishing union schools for the accommodation of such contiguous portions of each, as shall be mutually agreed upon, when a majority of the legal voters in each town, in meetings called for that purpose, so determine. Towns may unite in establishing union schools.

SECTION 2. In providing for the management and control of said school; in determining the location of said school-houses, or of the schools; in apportioning the expenses of erecting such school-houses, and of the support and maintenance of said schools, with all expenditures incident to the same, all proceedings shall be governed by the provisions of the fourth, fifth and sixth sections of the thirty-eighth chapter of the General Statutes. Management of schools, location of school-houses, &c.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved June 4, 1868.

AN ACT TO PROHIBIT THE REMOVAL OF MINORS FROM THE STATE, BY OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

Chap. 279

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for the overseers of the poor, of any city or town, to remove beyond the limits of this Commonwealth, any minor under their control, or cause or allow the same to be done, or to withhold information concerning the maintenance of such minor, from any person entitled to receive the same: provided, that the judges of probate may upon application of the overseers of the poor of any town in their respective counties, upon a hearing thereon, after due notice to all parties interested, authorize such removal to be made; and provided, further, that this act shall not apply to minors who have a settlement in other states. Minors under control of overseers of poor not to be removed from State without authority from judge of probate. Provisos.

SECTION 2. Any overseers of the poor violating the provisions of the preceding section shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars. Penalty for violation. Approved June 4, 1868.

Chap. 280 AN ACT TO REPEAL THE FIFTEENTH SECTION OF CHAPTER FIFTEEN OF THE GENERAL STATUTES.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Repeal.

Section fifteen of chapter fifteen of the General Statutes is hereby repealed.

Approved June 4, 1868.

Chap. 281 AN ACT FOR THE REGULATION OF TENEMENT AND LODGING-HOUSES IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Tenement and lodging-houses in Boston.

SECTION 1. From and after the first day of July, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, no house, building, or portion thereof, in the city of Boston, then used, occupied, leased or rented for a tenement or lodging-house, shall continue to be so used, occupied, leased or rented, unless the same on the requisition of the board of health, shall conform in its construction and appurtenances to the provisions of this act.

Regulations concerning ventilation of.

SECTION 2. Every house, building, or portion thereof, in the city of Boston, designed to be used, occupied, leased or rented, or which is used, occupied, leased or rented for a tenement or lodging-house, shall have in every room which is occupied as a sleeping-room, and which does not communicate directly with the external air, a ventilating or transom window, having an opening or area of three square feet, over the door leading into and connected with the adjoining room, if such adjoining room communicates with the external air; and also a ventilating or transom window, of the same opening or area, communicating with the entry or hall of the house, or where this is, from the relative situation of the rooms, impracticable, such last-mentioned ventilating or transom window shall communicate with an adjoining room that itself communicates with the entry or hall. Every such house or building shall have in the roof, at the top of the hall, an adequate and proper ventilator, of a form approved by the board of health or the superintendent.

To be provided with fire-escape.

SECTION 3. Every such house shall be provided with a proper fire-escape, or means of escape in case of fire, to be approved by the superintendent of the board of health.

Roofs and stairs to be kept in good repair.

SECTION 4. The roof of every such house shall be kept in good repair and so as not to leak, and all rain-water shall be so drained or conveyed therefrom as to prevent its dripping on the ground or causing dampness in the walls, yard or area. All stairs shall be provided with proper balusters or railings, and shall be kept in good repair.

Regulations concerning construction and care of water-closets.

SECTION 5. Every such building shall be provided with good and sufficient water-closets or privies, of a construction approved by the board of health, and shall have proper doors, traps, soil pans and other suitable works and arrangements so far as may be necessary to insure the efficient operation thereof. Such water-closets or privies shall not be less in number than one to every twenty occupants of said house; but water-closets and privies may be used in common by the occupants of any two or more houses: provided, the access is convenient and direct; and provided, the number of occupants in the houses for which they are provided shall not exceed the proportion above required for every privy or water-closet. Every such house situated upon a lot on a street in which there is a sewer, shall have the water-closets or privies furnished with a proper connection with the sewer, which connection shall be in all its parts adequate for the purpose, so as to permit entirely and freely to pass whatever enters the same. Such connection with the sewer shall be of a form approved by the board of health or superintendent, and all such water-closets and vaults shall be provided with the proper traps, and connected with the house sewer by a proper tight pipe, and shall be provided with sufficient water and other proper means of flushing the same; and every owner, lessee and occupant shall take due measures to prevent improper substances from entering such water-closets or privies or their connections, and to secure the prompt removal of any improper substances that may enter them, so that no accumulation shall take place, and so as to prevent any exhalations therefrom, offensive, dangerous or prejudicial to life or health, and so as to prevent the same from being or becoming obstructed. No cesspool shall be allowed in or under or connected with any such house, except when it is unavoidable, and in such case it shall be constructed in such situation and in such manner as the board of health or superintendent may direct. It shall in all cases be water-tight, and arched or securely covered over, and no offensive smell or gases shall be allowed to escape therefrom, or from any privy or privy vault. In all cases where a sewer exists in the street upon which the house or building stands, the yard or area shall be so connected with the same that all water, from the roof or otherwise, and all liquid filth shall pass freely into it. Where no sewer exists in the street, the yard or area shall be so graded that all water, from the roof or otherwise, and all filth shall flow freely from it and all parts of it into the street gutter, by a passage beneath the sidewalk, which shall be covered by a permanent cover, but so arranged as to permit access to remove obstructions or impurities.

Provisos.

Cesspools not permitted under the house unless the health officer permits.

Grade of yards and areas, when no sewer exists in street.

Rooms under ground not to be used as dwellings

SECTION 6. From and after the first day of July, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, it shall not be lawful, with-

after July 1, '68, except by permit of health officers.

After July 1, '69,

out a permit from the board of health or superintendent, to let or occupy or suffer to be occupied separately as a dwelling, any vault, cellar or underground room, built or rebuilt after said date, or which shall not have been so let or occupied before said date. And from and after the first day of July, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, it shall not be lawful, without such permit, to let or continue to be let, or to occupy or suffer to be occupied, separately as a dwelling, any vault, cellar or underground room whatsoever, unless the same be in every part thereof at least seven feet in height, measured from the floor to the ceiling thereof, nor unless the same be for at least one foot of its height above the surface of the street or ground adjoining or nearest to the same, nor unless there be outside of and adjoining the said vault, cellar or room, and extending along the entire frontage thereof, and upwards from six inches below the level of the floor thereof up to the surface of the said street or ground, an open space of at least two feet and six inches wide in every part, nor unless the same be well and effectually drained by means of a drain, the uppermost part of which is one foot at least below the level of the floor of such vault, cellar or room, nor unless there is a clear space of not less than one foot below the level of the floor, except where the same is cemented, nor unless there be appurtenant to such vault, cellar or room the use of a water closet or privy, kept and provided as in this act required, nor unless the same have an external window-opening of at least nine superficial feet clear of the sash-frame, in which window-opening there shall be fitted a frame filled in with glazed sashes, at least four and a half superficial feet of which shall be made so as to open for the purpose of ventilation: provided, however, that in case of an inner or back vault, cellar or room, let or occupied along with a front vault, cellar or room, as part of the same letting or occupation, it shall be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of this act, if the front room is provided with a window as herein before provided, and if the said back vault, cellar or room is connected with the front vault, cellar or room by a door, and also by a proper ventilating or transom window, and where practicable, also connected by a proper ventilating or transom window, or by some hall or passage, or with the external air: provided, always, that in any area adjoining a vault, cellar or underground room, there may be steps necessary for access to such vault, cellar or room, if the same be so placed as not to be over, across or opposite to said external window, and so as to allow between every part of such steps and the external wall of such vault, cellar or room, a clear space of six inches at least, and if the rise of said steps is open; and provided, further, that over or across any such area there may be steps necessary for access to any building above the vault, cellar or room to which such area adjoins, if the same be so placed as not to be over, across or opposite to any such external window.

SECTION 7. From and after the first day of July, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, no vault, cellar or underground room in any tenement or lodging-house, shall be occupied as a place of lodging or sleeping, except the same shall be approved in writing, and a permit given therefor by the board of health or superintendent.

Cellar, &c., not to be used as sleeping room after July 1, 1868, except by permit of health officer.

SECTION 8. Every tenement or lodging-house shall have the proper and suitable conveniences or receptacles for receiving garbage and other refuse matters. No tenement or lodging-house, or any portion thereof, shall be used as a place of storage for any combustible article, or any article dangerous to life or detrimental to health; nor shall any horse, cow, calf, swine, pig, sheep or goat be kept in said house.

Receptacles for refuse matters.

Certain animals not to be kept.

SECTION 9. Every tenement or lodging-house, and every part thereof, shall be kept clean and free from any accumulation of dirt, filth, garbage or other matter in or on the same, or in the yard, court, passage, area or alley connected with or belonging to the same. The owner or keeper of any lodging-house, and the owner or lessee of any tenement-house or part thereof, shall thoroughly cleanse all the rooms, passages, stairs, floors, windows, doors, walls, ceilings, privies, cesspools and drains thereof of the house or part of the house of which he is the owner or lessee, to the satisfaction of the board of health, so often as shall be required by or in accordance with any regulation or ordinance of said city, and shall well and sufficiently, to the satisfaction of said board, whitewash the walls and ceilings thereof twice at least in every year, in the months of April and October, unless the said board shall otherwise direct. Every tenement or lodging-house shall have legibly posted or painted on the wall or door in the entry, or some public accessible place, the name and address of the owner or owners, and of the agent or agents, or any one having charge of the renting and collecting of the rents for the same; and service of any papers required by this act, or by any proceedings to enforce any of its provisions, or of the acts relating to the board of health, shall be sufficient if made upon the person or persons so designated as owner or owners, agent or agents.

Houses to be kept clean.

Owner to cleanse privies, passages, &c., to the satisfaction of health officer.

Name of owner to be posted in public place on building.

Service of process good if made upon persons so posted.

Health officer to have access to house at all times.

Owners and keepers of houses to notify health officers in cases of contagious or infectious diseases.

Bedding, &c., to be purified.

House infected by disease or dangerous from want of repair, to be vacated, &c.

Tenement or lodging-house.

SECTION 10. The keeper of any lodging-house, and the owner, agent of the owner, lessee and occupant of any tenement-house, and every other person having the care or management thereof, shall, at all times, when required by any officer of the board of health, or by any officer upon whom any duty or authority is conferred by this act, give him free access to such house and to every part thereof.

The owner or keeper of any lodging-house, and the owner, agent of the owner, and the lessee of any tenement-house or part thereof, shall, whenever any person in such house is sick of fever, or of any infectious, pestilential or contagious disease, and such sickness is known to such owner, keeper, agent or lessee, give immediate notice thereof to the board of health, or to some officer of the same, and, thereupon, said board shall cause the same to be inspected, and may, if found necessary, cause the same to be immediately cleansed or disinfected at the expense of the owner, in such manner as they may deem necessary and effectual; and they may also cause the blankets, bedding and bed-clothes used by any such sick person, to be thoroughly cleansed, scoured and fumigated, and in extreme cases to be destroyed.

SECTION 11. Whenever it shall be certified to the board of health by the superintendent, that any building or part thereof is unfit for human habitation, by reason of its being so infected with disease as to be likely to cause sickness among the occupants, or by reason of its want of repair has become dangerous to life, said board may issue an order, and cause the same to be affixed conspicuously on the building or part thereof, and to be personally served upon the owner, agent or lessee, if the same can be found in this state, requiring all persons therein to vacate such building, for the reasons to be stated therein as aforesaid. Such building or part thereof shall, within ten days thereafter, be vacated; or within such shorter time, not less than twenty-four hours, as in said notice may be specified; but said board, if it shall become satisfied that the danger from said house or part thereof has ceased to exist, may revoke said order, and it shall thenceforward become inoperative.

SECTION 12. No house hereafter erected shall be used as a tenement-house or lodging-house, and no house heretofore erected, and not now used for such purpose, shall be converted into, used or leased for a tenement or lodging-house, unless, in addition to the requirements herein before contained, it conforms to the requirements contained in the following sections.

SECTION 13. It shall not be lawful hereafter to erect for or convert to the purposes of a tenement or lodging-house a building on the front of any lot where there is another building on the rear of the same lot, unless there is a clear, open space, exclusively belonging to the front building and extending upwards from the ground, of at least ten feet between said buildings, if they are one story high above the level of the ground; if they are two stories high, the distance between them shall not be less than fifteen feet; if they are three stories high, the distance between them shall be twenty feet; and if they are more than three stories high, the distance between them shall be twenty-five feet. At the rear of every building hereafter erected for or converted to the purposes of a tenement or lodging-house on the back part of any lot, there shall be a clear, open space of ten feet between it and any other building. But when thorough ventilation of such open spaces can be otherwise secured, said distances may be lessened or modified, in special cases, by a permit from the board of health or the superintendent.

How and where may be constructed.

SECTION 14. In every such house hereafter erected or converted, every habitable room, except rooms in the attic, shall be in every part not less than eight feet in height from the floor to the ceiling; and every habitable room in the attic of any such building shall be at least eight feet in height from the floor to the ceiling, throughout not less than one-half the area of such room. Every such room shall have at least one window connecting with the external air, or over the door a suitable ventilator, connecting it with a room or hall which has a connection with the external air. The total area of window in every room communicating with the external air, shall be equal to at least one-tenth of the superficial area of every such room; and the top of one, at least, of such windows shall not be less than seven feet and six inches above the floor, and the upper half of each window shall be so made as to open for the purposes of ventilation. Every habitable room of a less area than one hundred superficial feet, if it does not communicate directly with the external air, and is without an open fire-place, shall be provided with special means of ventilation by a separate air shaft extending to the roof, or otherwise, as the board of health may prescribe.

Rooms to be at least eight feet in height.

Windows.

Ventilation.

SECTION 15. Every such house hereafter erected or converted, shall have adequate chimneys running through every floor, with an open fire-place or grate, or place for a stove, properly connected with one of said chimneys, for every family and set of apartments. It shall have proper con-

Chap. 291 AN ACT CONCERNING THE MILL-DAM ROAD, AND THE ROADS CONNECTED THEREWITH BELONGING TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

Mill-dam road may be laid out as highway.

SECTION 1. The city of Boston and the towns of Brookline, Brighton and Watertown, are hereby authorized, within one year from the passage of this act, to lay out and accept as highways, so much of the Mill-dam road, and the roads and bridges heretofore connected therewith in toll franchise, excepting the road known as the Cross-dam, as lies within the respective limits of the said city and towns: the said road being the same which was conveyed to the said Commonwealth by the Boston and Roxbury Mill Corporation by indenture dated the ninth day of June, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-four, and also by indenture dated the thirtieth day of December, in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-six. The said highways and the said Watertown turnpike may be laid out of the same width as they were originally laid out; and the said towns and city shall not be liable in so doing for any land damages to any owner or abutter on said ways or turnpike; and upon such laying out and acceptance of the same, all tolls thereon shall be discontinued, and the property of the Commonwealth therein, excepting said cross-dam, shall become vested, severally, in the city and towns aforesaid.

Tolls to be discontinued.

SECTION 2. Upon such laying out and acceptance of said roads and bridges as aforesaid, the said city and towns shall severally be liable for damages which may be incurred by reason of any defect in the same, within their respective limits, in the same manner, and to the same extent as cities and towns are now liable, by law, for defects in town ways; and the town of Watertown shall also assume the charge and maintenance of that portion of the Watertown turnpike lying within the territory heretofore ceded to the United States, and shall be liable, in the same manner and to the same extent aforesaid, for any defects therein, except as far as they may be controlled or prevented by the authority of the United States; and the bridge over Charles River shall be maintained with a sufficient draw therein for the convenient passage of vessels, and a suitable draw-tender be provided therefor, by and at the expense of said towns of Watertown and Brighton.

Towns to be liable for damages for defects in road.

Watertown to maintain portion of turnpike.

Bridge over Charles River maintained by Watertown and Brighton.

SECTION 3. Whenever the governor shall be satisfied that the aforesaid roads and bridges have been laid out and accepted as town ways or highways as aforesaid, there shall be paid to the towns of Watertown, Brighton and Brookline, the sum of fifty thousand dollars, to be divided as follows, to wit: to the town of Watertown, twenty thousand dollars, to the town of Brighton, fifteen thousand dollars, to the town of Brookline, fifteen thousand dollars.

Upon acceptance as highways, $50,000 to be divided among towns.

If the amount of tolls paid into the treasury of the Commonwealth under the provisions of the second section of chapter two hundred and one of the acts of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, shall not amount to the sum of fifty thousand dollars at the time said roads and bridges are laid out and accepted by said towns as aforesaid, then the full amount of the tolls so paid into the treasury shall be paid to said towns, in the proportion aforesaid: and the tolls so received into the treasury from said roads, not exceeding the amount of fifty thousand dollars, are hereby appropriated for the purpose aforesaid.

If tolls do not amount to $50,000, amount received to be paid over.

SECTION 4. If the city of Boston shall not lay out and accept the portion of said road within its limits, excepting said cross-dam, within one year from the passage of this act, or within six months after the towns of Watertown, Brighton and Brookline have laid out and accepted the portions within their respective limits, then said roads so lying and being within the limits of the city of Boston, shall be and become a public highway to all intents and purposes whatsoever, and the said city shall be liable therefor in the same manner and to the same extent as if the same had been laid out and accepted by said city, according to the provisions of the first section of this act.

If Boston does not accept road within one year, &c., to be highway as though laid out by city.

Rights of rail-roads not to be affected.

SECTION 5. Nothing in this act contained shall affect the rights or duties of any railroad corporation having tracks upon said road : but the town ways and highways which may be located under the provisions hereof, may cross such railroad tracks at grade, wherever grade crossings now exist thereon.

SECTION 6. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Chap. 292 AN ACT GIVING THE CONSENT OF THE COMMONWEALTH TO THE UNITED STATES FOR THE PURCHASE OF A CERTAIN TRACT OF LOWLAND ON LONG ISLAND IN BOSTON HARBOR, AND THE FLATS THERETO APPURTENANT.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

United States may purchase land on Long Island for erection of military works.

SECTION 1. The consent of the Commonwealth is hereby granted to the United States to purchase a tract of lowland, situated on Long Island in Boston Harbor, said lowland being a narrow isthmus connecting the East Head of Long Island with the main or central portion of said island ; said isthmus belonging to T. J. Dunbar and Peter Dunbar, trustees, comprising by estimation about ten acres, for the erection of military works for the defence of said harbor, for the erection of a sea-wall as a part of the system for the improvement of said harbor for commercial purposes and for the purpose of providing a landing place for convenience in reaching the said East Head of Long Island ; and the consent of this Commonwealth is also hereby given to said United States to purchase, occupy and fill the flats appurtenant to said isthmus for the aforesaid objects, and to the extent of four hundred yards from low-water mark : provided, always, and the consent aforesaid is granted upon the express condition and reservation that this Commonwealth shall retain concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over the tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus, and the flats aforesaid for the service of all civil process and of such criminal processes as may issue under the authority of the Commonwealth against any person or persons charged with crimes or offences against the laws of this Commonwealth, committed without the said tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus and flats, and that said civil and criminal processes may be executed thereon in the same way and manner, and with the same effect as if the consent aforesaid had not been granted.

SECTION 2. If the agent or agents employed by the United States and the owner or owners of said tracts of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus and flats, or their agent or attorney, cannot agree in the sale and purchase thereof, the agent or agents of the United States may apply by petition to the superior court of the county of Suffolk, describing the aforesaid tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus and flats, for a valuation thereof by a jury; and the said court, after due notice given to the said owner or owners, or their agent or attorney, are hereby empowered and required to hear the parties and finally determine the value of the fee of the said tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus and flats, by a jury who shall be sworn faithfully and impartially to appraise and value the fee of said land; and said jury shall be summoned for that purpose by the sheriff of the county of Suffolk or his deputy, and the value aforesaid having been ascertained by the verdict of said jury and the said verdict accepted and recorded by said court and the amount thereof paid or tendered to the said owner or owners or their agent or attorney, together with their reasonable costs and expenses to be taxed by said court, or in case of their neglect or refusal to receive the same, the amount of said verdict, costs and expenses having been paid into the treasury of this Commonwealth for their use and subject to their order, the title of said tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus and flats shall be forever vested in fee simple in the United States: provided, however, that neither the United States nor their agent or agents shall enter into or take possession of said tract of lowland, to wit, the said isthmus or flats, nor exercise any act of ownership thereon until the amount of said verdict and costs and expenses shall have been actually paid as aforesaid; and provided, also, that all the charges of said application and appraisement shall be paid by the United States.

If U. S. and owners do not agree, price may be determined by a jury.

Jury to be summoned by sheriff of Suffolk.

Proviso.

SECTION 4. Said corporation shall be liable to pay all damages that shall be sustained by any persons in their property by the taking of any land, water or water rights, or by constructing any aqueducts, reservoirs or other works, for the purposes specified in this act; and if any person who shall sustain damage as aforesaid cannot agree with said corporation upon the amount of said damage, the same shall be ascertained, determined and recovered in the manner now provided by law, in case of land taken for highways.

Shall pay damages for land, &c., taken.

SECTION 5. Said corporation may hold real and personal estate necessary and convenient for the purposes aforesaid; and its whole capital stock shall not exceed thirty thousand dollars, which shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each. And no pecuniary liability shall be assumed by said corporation until one-quarter part of its capital stock has actually been paid in in cash.

Real and personal estate.

Capital stock and shares.

SECTION 6. Any person who shall maliciously divert the water, or any part thereof of the sources which shall be taken by the said corporation pursuant to the provisions of this act, or who shall maliciously corrupt the same or render it impure, or who shall maliciously destroy or injure any dam or reservoir, aqueduct-pipe or hydrant, or other property held, owned or used by the said corporation for the purposes of this act, shall pay three times the amount of actual damages to the said corporation, to be recovered in action of tort; and every such person, upon conviction of either of the malicious acts aforesaid, shall be punished by fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding three years.

Penalties for maliciously diverting the water or corrupting the same.

SECTION 7. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Chap. 302 AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE CITY OF SALEM WITH PURE WATER.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

How pipes of aqueduct company may be cut, displaced, &c.

SECTION 1. Whenever any exigency shall arise in which it shall become necessary, in the proper construction of the Salem water works, at any particular place, to cut, remove or displace any pipe or pipes of the Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company, application may be made to said company, through its superintendent, for permission to make such cutting, removal or displacement, accompanied with a specific description of what is proposed to be done, to which application an answer shall be returned by said company within three days: and in case of a refusal of permission, or in case no answer shall be returned within said three days, application may be made to the engineer of the Boston water works, for the time being, who after three days' notice to said Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company, shall hear the parties and determine whether any and what change in the pipe or pipes of said Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company at that place ought reasonably to be made: and the city of Salem is hereby authorized to make the change directed by said engineer; which direction shall be in writing signed by said engineer, recorded upon the records of the city water works, and a duplicate original delivered to the superintendent of the Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company at the same time that this direction is made known to said city.

Engineer of Boston water works to decide.

Record to be made.

Compensation of engineer, and by whom to be paid.

SECTION 2. Said engineer shall be allowed a reasonable compensation per day and his expenses, to be paid by said city of Salem; and in case the course prescribed by him shall be the same as that asked for, in behalf of the said Salem water works, and the consent of said Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company was unreasonably refused, said compensation and expenses may be recovered of the said Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company, by the said city of Salem.

Damages to aqueduct company to be paid by city.

SECTION 3. Said city shall be liable to pay all damages sustained by the said aqueduct company, and if not agreed upon by the parties, shall be assessed and awarded by the said engineer; and in case said company shall be dissatisfied with said award, it may have said damages assessed and paid in the same manner as is provided by law with respect to land taken for highways.

SECTION 4. Nothing in this act shall be construed to give any preference of location or otherwise to the city of Salem over the Salem and Danvers Aqueduct, and in no case is the said engineer authorized to order to be cut, removed or displaced any pipes of the said Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company, except when by reason of natural or artificial obstructions, the pipes of the said city cannot otherwise (at reasonable labor and expense) be laid: and in no case shall any pipe be so cut, displaced or removed in such manner as to prevent the free flow of water to any consumer of the Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Company for a longer space than twenty-four hours.

Preference of location not to be given to the city, &c.

SECTION 5. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved June 4, 1868.

AN ACT CONCERNING THE SALEM TURNPIKE AND CHELSEA BRIDGE AND THE SEVERAL TOLL-BRIDGES IN ESSEX COUNTY.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge laid out as public highway.

SECTION 1. The turnpike, way, bridges, draws and piers belonging to the Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge Corporation, and lying in the cities of Salem, Lynn, Chelsea and Charlestown, and the towns of Saugus and North Chelsea, are hereby laid out as and shall become a public highway upon the acceptance of the award of the commissioners, hereinafter named, in the supreme judicial court, and judgment thereon.

SECTION 2. Upon the same becoming a highway as aforesaid, so much of said turnpike and way, excluding the abutments, bridges, draws and piers, as lies in each of the said cities and towns shall be maintained by them respectively; and said cities and towns shall collect and receive from the Lynn and Boston Railroad Company, such proportion of the expense of maintaining said turnpike and way as shall be due from said company under the provisions of this act, and if in the opinion of the commissioners, any city or town will have an undue burden cast upon it, in maintaining its portion of the turnpike passing through it, they shall determine and decree what sum in gross shall be paid to such city or town, and by what cities or towns in the counties of Essex and Suffolk, or whether either of said counties shall contribute to said sum, and in what proportions, as a final adjustment of expense and benefit.

So much of turnpike as lies in any town to be maintained by it.

Burden of maintaining way to be equalized.

SECTION 3. The supreme judicial court, or any justice thereof, upon application of said Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge Corporation, Malden Bridge Proprietors, or of the Lynn and Boston Railroad Company, or of ten legal voters of either of the counties of Essex, Middlesex or Suffolk, shall appoint a board of commissioners consisting of one from each of the counties of Essex, Suffolk and Middlesex; and said commissioners, after having been sworn to the faithful and impartial discharge of their duties, shall, after due notice to all parties interested and a hearing, determine and award the amount to be paid to said Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge Corporation, and Malden Bridge Proprietors, as damages for the laying out of said turnpike, way, bridges, draws and piers, and shall determine what proportions of said amount shall be paid by the counties of Essex and Suffolk respectively, and by the respective cities and towns in the county of Middlesex which are benefited by the provisions of the first section of this act. Said commissioners shall also determine and decree what cities and towns in the counties of Essex, Middlesex and Suffolk are benefited by the provisions of the first section of this act, and in what proportions and manner said cities and towns and said Lynn and Boston Railroad Company shall defray the expenses of the maintenance and repairs of said abutments, bridges, draws and piers, and all other expenses properly incurred under the provisions of this act not otherwise provided for therein. Said commissioners Commissioners may be appointed to award damages to be paid to the Turnpike and Bridge Corporation.

—to determine what proportions to be paid by Essex, Suffolk and Middlesex.

Who shall maintain and repair bridges, draws, way, &c.

Decree to be made and reported to S. J. C. and counties and towns.

Right of appeal to a jury.

Fees and expenses.

Right of appeal to jury as in case of laying out highways.

Damages and costs.

County commissioners of Essex and Middlesex to act jointly if commissioners are not appointed.

When become highway, care of bridges, &c., to devolve upon selectmen, &c.

shall also determine and decree what proportion of the expense of the maintenance of the said turnpike and way, excluding said abutments, bridges, draws and piers, shall be defrayed by the said Lynn and Boston Railroad Company; and their determination and decree, or that of the major of them, shall be made in writing and reported to the supreme judicial court, the chairman of the boards of county commissioners for the counties of Essex and Middlesex, the mayor and aldermen and the selectmen of each of the cities and towns which shall be decreed by said court to pay as aforesaid, and the clerks of each of said corporations, and shall be binding upon said counties, cities and towns and corporations, unless said Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge Corporation or Malden Bridge Proprietors shall appeal to a jury from the award of said commissioners; and if said corporations or either of them shall not appeal to a jury within sixty days after receiving the award of said commissioners as aforesaid, then the award and decree of said commissioners shall be absolutely binding upon all the parties interested, when the same shall have been accepted and judgment entered thereon by the supreme judicial court. The just fees and expenses of said commissioners shall be paid by such of the parties interested as the said commissioners shall decree.

SECTION 4. Said Salem Turnpike and Chelsea Bridge Corporation and Malden Bridge Proprietors may appeal to a jury from the award of said commissioners in the same manner, except that the time within which an appeal may be entered shall be limited to sixty days as aforesaid, and subject to the same liability in regard to costs as is provided by law in the case of laying out highways, except that the application for such jury shall be made to and acted upon by the commissioners of the county of Essex, and said jury may award a different sum as damages to said corporations, and all damages and costs awarded and incurred under this section shall be paid by said counties, cities and towns in the proportions specified by said board of commissioners appointed under the provisions of the third section of this act.

SECTION 5. If no commissioners shall be appointed under the provisions of the third section of this act, the commissioners of the counties of Essex and Middlesex, jointly, may exercise all the powers conferred on the special commissioners by this act.

SECTION 6. Upon the same becoming a highway as aforesaid, the care and superintendence of said abutments, bridges, draws and piers shall devolve upon the mayors and aldermen and selectmen of the respective cities and towns in which the same shall lie, and they shall collect and receive from the parties liable therefor their respective shares of the expense of maintaining the same.

SECTION 7. Liability for defects in said abutments, bridges, draws and piers shall exist on the part of the cities and towns wherein they respectively lie, in like manner as in case of defects in town ways; and the damages and costs which may be recovered on account of such defects, shall be paid by such cities and towns as said commissioners shall decree, and by said railroad company, in the same manner and in the same proportions as they shall severally be required to contribute for the repairs and maintenance thereof.

Liability for defects in bridges, &c.

SECTION 8. The county commissioners of the county of Essex shall, within sixty days after the passage of this act, lay out as and for highways the several bridges over the Merrimack River, known as Andover Bridge and Lawrence Bridge in the city of Lawrence; Haverhill Bridge, between the towns of Haverhill and Bradford; Rock's Bridge, between the towns of West Newbury and Haverhill; Essex Merrimack Bridge, between the town of Salisbury and the city of Newburyport; Newburyport Bridge, between the town of Salisbury and the city of Newburyport; also the Essex Bridge over North River, between the town of Beverly and the city of Salem; in the manner now provided by law for the laying out of highways, and according to the provisions of chapter two hundred and ninety-six of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, so far as the same are applicable. The said commissioners shall also determine and decree what proportion of the amount of damages sustained by the proprietors of said bridges, or of either or any of them, by such laying out, shall be paid respectively by the county of Essex and by the several cities and towns which the said commissioners shall determine are benefited by such laying out.

Bridges in Essex County to be laid out as highways:

Andover Bridge.
Lawrence Bridge.
Haverhill Bridge.
Rock's Bridge.
Essex Merrimack Bridge.

Newburyport Bridge.
Essex Bridge.

Commissioners to decree what proportion shall be paid by the county and towns.

Chap 313 AN ACT TO AID THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE LEE AND NEW HAVEN RAILROAD.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Treasurer to issue scrip for $300,000, at six per cent. interest.

SECTION 1. The treasurer of the Commonwealth is hereby authorized and instructed to issue scrip or certificates of debt, in the name and in behalf of the Commonwealth, and in the manner herein designated, for the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, which shall be expressed in federal currency, and be payable to the bearer thereof at the expiration of thirty years from date, and redeemable at the option of the Commonwealth, at any time after five years from date, with interest thereon, at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of January and the first day of July, both interest and principal being payable at the office of the treasurer of the Commonwealth in lawful money of the United States. Said scrip may be either in the form of registered or coupon bonds, as the governor and council shall determine ; it shall bear date on the first day of January or July, which shall next precede the several issues of the same. All said scrip shall be countersigned by the governor of the Commonwealth for the time being, and be deemed a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth for the redemption thereof. The treasurer of the Commonwealth for the time being, shall deliver said scrip to the treasurer of the Lee and New Haven Railroad Company, whenever ordered by the governor and council, on the application of the directors of said railroad company, under the provisions of this act, for the purpose of aiding in its completion, and for the equipment of the same.

To be countersigned by governor.

To aid the construction of the Lee and New Haven Railroad.

At what times and upon what conditions scrip to be delivered to railroad.

SECTION 2. Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the governor and council that the Lee and New Haven Railroad Company has properly expended one hundred thousand dollars in the construction of its road, then a portion of said scrip to the amount of fifty thousand dollars shall, upon the terms hereinafter specified, be delivered to the treasurer of said railroad company. And when it shall appear to the satisfaction of the governor and council that a further expenditure of one hundred thousand dollars in addition to the amount previously loaned by the Commonwealth, has been made in the construction of said road as aforesaid, then another portion of said scrip to the amount of fifty thousand dollars shall be delivered upon the terms herein expressed to the treasurer of said railroad company; and so in like manner said scrip shall be issued and delivered until the whole amount hereby authorized shall have been issued and delivered.

SECTION 3. The Lee and New Haven Railroad Company shall make, execute and deliver to the Commonwealth, in manner and form to be approved by the attorney-general, a first mortgage deed of the road, franchise and property of said company to indemnify and save harmless the Commonwealth from loss or damage on account of said scrip, and that said railroad company shall and will well and truly pay the principal sum of said scrip when the same shall become due and payable, and interest thereon as the same shall fall due; said mortgage deed shall be made, executed and delivered as aforesaid, when the same shall be demanded by the treasurer of the Commonwealth.

Railroad to be mortgaged to the State as security.

SECTION 4. Whenever said railroad shall have been opened for use from Lee to the Connecticut state line, five thousand dollars annually shall be set apart from the net income of said road, and paid to the commissioners hereinafter named in the fifth section of this act, as a sinking fund, to be managed, invested and appropriated as is or shall be provided by law: provided, that whenever in the opinion of the treasurer of the Commonwealth for the time being, a sufficient sum shall have been set apart to produce with the accruing interest an amount equal to the scrip issued under this act when the same shall fall due, then said company may be relieved from making further additions to said sinking fund.

Sinking fund to be established.

Proviso.

SECTION 5. The treasurer of the Commonwealth, the auditor of the Commonwealth, and the treasurer of the Lee and New Haven Railroad Company for the time being, shall be commissioners of the sinking fund of said railroad company. The said commissioners shall have the care and management of all the moneys, funds and securities at any time belonging to said sinking fund, and shall invest the same according to law; but the money not invested, and all the securities of said fund shall be in the custody of the treasurer of the Commonwealth.

Treasurers of the Commonwealth and Railroad to be commissioners of sinking fund.

Said commissioners shall keep a true account of all their proceedings; they shall annually, in the month of January, make a report to the legislature setting forth their proceedings for the year preceding, the amount and condition of Commissioners to make report to legislature annually.

Compensation of commissioners. said funds, and the income of the several parts thereof for the year, which records and securities, and the books of account belong thereto, shall at all times be open to the inspection of the governor and council, or of any committee of the legislature; and the said commissioners shall receive for their services from the Lee and New Haven Railroad Company the sum of forty dollars each annually.

Commissioners to be appointed to ascertain amount of work done on road. SECTION 6. The governor with the advice and consent of the council, shall appoint three commissioners, one of whom shall be a competent civil engineer, to ascertain from time to time, as the governor and council shall direct, the amount of work performed on the line of the railway of the Lee and New Haven Railroad Company, and the expenditures properly incurred and made for the same, and to advise and inform the governor and council in reference to all matters and things they are called upon to ascertain or verify under the terms and provisions of this act. The governor and council may fix the proper compensation of such commissioners, which shall be paid by said railroad company.

Compensation. SECTION 7. No portion of said scrip shall be issued unless it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the governor and council that said railroad company will be able, either alone or with the aid of other parties than this Commonwealth, to complete a line of railway from Lee to the Connecticut state line; and if at any time after any portion of said scrip shall have been delivered to said treasurer of said railroad company, it shall appear to the governor and council and commissioners, that a railroad will not be completed between Lee and the Connecticut state line within three years from the date of the passage of this act, then no further portion of said scrip shall be delivered to the treasurer of said company; and the Commonwealth may enter upon and take possession of said road and all its property, and foreclose forthwith and without equity of redemption, the mortgage held under the third section of this act.

AN ACT TO EXTEND THE TIME OF THE STATE LOAN IN AID OF THE WESTERN RAILROAD CORPORATION.

Chap. 319

Be it enacted, &c., as follows:

SECTION 1. For the purpose of redeeming the outstanding scrip of the Commonwealth, issued to aid the construction of the Western Railroad, under the provisions of the acts approved February twenty-first, in the year eighteen hundred and thirty-eight; March twenty-third, in the year eighteen hundred and thirty-nine; and March eighteenth, in the year eighteen hundred and forty-one; the treasurer of the Commonwealth is hereby authorized and directed to issue scrip, or certificates of debt, in the name and on behalf of the Commonwealth, and under his signature and the seal of the Commonwealth, for the sum of two million dollars.

SECTION 2. Said scrip shall bear date the first day of July, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, and shall be expressed in the currency of Great Britain, and made payable to the bearer thereof in gold, in London, at the expiration of twenty years from said date, bearing interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in gold, in London, on the first day of January and the first day of July, with warrants for interest attached thereto. Said scrip shall be countersigned by the governor of the Commonwealth for the time being, and shall be deemed a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth for the redemption thereof.

SECTION 3. The treasurer of the Commonwealth shall, under the conditions hereinafter provided, deliver the scrip issued under authority of this act, to the commissioners of the sinking fund of the Western Railroad Corporation, for the purpose of enabling them to pay and redeem at maturity, or cause to be paid and redeemed, the outstanding scrip of the Commonwealth, issued in aid of the construction of said Western Railroad, under the provisions of the acts aforesaid. Said commissioners shall, for that purpose, either sell said scrip, in such sums and at such times as they may find necessary and convenient, or, if they deem it expedient, they may deliver the same, or any part thereof, to the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, who shall use the same, or the proceeds thereof, to pay and redeem said outstanding scrip, and for no other purpose whatsoever: provided, that said company may pledge the same as collateral security for the loan to them of money which shall be used exclusively to pay and redeem the outstanding scrip aforesaid, as the same matures. All scrip so paid and redeemed shall be forthwith delivered to the treasurer of the Commonwealth,

$2,000,000 in scrip to be issued to redeem that issued to aid construction of Western Railroad.

—to be in currency of Great Britain at five per cent interest payable in gold.

—to be delivered to commissioners of sinking fund.

—to be sold or delivered to Boston and Albany Railroad.

Proviso.

Redeemed scrip to be delivered to State treasurer.

who shall hold the same, together with the agreement, bonds and mortgages hereinafter mentioned, to be enforced against the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, as provided by this act.

Proceeds of unused scrip to be paid over to the commissioners of sinking fund.

SECTION 4. If any portion of the proceeds of scrip issued under authority of this act, or of money borrowed on pledge of the same, shall not have been used to pay and redeem said outstanding scrip prior to January first, in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, the same shall immediately thereafter be paid over to the commissioners of the sinking fund of the Western Railroad Corporation, to be added to said fund and invested according to law. And the said Boston and Albany Railroad Company shall annually, after the passage of this act, set apart from their earnings a sum equal to one per centum on the amount of all scrip issued under authority of this act, and pay over the same to said commissioners, to be added to said sinking fund, and invested as aforesaid. Said Boston and Albany Railroad Company may, at any time, surrender and deliver up to the treasurer of the Commonwealth, any part of the scrip to be issued under authority of this act, which shall be forthwith cancelled, as hereinafter provided. If said company shall receive any of the said scrip, they shall, whenever they shall have sold or finally disposed of the same, render an account of such sale, and of their dealings in relation to said scrip, to the treasurer of the Commonwealth, and until such sale or final disposition, they shall report their dealings in relation thereto to said treasurer annually.

One per cent. of scrip to be added to sinking fund annually.

Scrip may be delivered up to the State and cancelled.

Securities formerly given shall apply to scrip now to be issued.

Principal and interest to be paid in gold, or State to take possession of road.

Mortgages, &c., not to be impaired.

SECTION 5. All the securities heretofore given by the Western Railroad Corporation and the obligations imposed on and agreements made by said corporation, for and in relation to the scrip issued under the provisions of the acts aforesaid and now in force, shall unless, and except as herein otherwise provided, be applicable to the scrip issued under authority of this act. The Boston and Albany Railroad Company shall pay the interest and the principal of said scrip in gold when the same fall due, and all expenses incurred in relation to the same; and if they shall fail so to do it shall be the duty of the treasurer of the Commonwealth to enter upon and take possession of their railroad, and enforce all the provisions of the agreement, bonds and mortgages hereinafter mentioned; and the mortgages, pledges and bonds heretofore given by the Western Railroad Corporation, in pursuance of the provisions of the acts aforesaid, are hereby declared not to be waived or impaired by any delay in enforcing the same, or by any of the provisions of this act;

but the same shall continue in force until all the debts due from the Commonwealth, by virtue of this or of any of said acts, shall have been fully paid, satisfied and discharged.

SECTION 6. This act shall not take effect until the said Boston and Albany Railroad Company, at an annual meeting or at a special meeting duly notified for that purpose, shall have assented to the provisions thereof and shall have executed to the Commonwealth an agreement in such form as the attorney-general shall prescribe, to comply with the provisions of this act and to indemnify and save harmless the Commonwealth from expense incurred in the preparation and negotiation of said scrip, or any loss on account of the same, and well and truly to pay the principal of said scrip punctually in London at its maturity, in gold, or such part thereof as said sinking fund shall not be adequate to pay, and the interest thereon semi-annually in London, in gold, when the same is due; and shall if required by the governor and council, by a suitable instrument or instruments, to be prepared for that purpose, under the direction of the attorney-general, convey to the Commonwealth, their entire road with its income, and all the franchises and property to them belonging and all their interest in the Albany and West Stockbridge Railroad or in any lease, contract or agreement thereof or relating thereto, or shall give such other security as the governor and council shall require for the fulfilment of said agreement; said mortgage or other security to be held by the Commonwealth as security for the performance of said agreement: provided, that the Commonwealth shall not take possession of said pledged or mortgaged property, or any part thereof under and by virtue of said mortgage unless for a substantial breach of some condition of said agreement.

When and upon what conditions this Act will take effect.

Proviso.

SECTION 7. Whenever any scrip issued under authority of the acts aforesaid and now outstanding, or any scrip which may be issued under the provisions of this act, shall have been surrendered to the treasurer of the Commonwealth he shall forthwith cancel the same; and whenever all such scrip shall have been so surrendered, or whenever the principal and interest thereof and all expenses in relation thereto shall have been fully paid, out of said sinking fund, or by the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, and all the conditions of said agreement shall have been fulfilled, then said agreement and mortgage and any bond and mortgage heretofore given to the Commonwealth by the Western Railroad Corporation, shall be cancelled, and said agreement, bonds and mortgages shall be discharged, and delivered up to said Boston and Albany Railroad Corporation.

Surrendered scrip to be cancelled by treasurer.

When conditions are fulfilled mortgage, &c., to be cancelled.

AN ACT CONCERNING THE TAXING OF BANK SHARES.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Shares of stock in banks, owned by non-residents, to be assessed where banks are located.

SECTION 1. All the shares of stock in banks, whether of issue or not, existing by authority of the United States or of this Commonwealth, and located within the Commonwealth, owned by non-residents of this Commonwealth, shall be assessed to the owners thereof in the cities or towns where such banks are located, and not elsewhere, in the assessment of all taxes imposed and levied in such place by the authority of law, at the market value of such shares on the first day of May of the year in which the tax shall be assessed, first deducting therefrom the proportionate part of the value of the real estate belonging to the bank, at the same rate, and no greater, than that at which other moneyed capital in the hands of citizens of such city or town, and subject to taxation, is by law assessed.

Proportionate value of real estate to be first deducted.

Tax to be lien upon shares.

SECTION 2. Any tax so assessed shall constitute a lien upon the shares in respect to which such assessment is made, from the first day of May of the year in which the tax is laid till the tax shall be paid.

Collector may distrain, &c., if tax is not paid.

SECTION 3. If any tax so assessed shall not be paid, the collector or other officer authorized to collect taxes, shall levy the same by distraint or by seizure and sale of the shares in respect of which the tax is assessed, in accordance with the provisions of law for the seizure and sale of shares in the capital stock of corporations existing under authority of this Commonwealth, for non-payment of taxes: provided, that said collector shall, ten days at least before making such distraint or seizure, demand the amount of tax due and legal charges, at the usual place of business of said bank, by written or printed demand addressed to the stockholder and given to the cashier or other officer of such bank, upon whom service of legal process against such bank may by law be made, and no other demand shall be necessary.

Proviso.

Shares owned by residents to be taxed as heretofore.

SECTION 4. All shares of stock in the banks aforesaid owned by residents of this Commonwealth, shall be assessed to the owners thereof, as provided in chapter two hundred and forty-two of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five: provided, that no stock insurance corporation, savings bank, or institution for savings, incorporated under the laws of this state, including the Mercantile Savings Institution, in the city of Boston, otherwise taxed under the laws of this state, shall be taxed for its investments in the shares of national banks within this Commonwealth.

Savings banks and stock insurance companies not to be taxed for shares in national banks.

Shares of non-residents to be omitted from the SECTION 5. Assessors of any city or town in which any national bank or banking association is located, for the purpose of ascertaining the rate at which taxes shall be assessed, shall omit from the valuation upon which the rate is to be based, the value of all shares held by non-residents of this state, and no tax of any city or town shall be invalidated by reason of any excess of the amount thereof over the amount to be raised in consequence of the provisions of this act.

valuation upon which rate is based.

SECTION 6. It shall be the duty of the assessors to make return to the state treasurer, of the assessment of the shares of non-residents of this state in each bank in their respective cities and towns, within ten days after the assessment of the same; and it shall be the duty of the collector of each city or town to use his best endeavors to collect the taxes so assessed. The treasurer of each town or city shall, on or before the first Monday in December of each year, pay over to the state treasurer the amount of such tax so collected, less the cost of assessing and collecting the same. And the state treasurer may offset amounts due and payable by any city or town to the state, under this act, against amounts due from the state to such town or city.

Assessors to make return of assessments to State treasurer.

Treasurer to pay over to State treasurer tax collected, less cost of collecting, &c

SECTION 7. This act shall take effect upon its passage, and shall apply to taxes assessed and collected for the present year, in the same manner and to the same effect as if it had been in force on the first day of May. Approved June 11, 1868.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT TO ESTABLISH THE COUNTY SEAT OF THE COUNTY OF BERKSHIRE AT PITTSFIELD AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Clerk's office, &c. to continue at Lenox until new court house is built in Pittsfield.

The provisions of chapter three hundred and twenty-five of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-eight, entitled an Act to establish the county seat of the county of Berkshire at Pittsfield, and for other purposes, is so far amended as that the offices of the clerk of the courts, the register of probate and the county treasurer of the county of Berkshire, and of the register of deeds for the middle district in said county, with the records and documents pertaining to said offices respectively, shall remain in the court house in Lenox until sufficient accommodation is provided for them in the new court house in Pittsfield, anything in the act to which this act is in addition, to the contrary notwithstanding.

Approved June 11, 1868.

Chap. 352

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE MAVERICK BRIDGE COMPANY.

Be it enacted, &c., as follows :

Corporators.

SECTION 1. Gilbert E. Pierce, Nehemiah Gibson, Samuel Hall, Nathaniel McKay, Charles R. McLean, Jeremiah H. Pote, Abraham S. Foss, their associates and successors, are hereby made a corporation by the name of the Maverick Bridge Company; with all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties, liabilities and restrictions set forth in the sixty-eighth chapter of the General Statutes.

Name.

Powers and duties.

May erect bridge from Boston to East Boston.

May take property, except, &c.

SECTION 2. The said corporation is hereby empowered and authorized to erect a bridge over the water between the mainland in the city of Boston, and East Boston, and to purchase or otherwise take and hold such real and personal estate as may be proper for that purpose, except that the property of the East Boston Ferry Company and that now used by them, shall not be so taken, unless the said city shall so direct, and shall permit the said ferry company to run their boats between the landings formerly occupied by the People's Ferry Company, free of charge and keeping the same in repair; and in that case said East Boston Ferry Company are hereby authorized to run their ferry between said landings.

The capital stock of this company shall not exceed fifteen hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each.

Capital stock and shares.

SECTION 3. The said corporation shall be holden to make compensation to any person or corporation whose real estate shall be taken for the uses aforesaid, and if there shall be a difference of opinion as to the value of the same, the said corporation shall pay therefor such damages as shall be estimated by the board of aldermen of the city of Boston, and either party, if dissatisfied with their estimate, may apply to the superior court next to be held within and for the county of Suffolk, after said estimates are made known to them, and thereupon the same proceedings shall be had as in case of estimating and enforcing payment of damages for laying out ways in said city of Boston.

Right of appeal to superior court.

SECTION 4. The said corporation shall construct the piers of said bridge of such materials, size, shape, direction and position respecting currents and channels, and the said bridge with a draw at right angles with the channel as near as may be, and with such accommodation for the passage of vessels through the same, as the mayor and aldermen of the said city of Boston, on consultation with the harbor commissioners, shall direct or approve; but substantially in conformity to the single draw plan of T. Willis Pratt, or such improvements as may be made thereon; and in all other respects shall construct the same to the approval of said mayor and aldermen; and shall provide and maintain a suitable steam tug-boat, or such other aids to the passage of vessels through the draw of said bridge, and for other purposes, as the said mayor and aldermen shall from time to time direct.

Bridge to be built under direction of mayor and aldermen, on consultation with harbor commissioners.

SECTION 5. The said corporation shall be allowed to collect and receive such tolls as the said mayor and aldermen shall from time to time determine: provided, however, that the rates of toll shall never, without the consent of said corporation, be so much reduced as to reduce the yearly dividends of said company to an amount less than eight per centum on the amount of capital stock actually invested; except that the same may be so reduced by said mayor and aldermen, if in their judgment the public interests shall require it, the said city making up the amount of said deficiency. Such right to collect and receive tolls to commence on the day when the said bridge shall be opened for public use, and to continue for the term of fifty years next thereafter; and at the place of receiving said tolls, there shall be constantly exposed to view a sign-board, with the said rates of toll fairly and legibly exhibited thereon.

Tolls to be determined by mayor and aldermen.

Proviso.

—to be collected for fifty years.

Accounts to be kept, and subject to inspection of mayor and aldermen.

SECTION 6. The said corporation shall cause to be kept regular books of account in which shall be entered full, true, exact and plain statements of all the expenses of building the said bridge, and of furnishing and equipping the same, and also a true and accurate account annually of all receipts and disbursements on account of the same, and of keeping it open and in order for public travel, which books of account shall be at all times open to the inspection of said mayor and aldermen, or of any committee thereof, and a copy of said accounts shall be made annually in the month of January, and under oath of the president and treasurer of said corporation, to the board of aldermen of said city of Boston, to and including the thirty-first day of December in each year, and a duplicate copy of the same annually filed in the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth.

—to be presented annually to aldermen and the secretary of the Commonwealth.

Bridge to be free after the cost of bridge has been re-imbursed to corporation.

SECTION 7. Whenever the receipts of said corporation have re-imbursed to said corporation the moneys expended by them in the construction of said bridge, its furnishings and equipments, and in keeping the same in good repair and condition, with interest on said expenditures at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, the said corporation shall thereupon immediately in writing notify the said board of aldermen of said city of that fact, and shall thereupon offer the said bridge, its furnishing and equipments, to be surrendered to the said city of Boston, to be, and if accepted by the said city the same shall be, forever thereafter maintained as a free bridge by the said city at the public expense.

City may take franchise and build free bridge.

SECTION 8. The said city of Boston is hereby authorized, if they shall so elect and determine, by a majority vote of the two branches of the city council, in concurrence, to assume and take the franchise granted by this act, with all the rights and privileges belonging to the same, and shall thereupon proceed forthwith to construct the said bridge as a free bridge, at its own expense, and for that purpose shall have authority to issue from time to time coupon bonds, notes, scrip, or certificates of debt, as said city council shall, by majority vote thereof, fix and determine.

—may make bridge free by paying cost of same and eight per cent. interest.

SECTION 9. The said city of Boston, by a vote of the city council, as aforesaid, may at any time during the continuance of this charter, purchase and take of said company the said bridge and all the franchise, rights, privileges and property of the said company by paying or offering to pay them therefor such sum as will re-imburse them the amount of moneys expended by them in and upon said bridge, its furnishings, equipments, and repair, as aforesaid, with eight per cent. interest thereon, and less the net profits of said corporation from tolls, as aforesaid, and for that purpose shall have authority to issue, from time to time, bonds, notes, scrip, or certificates of debt, as herein before provided; and upon such payment, or offer of payment, the said corporation shall forthwith, by proper instruments of title, surrender and convey to the said city the said bridge, with all the franchise, rights, privileges and property to the same appertaining, and the said bridge shall thereafter be maintained and kept by said city as a free bridge, at the public expense, as aforesaid.

SECTION 10. The said city of Boston, by a vote of the city council, as aforesaid, may assume and take, or purchase of said company, the said bridge and other property, as herein before provided, and have and exercise all the rights, powers and authority given to said company by this act, and subject to all the duties, liabilities and restrictions herein contained, in such manner and by such agents, officers and servants as the said city council shall from time to time ordain, appoint and direct; and shall have a right to collect and receive the same rates of toll as are allowed by the fourth section of this act to said company: provided, that whenever from the tolls collected on said bridge, or from other sources, the said city shall be fully re-imbursed for all outlays and expenditures on account of said bridge, and the operation of the same, then the tolls on said bridge shall cease, and the said bridge shall ever after be maintained by said city as a free bridge.

— may take bridge and collect tolls, &c.

Provido.

SECTION 11. If said corporation or said city, as the case may be, shall neglect for the space of five years to build and finish the said bridge, then this act shall be void.

Act void unless built in five years.

SECTION 12. Whenever two hundred thousand dollars of said capital stock has been actually paid in in cash, the said corporation may issue its bonds for an amount not exceeding the residue of its capital stock, at a rate of interest not exceeding eight per centum per annum, and not exceeding fifty years to their maturity, and secure the same by a mortgage of the said bridge, furnishings and equipments, and of the franchise and privileges thereto appertaining.

Bonds, how and when may be issued.

SECTION 13. When the said bridge company shall have built the said bridge, they shall offer, in writing, to purchase of the East Boston Ferry Company the boats, with their appurtenances, then in use by them for ferry purposes; and Company to purchase boats, &c., of East Boston Ferry Co. when bridge is completed.

Commissioners to fix terms if parties disagree.

Ferry to be run by bridge company.

Money to be paid within ninety days of award.

in case the two parties fail to agree upon the terms of said purchase, the supreme judicial court, in term time or vacation, shall, on the application of either party, appoint three commissioners to appraise the same at their fair valuation for ferry purposes, and shall fix the terms of purchase thereof; and if the same shall be accepted by said ferry company, they shall thereupon cease to run and maintain a ferry between said Boston and East Boston, and the same shall thereafter be run by said bridge company, with all the rights and privileges now had and enjoyed by the said East Boston Ferry Company; but if the said ferry company shall refuse to sell as aforesaid, the said bridge company shall be held to no further obligations hereunder. And if said bridge company shall fail to pay to said East Boston Ferry Company the amount awarded by said commissioners within ninety days after their award shall have been accepted by the said court, then this act shall be void.

SECTION 14. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

[Passed in concurrence on the eleventh of June by the Senate and House of Representatives in the manner prescribed by the constitution, upon being returned by the Governor with his objections and without approval]

$94,000 allowed for improvements and repairs at State house.

Resolved, That the sum of ninety-four thousand dollars be allowed and paid out of the treasury of the Commonwealth for the payments of the debts already contracted for labor and materials in the improvements and repairs of the state house: provided, no bill or claim shall be paid until the same shall have been approved by the committee appointed under a resolve passed at the present session, entitled a resolve concerning the improvements and repairs of the state house; and the same is hereby appropriated.

Approved June 11, 1868.

☛ The General Court of 1868 passed three hundred and fifty-two Acts and sixty-seven Resolves, which received the approval of the Governor. In addition to these, an Act to repeal chapter 249 of the Acts of the year 1865, entitled “An Act to establish a State Police,” and “An Act for the Better Enforcement of the Laws,” were laid before the Governor for revision and approval, and were returned by him to the House of Representatives—in which body they originated—with his objections thereto; and being put upon their final passage, in the manner provided by the constitution, two-thirds of the members present, and voting thereon, having voted in the affirmative, the Acts were thereupon sent to the Senate, and being put upon their final passage, two-thirds of the senators present and voting thereon having failed to agree “to pass the same,” they were declared lost, and thereby without force and effect.

“An Act to incorporate the Maverick Bridge Company,” and “An Act repealing a part of the eighty-seventh chapter of the Acts of the year eighteen hundred and fifty-two,” were laid before the Governor, and returned by him to the Senate—where they originated—with his objections thereto, when two-thirds of the members of each branch of the legislature having voted in the affirmative, the same have the force of law.

“An Act to regulate the sale of Intoxicating Liquors” was laid before the Governor, and having failed of his approval, and not having been returned within five days after receiving the same, the legislature not having adjourned in the meantime, said Act acquired the force of law, and has been so certified.

The legislature was prorogued on Friday, June 12, the session having occupied one hundred and sixty-four days.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS

HIS EXCELLENCY ALEXANDER H. BULLOCK.

At twelve o'clock on Friday, the third day of January, His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the members of the Executive Council, and officers of the civil and military departments of the government, attended by a joint committee of the two Houses, met the Senate and House of Representatives, in Convention, and delivered the following ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives :

It may well awaken our patriotic pride that we convene, at the beginning of a new year, public servants of a Commonwealth which is distinguished by independence, intelligence and contentment. Here also harmony, confidence and faith in the future prevail. No questions of the relations of the State with the National Union ; no doubts as to what we have done, or as to what we ought to do on the broad field of humanity and patriotism ; no fears of our public credit, which is subjected to little inquiry abroad because it is well sustained at home ; no general or particular apprehension as to our condition, or prospects, or duties, can disturb the reflections appropriate to this day and this occasion.

These facts ought, also, to quicken our sense of responsibility. Whatever we of this generation, as a part in the federal fraternity, have accomplished, and whatever as a local community we have attained, we owe largely to the virtues of our ancestors ; to their example of piety and morals ; to their devotion to the welfare of the whole country ; to their support of education and philanthropy ; to their consistent practice of liberality and economy in all the affairs of state. We cannot afford to obscure, or forget, or neglect the lessons of our past. They are to us a sacred treasury of resources. The thought of these examples, the imitation of them, varying only to accord with changing time and circumstance, may wisely be a chief influence in our own policy and action.

FREE EDUCATION.

We best give effect to one of the highest of their examples, and we continue a policy which stood first and last with them, by granting a broad and ample support to the interests of popular education. The wisdom and the necessity of this, as an assurance of our civil and political strength among the States, were never more obvious than now. The well ordered finances and the concentrated and intense system of productive labor of the Commonwealth have done much to gain for it a renown in all parts of the world ; and these are dependent upon that mental training which has given to our industry its keenness, its energy and its transmitted life. But, beyond the tangible relations of the material arts, the conditions of our success and reputation at home and abroad depend in chief upon the manifestations of cultivated mind in every sphere of thought and action. This State, now a small spot among the divisions of the map, must rely mainly for a conspicuous part in the influences and forces of a great nation, upon its educated manhood ; educated for statesmanship, and government, and science, and industry. There are no boundaries to circumscribe a Commonwealth in which such culture exists in full development. This conquers prejudices, makes all sections one, and imparts to local history universality.

In calling your attention to our public condition, I rejoice, therefore, that it becomes my duty to state that never before, in periods of peace or of war, have the returns of the department of education been so encouraging as at this time. You will bear in mind that the last year has been one of thoughtfulness and apprehension in relation to finance ; and yet, while the premonitions of financial embarrassments have usually been caught quickly by our towns, at no time before have they exhibited a perception of public difficulty so well matched by an equal readiness for public duty and sacrifice. In no former period have the people of Massachusetts proved themselves so largely just, and considerate, and generous in promoting the cause of education. I do not think that the returns of any previous year have illustrated such genuine progress. They indicate that the old system is at length reinvigorated by new ideas; and that the State is moving onward and upward, following the ancient example, but reinforcing it with the power of later and better methods.

It appears from the returns of the last year to the secretary of the Board of Education that two hundred and thirty-six thousand pupils have been in attendance in the public schools during an average time of eight months. Of this whole number less than twenty-six thousand were below five or over fifteen years of age. The number of teachers employed during the year has been nearly eight thousand; and the proportion of female teachers, now little short of seven-eighths of the whole, has been constantly increasing. This is a striking fact; not unsatisfactory when we consider that nearly the entire number of pupils in the free schools are between the ages of five and fifteen. We have now reached that stage in our public education when it is settled that instruction from female teachers is hereafter to prevail; and therefore it is that, having on two former occasions invited attention to the subject, I desire again to urge upon the people through their representatives, the absolute importance, as well as the simple justice, of a more liberal measure of compensation for the services of these teachers. The past year has witnessed an increase in this particular of about eight per cent. But the rates paid to female teachers in the whole State do not yet exceed one dollar per day, and fall far below those which the same people who support public schools and believe in them pay to uneducated laborers upon their farms and gardens. We may hail with satisfaction the ratio of increase in this respect which has occurred in the last three years, but not so much for what has yet been attained as for what we are encouraged to expect in the years to come. I am warranted, therefore, in once more urging the transcendent necessity of making larger compensation to the teachers of schools, because it is just, and because it will elevate not them alone, but also the schools and the whole people.

The amount raised by taxation during the year for the support of free education was $2,355,505.96, an increase from the previous year of $362,328.57. This is far in advance of any annual increase heretofore realized, and it has been accomplished at a time when the public burdens have begun to be sensibly felt by the citizens. I know not any better way in which to express the measure of sacrifice which the convictions of duty have brought this people to make, than the bare statement that the sum raised by taxes during the last year for free education averaged nine dollars for each child in the State. If to these we add the returned expenses of private schools, the whole amount becomes $3,160,665.94; which is equal to more than twelve dollars expended upon every boy and girl between five and fifteen years of age.

Accompanying all this increasing liberality in the support of public schools, there has been exhibited by teachers, and by a large class of citizens who have become interested in this subject, a growing and expanding spirit of inquiry. Methods of instruction, and all the generalities and particulars of the entire system, are subjected to open scrutiny and discussion. In all the callings of life the best modern thinkers are expending their most ingenious and laborious thoughts upon this field of investigation. In the wide range of topics which these inquiries have raised, by no means inconsiderable or unimportant has been that of the discipline and government of the public pupils; I call them public pupils because they are all such; though not taken from home or parentage, yet the wards of the State, under its beneficent and parental care.

One of the questions greatly discussed by the people, and in a large portion of the reports of the committees, has been that of the utility and wisdom of the practice of corporal punishment. Considering that about seven-eighths of all the public instructors are young women, it becomes important to them, and to more than two hundred and thirty-six thousand children in their charge, that the least possible measure of this mode of discipline should be practised. In my semi-annual visits to the four Normal schools, where I have had occasion to counsel three hundred young women going forth to the responsibilities of public teachers, I have not refrained from a free expression of the opinion, which I cherish as a conviction, that a Christian civilization, a just and large humanity, and a progressive policy of education, call for the very general disuse of corporal punishment in the schools of Massachusetts.

FINANCIAL CONDITION AND PROSPECTS.

The financial interests of the State will necessarily command the earnest attention of the Legislature. Never has there been more pressing need of carefulness and deliberation in the application and disposal of public resources, and in the preservation of the State and National credit. The present condition of our own finances will render the demand for wise legislation more than ever imperative.

With the resources at our command, there need be no obstacle nor even embarrassment in the way of prompt and efficient measures to secure the highest welfare of the people, without imposing heavy pecuniary burdens. Having this purpose in view, after thorough inquiry into the whole subject, I am enabled to submit for the consideration of the Legislature the three following propositions:—

First, The funding of all present temporary and floating liabilities;

Second, Such provision as shall not fail to make sure the redemption at maturity of such additional funded debt, together with all present outstanding funded liabilities for the payment of which no provision has heretofore been made;

Third, The establishment of sinking funds to be derived out of resources already at our disposal, and in such amount as, with their accumulations, will secure that result without a resort to taxation.

That these propositions are practicable and can be made available for the accomplishment of the purposes which I have mentioned, will clearly appear from the statement of the present condition of the public debt and resources of the Commonwealth, which I have the honor to submit for the information and action of the Legislature.

The Funded Debt and Provisions for its Redemption.

Of that portion of the funded debt of the Commonwealth, including loans to the Western, Norwich and Worcester, and Eastern Railroad Corporations, and amounting, on the first of January

current, to	$22,943,760 00
the payment of	21,605,760 00

is amply secured by sinking funds, bonds, mortgages and collaterals, the accumulations of the former being in some instances much more than sufficient for the redemption at maturity of the scrip for which they were established and pledged.

The scrip loaned to the Troy and Greenfield Railroad Corporation, amounting to $1,720,680, is not included in the foregoing statement of funded debt. The redemption of this scrip was originally provided for in the establishment of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad Loan Sinking Fund, and its securities, now amounting to $93,454.48, still remain in the custody of the Treasurer and Receiver-General.

The payment of this loan, however, is guaranteed beyond a peradventure in the pledged faith of the Commonwealth, in which is now vested absolute title to the road and its appurtenances. But in accordance with the long established and sound financial policy of Massachusetts, I have no hesitancy in recommending the resuscitation of this sinking fund, to be increased and supplied from such resources as the Legislature may designate, and in such amount as shall insure means for the redemption of past and future issues of scrip for the payment of expenses involved in the completion of the road and tunnel.

That portion of the funded debt for which no special provision has been made, is now	$1,338,000 00
One of the principal items included in this sum is the Coast Defence Loan, for the redemption of which special provision should be made, amounting to	888,000 00

The Coast Defence Loan was authorized by chapter 118 of the Acts of 1863, and of the proceeds derived therefrom there remains in the treasury, unappropriated, the sum of $359,062.28. The whole amount expended in the purchase of ordnance, repair and equipment of coast defences, and for the protection of harbors, &c., is thus far $432,187.72; and of the appropriation of $100,000 made by the Legislature of 1867 for the protection and preservation of Cape Cod Harbor, at Provincetown, the sum of $97,000 still remains subject to the requisition of the Commissioners as the work progresses. The amount, therefore, either actually expended or allowed for coast defences and protection of harbors is now $528,937.72, leaving the unappropriated balance as before stated.

During the year 1866, a portion of the ordnance purchased with this loan was sold, and the proceeds, amounting to $165,836.58, were paid into the State treasury. In the absence of any provision establishing a sinking fund for the redemption of the Coast Defence scrip, this money was placed to the credit of the ordinary revenue. As a measure tending directly and effectually to strengthen and advance the high credit already attained by Massachusetts at home and abroad, I earnestly recommend that this sum be set apart as the nucleus of a sinking fund pledged for the redemption of this scrip, which matures in 1883. To the fund thus created, enough should be added, either from the unappropriated balance remaining in the treasury to the credit of the Coast Defence Loan, or from the proceeds of re-imbursement soon expected from the United States government for coast defence expenditure, to make an amount which, with its legitimate accumulations, will be sufficient for the desired purpose. If from the three sources above indicated,—the first two of which exhibit nearly $525,000 in hand,—a Coast Defence Loan Sinking Fund of $366,000 were now established, the amount at six per cent. interest will redeem the entire loan at maturity, and that without a single dollar of taxation; while of the original assets, a large sum will yet remain applicable to such uses as the Legislature shall see fit to elect.

The Union Loan Sinking Fund, including the increased market value of its securities, is now nearly sufficient for the payment of the Union Fund Loan of $3,600,000, which matures in various instalments from 1871 to 1878. This fund, as I am confidently assured from official sources, will very soon receive an accession of more than eight hundred thousand dollars from the general government, in further re-imbursement of expenses incurred by Massachusetts on account of the war, upwards of six hundred thousand dollars of which is expected to be allowed in the course of the coming month. With this accession, the fund will be more than half a million of dollars in excess of the sum required for the payment of the Union Fund Loan. But under the provisions of the Acts establishing this fund, its accumulations, however needless, must continue, unless the Legislature shall direct their transfer to some other sinking fund where they may well be applied to the redemption of the public debt.

It is thus apparent that the surplusage from these sources alone, viz.: the Union Loan Sinking Fund and the balance of the proceeds of the Coast Defence Loan remaining after the creation of a Coast Defence Loan Sinking Fund, as before suggested, together with the amount to be re-imbursed by the United States, cannot in all probability be less than one million of dollars, an amount which, if merged into a new sinking fund, would, with its certain accumulations, be quite sufficient for the payment, at an early day, of all the present funded and unfunded liabilities of the Commonwealth for which no provision has yet been made. I think no considerate legislator can fail to be impressed with the fact, that if a sinking fund, embracing such means, and pledged for such a purpose, were to be created, the financial interests of the State and of its people would be very materially and successfully promoted.

The Unfunded Debt,

Represented by temporary loans and floating liabilities, amounted on the first of the present month to about . . . $1,903,120 00

This indebtedness has accrued mainly from large and necessary advances in excess of the issue of scrip to meet expenses incurred, during the last four years, in the prosecution of the work on the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel; from the re-imbursement of aid furnished by cities and towns to Massachusetts volunteers and their families, for which, in 1864 and 1865, inadequate provision was made in the assessment of the annual State taxes; from large and liberal expenditures authorized by acts of special legislation in excess of previous and well considered estimates, this excess amounting in the year 1867 alone to more than . . . $844,454 00 from the largely increased interest on the public debt, and from the heavy premium on gold, the former amounting, in 1867, to 1,264,592 48 and the latter to . . . 275,933 93 showing an aggregate of more than two million three hundred and eighty-four thousand nine hundred and eighty dollars.

As an additional explanation of the sources from which the present unfunded liabilities have arisen, it may be stated that the interest accruing upon the various loans of the Commonwealth has increased from in 1861, to . . . $112,773 43

in 1867; while, during the same period, there has been paid from the treasury as premium on gold, upwards of . . . 1,566,480 70

the two items of interest and premium amounting to . . . 6,096,977 30

Of this sum there has been paid as interest on temporary loans, rendered imperatively necessary by the pressing exigencies of war and special legislation, not less than $935,793.48, which, with the premium on gold, making an aggregate of $2,494,029.74, could not have been anticipated with any degree of accuracy. Consequently, this heavy and extraordinary outlay has been but partially provided for in the basis of taxation.

It should also be remembered that the exceptional or extraordinary expenditures authorized by acts of special legislation, in excess of previous estimates, amounted, in the years 1865, 1866 and 1867, to $1,290,134. These sums include, of course, the additional cost of the legislative sessions, the compensation and expenses for which, in 1867 alone, were upwards of $284,800 ; also the increase required for the maintenance of other departments and in aid of numerous objects, including among the latter, the amounts authorized for remodelling the State House and for other public buildings, and for improvements in Boston Harbor. The last two alone involve an expenditure of nearly half a million dollars ; while the maximum estimate for special allowances provided for in the State tax, was less than $100,000 (the estimate for the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel being entirely excluded from this statement.)

Upon careful and critical investigation of the whole subject, I suggest two methods for the retirement or payment of the existing unfunded loans and liabilities, affording, at the same time, effectual and much needed relief from the present burden of taxation.

One of these is the issue of a loan similar to that of 1861, for funding the public debt, the liquidation of such loan to be provided for in the sinking fund already proposed from the surplus accumulations of the funds heretofore named. These surplus amounts will readily furnish sufficient means for a sinking fund, which, with reasonable income from investment, will secure the redemption of at least three millions of scrip within the ordinary limit of maturity.

The other method of relief is the issue of the balance of scrip, amounting to $479,320, authorized by the provisions of chapter 226 of the Acts of 1854, and by subsequent Acts, for the construction and completion of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad and Hoosac Tunnel. Should this course be adopted, I recommend an addition to the amount by such further issue of scrip on the same account, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 304 of the Acts of 1867, as may be necessary to absorb that portion of the unfunded debt, now amounting to $2,300,000, which has accrued from advances in excess of former issues of scrip in aid of this enterprise ; such further issue to include also whatever appropriation the Legislature shall see fit to make in this behalf for the present year.

The liquidation at maturity of a loan of this character may be easily provided for in the Troy and Greenfield Railroad Loan Sinking Fund already recommended. With the requisite legislation authorizing the Treasurer and Receiver-General to issue such scrip under the direction of the Governor and Council, the Ordinary Revenue of the Commonwealth, from which such large advances have been made for this work, may be re-imbursed, and the amount, thus restored to its original and legitimate use may be applied to the payment of ordinary expenses, obviating thereby necessity for heavy taxation.

Of the practicability of either of these methods of relief, there would seem to be no question. The adoption of one or the other must be effectual in the restoration of two or three millions of dollars, which the necessities of the last four years have diverted from the ordinary uses of the government; while, with the aid most certain to accrue from such restoration to the treasury, together with the usual ordinary resources of the Commonwealth, swelling up an aggregate of more than three millions of dollars, it can hardly be possible that the expenditures of the current year will require a State tax exceeding two millions of dollars.

I have all the more confidence in the realization of this result, in the assurance that a loan authorized upon the basis proposed will command approval and favorable negotiation; nor will it increase the funded debt of the Commonwealth, since, during the present year, a large portion of the Western Railroad Loan will mature and be paid, as will also instalments of the Northampton Lunatic Hospital Loan and of the Five and Six Per Cent. Loans of 1861, for all of which provision is made, the cash on hand in the treasury being applicable to the payment of the last two. With the proceeds of the loan recommended, estimated at only two millions, together with the ordinary revenue of the year, say one million two hundred thousand dollars, and a State tax of two millions, with such portion of the cash on hand as may be made applicable to the payment of current expenses, the whole amounting to upwards of five millions of dollars, it will be seen that the treasury will be fully supplied with means with which to meet all estimated ordinary expenditure.

THE STATE CHARITIES.

In company with the Executive Council I have visited the several institutions of public charity as often as official business would permit, and I take pleasure in commending their appearance and general management. The unceasing injunctions to economy and retrenchment, proceeding from the Executive department, and from their own immediate supervisors, have been scrupulously regarded; and till prices regain their former level but little more can be expected, or in justice to the inmates should be required, in the reduction of expenditure, except through unceasing vigilance in removing at once those who are not justly chargeable to the Commonwealth. And this policy is insisted upon, not from motives of economy alone, though it is the safety-valve of our whole system, but on the broad ground of that comprehensive humanity which recognizes the assurance of an acknowledged and permanent home, in case of disability, as the truest interest and safest protection of the poor. Few of our people know and still fewer appreciate the force of the fact that the number of lunatics and paupers we annually remove from the State is equal to the average number we support, and that any omission or relaxation of effort in this direction would not only nearly double our outlay for current expenses, but would cause a demand at once for new buildings and their costly equipment. For the year 1867, the average number of State paupers in the almshouses, including the inmates of the State Workhouse and Primary School, has been 1,717, maintained at a cost of about $165,000 ; and of lunatics supported by the State in the hospitals, a little over 500, costing $95,000 more ; yet during the same period 2,149 have been removed from the Commonwealth at a cost of less than $10,000. The whole number of these classes removed since 1857 is about 20,000, and the direct consequences have been that no more public institutions have been established, but that one of those then existing has been closed ; that the average number of paupers supported in the State Almshouses has been reduced from 2,294 in 1856, to 1,717 in 1867, a decrease of 577, or 25 per cent. ; and their cost from $173,000 in gold in 1856, to $165,000 in currency in 1867 ; that the number of State lunatics, notwithstanding the large access chargeable to the rebellion, has not materially increased, and will soon fall below the number of twelve years ago ; and that the entire net cost of our State paupers proper, that is, those supported in the State Almshouses and Lunatic Hospitals, and relieved or buried by the cities and towns, does not exceed $280,000 for the present year. That system surely must have some efficiency which has met the results of twelve years' growth in population, encountered the obstacles arising from civil war and the derangement of the currency, and brought us through all so successfully that its actual cost in gold for the year just expired is less by many thousands than in 1855.

The classification of the inmates of the State Almshouses, designated by law and put in force in the Autumn of 1866, continues to work well in practice. In these institutions we have now four classes of persons: 1st, the chronic insane and the imbecile, numbering about 275; 2d, those entering the Almshouses from poverty induced by their own vicious indulgences, and sentenced to the State Workhouse, now averaging about 225; 3d, the children at the Primary School, numbering upwards of 400; and 4th, the paupers proper, of whom we have supported an average of between 700 and 800. This classification is not yet completed, but it is surely if slowly progressing, and we shall soon have virtually in place of the four pauper establishments, one State Almshouse, one Asylum for the Insane, one penal and one educational institution, containing together fewer inmates, and maintained at considerably less expense than under the former plan. That no inconvenience may befall the towns in the Southern and Western sections of the State, temporary accommodations are provided at Bridgewater and Monson, for the few paupers they may have occasion to send thither. The object of this classification, is to separate the virtuous poor and especially the children from contact with the vicious, to give the children proper instruction, and to place them as soon as possible in suitable families, to the end that in social relations and the public school they may forget their pauperism. And the design of our whole system of charities, as administered by its supervising Board, I conceive to be the retaining of every person, as far as may be, in his natural condition in society; if he loses it, his restoration thereto at the earliest moment; if by infirmity of body or mind he cannot regain it, his support by local means in that manner which shall most nearly approach it in the vicinity of his friends, and among familiar associations. Failing all this, the maintenance of a comfortable Almshouse for the honest poor,—whence strangers shall be sent promptly to their homes in other communities—and of a house of toil for the vicious, who shall there be taught that they cannot prey with impunity on the earnings of honorable labor. These principles seem sound in theory, practicable in execution, conducive to the greatest happiness of our dependent classes, and likely to promote a judicious economy.

The closing of the Hospital at Rainsford Island, which was finally accomplished one year ago, has resulted most advantageously to the State. There has been no increase of admissions to the other institutions by reason thereof, and its disuse has occasioned no embarrassment whatsoever. The really sick, who would ordinarily have been sent thither, have been provided for by the authorities of Boston, and the cost of this provision, with the entire outlay for the salary of the Superintendent, and necessary repairs, falls short of $8,000; while, previous to the adoption of this policy, the expenditures at the island averaged some $30,000 a year.

The Lunatic Hospitals have been managed with their usual efficiency, and present no noticeable feature, unless it be the extraordinary increase of the admissions from the general population, which have risen from 508 in 1865 to 662 in 1867. Their cost to the Commonwealth varies with the number of State Lunatic paupers, and with the rate of board, which is fixed yearly by the Legislature. At the present time the number of State Lunatics is 510, the price of board $3.50 per week, and the annual cost about $93,000. The necessity for an additional Hospital, which seemed at one time inevitable, has been averted by removals from the State and by the establishment of the Asylum at Tewksbury, whither the surplus of the harmless incurables is transferred, and where they are kindly cared for.

All these institutions have been carefully supervised by the Board of State Charities, whose officers have examined and removed their inmates, looked after the immigration into the Commonwealth, executed the laws of settlement, and performed the other manifold duties assigned by statute to this Board. They have met all their expenses for the year from their receipts, and have paid into the treasury a surplus of over $5,000.

Institutions of Private Charities.

For the condition and progress of the several Institutions of Charity aided by the State, to an amount exceeding in the aggregate $80,000, which might perhaps be judiciously lessened, I must refer you, with a single exception, to their Annual Reports.

CORRECTIONS AND REFORMS.

The State Prison.

I am happy to state that the sudden increase of crime co-incidental with the close of the civil war has at last culminated, and that a sure but steady decrease has begun. The number of commitments to the State Prison the past year was 128, being less than the average of 38 years, whereas in 1866 it was 247. The expiration of contracts for labor, and their renewal at prices comparatively remunerative, have wrought an entire change in the finances of the prison, which during the past year has earned about $21,000 over all expenses. The kindly interest of the excellent warden, manifested in so many efforts for the encouragement of the prisoners to walk in the better way, and for their intellectual and moral culture, has not passed unnoticed. It is due to him to say that he enjoys, as he merits, my entire confidence.

Institutions of Reform.

The institutions of juvenile reform are the Massachusetts Nautical School, the State Reform School for boys at Westborough, and the State Industrial School for girls at Lancaster. The average number in these reformatories was 687 in 1866 and 752 in 1867. Their expenses for the past year are more than $140,000, an excess of at least $20,000 over the outlay of the previous year. This increase of juvenile offenders, not only in our institutions where it is limited by the insufficient accommodations, but throughout the community, as well as this fast growing expenditure, is calculated to excite our serious alarm. Already the inmates of these schools approximate in number to the aggregate of our State paupers proper, and exhibit an average cost for each pupil nearly twice as large. It may well be considered whether there is not something radically unsound in our modes of dealing with a question so vital to every community as the preservation of the morals of its youth; and whether a portion of the large and annually growing sum demanded for the cure of a disease already progressed so far, might not be expended more profitably in efforts for its prevention. It is also worthy of inquiry whether the inmates of these establishments perform an amount of labor proportionate to their age and productive capacities. Though of slight consequence to the State in the way of re-imbursement, this is of infinite importance to themselves for the preservation of health and for acquiring power of application and the habit of daily toil. I am impressed with the conviction that we should advance no further in providing for this class of offenders at the expense of the State, either by creating a new establishment, or enlarging any one existing; and that, like other petty criminals, these should be dealt with by the local authorities, who are quite as likely to understand their individual peculiarities, and to manage them with good judgment, economy and humanity.

THE CLARKE INSTITUTION FOR DEAF MUTES.

In my last annual message I had the honor to recommend that provision be made for the instruction of the deaf mutes of the Commonwealth, within our limits, and to add my conviction that legislative action in this direction would develop rich sources of private beneficence. In response to this suggestion, the Legislature granted an Act of incorporation to the Clarke Institute for Deaf Mutes, located at Northampton, which was organized in July last, and was formally opened for the purposes of instruction on the first day of October.

My anticipations of private assistance were speedily realized ; and to a venerable citizen of the Commonwealth, whose name the Institution most appropriately bears, it is indebted for the most liberal endowment ever made to a similar institution upon this continent. In coming years, when we shall have passed away, and our agency in this labor of love shall have been forgotten, successive generations of the silent restored to speech will articulate with gratitude the name of John Clarke, of Northampton, who, in faith, hope and charity, has devoted so large a portion of the accumulation of a life of honorable industry to a work of Christian philanthropy. I have no doubt that other generous citizens of the Commonwealth will respond to this act of munificence, and that before many years shall have elapsed, no child of Massachusetts will be compelled to seek the means of instruction beyond her limits. In company with members of the Executive Council and several officers of the State, I have recently visited this school, which, in recognition of her self-sacrificing devotion to this class of unfortunates, has been intrusted to an enthusiastic and experienced teacher, Harriet B. Rogers.

Although the school had been in operation but a few weeks, the progress of the pupils was not only satisfactory in the highest degree, but excited the admiration of experienced instructors among the visitors. I have no hesitation in urging the Legislature to cherish it kindly ; to remove gradually such restrictions in regard to age or continuance of study as a wise caution has at first thrown around them ; and to assign to it such an increased proportion of the usual appropriation for deaf mutes as its growing numbers may require, beyond the income of its endowment. In view of the fact that it is an educational institution, and on that ground is intrusted to the supervision of the Board of Education, and because it is the duty of the Commonwealth to furnish to all its children an education at the public expense, I suggest that future appropriations for its aid be drawn from the school fund of Massachusetts to the end that compliance with a public right may not be accounted as public charity.

THE LAWS OF SETTLEMENT.

For some years past urgent representations have been made, not only by men of philanthropic instincts, but of practical knowledge and experience, that the Laws of Settlement of this Commonwealth are neither in accordance with the spirit of the age nor adapted to the present constitution of our society.

The right of settlement or legal residence seems to be based on the theory that contribution by an individual to the public wealth or welfare, and bearing for a specified period his proportion of the common burdens, should entitle himself, his family and posterity to public aid or support in the days of their disability. It is a species of mutual insurance interwoven in the social compact, and no disgrace can properly attach to the enjoyment of its benefits, unless the disability proceed from an unworthy cause. Our earliest settlers brought with them from the mother country this familiar institution, and speedily provided for it in colonial and provincial laws. As in a new country interest and policy demanded the ready acquisition of all the rights of domicile and citizenship they ordained, as the condition of settlement in a town, at first three months' and afterward one year's residence of the individual without being "warned out" of its limits, or receiving public assistance during that period. And this settlement once gained in any town within the colony or province was never to be defeated or lost, save by the gaining of a new settlement in some other town in the same colony or province.

I am informed that, as early as 1639, provision was made for lawfully settling all poor and unsettled persons, and that the first instance of State pauperism, so called, mentioned in the history of Massachusetts, occurred in the time of King Philip's war, when the ruined and houseless inhabitants of the ravaged districts were distributed by the General Court for maintenance among other towns of the colony. So early did our forefathers initiate the principle which has nearly ever since pervaded the legislation of Massachusetts on this subject, and which, in my judgment, can be extended yet farther with advantage,—that it is better that paupers should be chargeable upon towns than upon the State. But after the lapse of a hundred and fifty years, a denser and more varied population and the upheaving of ancient landmarks by the Revolutionary war induced a change, and nearly three-quarters of a century ago new and more stringent regulations were adopted; borrowed in the main from the English code, and constituting substantially our present system. The principal requisitions to settlement are now residence for ten successive years without receiving public aid, with the payment of all taxes assessed for State, county or town purposes for any five years during that time, or the residing upon one's own real estate for three successive years,—the party always being a citizen and of lawful age. These conditions might have been well suited to the needs of an agricultural and commercial population, secure in its own permanence. But the progress of manufactures among us has developed new and unforeseen relations towards our countrymen from other States, while Immigration has imposed new duties toward our brethren from other lands. Both classes, seeking homes among us, have added largely to our productive energies and material wealth ; but for both, the conditions of acquiring settlement are far too onerous. Compelled to follow the ebb and flow of the demand for labor, they can hardly maintain an uninterrupted residence of ten years in a single town ; or, if perchance they accomplish it, some wary official will omit to assess them for the fifth time, or abate a tax with ready lenity. Large numbers are thus, in ignorance of their rights, deprived of the residence they are on the point of acquiring,—and after a sober and industrious life, in the infirmity of age, are given over to a State almshouse. Meanwhile our permanent and settled population has been gradually and surely decreasing, its young men having removed southward and westward, and peopled new States from the loins of Massachusetts. And so far has this process advanced of rapid decrease and slow increase of settled residents that competent judges avow their conviction that already our settled population numbers less than one-half of the people of the State.

Thus we are steadily departing from the wise policy of our fathers, by insisting on these rigid regulations, when the century that gave birth to them has passed away, and in declining to recognize the changed circumstances of a new era. We are sundering localities. We are destroying the family relation, breaking up and dispersing households perhaps never to meet again. We are multiplying the number of juvenile offenders, whose disposal and management are already a problem that puzzles our wisest and most experienced men. We are depriving communities of labor, that should be as permanent and available as the natural laws of supply and demand will allow. We are aggregating our poor in huge institutions, intensifying every defect, and violating sanitary laws. We are destroying all their ambition, demoralizing and permanently pauperizing them. In short, we are infringing just principles of political economy, and piling up a huge burden for the finances of the State.

Moved by these pressing representations of thoughtful, humane and experienced men, I was induced to give the subject such investigation as I was able, but soon discovered that a far-seeing and true-hearted man had trodden the path before me. In his last annual message Governor Andrew earnestly advised a revision of the laws of settlement and proposed specific additions. These, I regret to say, were with one exception defeated in Committee, on the ground that the present statutes had been thoroughly adjudicated and that any change would give rise to embarrassing litigation. But I concur entirely with my predecessor that decisions and precedents and reverence for ancient forms of law must not stand in the way of sound political economy, humanity and morality. I have therefore the honor to renew most of his suggestions, with others which farther inquiry has developed, and bespeak for them your earnest consideration. It will be observed that these propositions point rather to an extension than an alteration of the present statutes, and are not likely to provoke any serious litigation.

1. Aliens, having completed all the other conditions of settlement, except the act of naturalization, shall enjoy the same privileges in that regard as the native born. If the theory is correct that service rendered should entitle to legal residence, no accidents of birth or color or race or sex should bar any from equal rights of acquisition and enjoyment. In limiting this privilege to citizens Massachusetts stands almost if not entirely alone among the States. This should no longer be permitted. In her justice and her charity she should recognize no frontiers but those of humanity itself.

2. A method should be provided whereby single women may gain a settlement. After useful and guileless lives of industry and self-sacrifice, we should not permit them in their advancing age and infirmity, to be torn away from the friends and associations and homes of half a century, to linger out the remnant in a State Almshouse.

3. Cities and towns should be prohibited under penalty from sending to a State Almshouse, or otherwise charging upon the Commonwealth, any person whose paternal settlement is obscure, but who has a well known maternal settlement. I am assured by the officers of our charities that the rights of citizens, in this respect, are not sufficiently protected by the Statutes.

4. I recommend careful inquiry whether the prerequisite of ten years' continuous residence may not safely be reduced at least to the maximum of the neighboring States. Maine requires but five years' residence, New York but one, and, if my information is correct, the maximum of the others is seven. And further, I suggest whether assessors shall be permitted to prevent the acquisition of a settlement by omission to impose a tax, or abatement of any already laid. I cannot doubt that a great amount of hardship will be averted by these two changes alone.

5. I earnestly recommend a thorough investigation of the expediency of encouraging the towns to assist at home worthy and industrious families which have no settlement, with a partial or full re-imbursement from the State, in the same manner and under the same supervision as that now adopted for the relief of the sick poor therein. It is clear to my apprehension that the grant of a little temporary aid, in the way of fuel or supplies, may save the maintenance of the entire household for months in a public institution.

6. And, finally, I have to call the attention of the Legislature to a remarkable anomaly, which requires their immediate interference for the protection of our own tax-payers. While our settled residents number only a few hundred thousand, we are yet, by our own laws, responsible for the support of all the descendants of every man and woman who has ever gained or derived a settlement within our limits, who must surely be counted by millions. No matter if centuries have elapsed since one of the family set foot on our soil, the obligation is still the same, and wherever they may be scattered over the face of the earth, their sick, their insane, their defectives, their paupers may return to Massachusetts to be supported by the town of original settlement. And although they may have acquired a subsequent settlement in another State, in towns where they will be acknowledged and provided for, yet our own Statutes, as the Attorney-General informs us in a most elaborate and able treatise, forbid us to remove them except with their free consent. Two or three illustrations will suffice. One hundred years ago a resident of a small town in the county of Worcester whose political sentiments, according to tradition, were obnoxious to his fellow-citizens, emigrated to a neighboring State, where he lived and died, and his descendants after him to the fourth generation, all having settlements in that State, and nearly all being owners of the soil. A few years since one of his great-grandsons returned to Massachusetts, became insane, and was sent to a Lunatic Hospital at a cost to the small town above named, whence his ancestor originated, of about twelve hundred dollars up to this time, and of two hundred dollars a year, in addition, as long as he may live. He cannot legally be returned to his own birthplace and the home of his fathers for four generations. About 1743 a family left a small town in the county of Bristol and gained settlements successively in three other New England States, never returning to reside in Massachusetts. One hundred and eighteen years afterward four idiot members of this family were returned to this State to be supported by the ancestral town at an expense of not less than six hundred dollars a year. A town in the county of Norfolk, by virtue of an ancestral settlement, is now compelled to support a lunatic who escaped a few months since from the Almshouse of his native city, where his legal residence is undisputed. It is just that our people should be relieved of these burdens, which no other State imposes on its citizens. And I therefore recommend the early adoption of a provision allowing such persons to be returned to the place of subsequent settlement.

Aware of my inability to treat, as it deserves, a subject so intricate and delicate, I trust that I have said enough to induce at least the initiation in this Legislature of a more liberal policy toward our industrial classes.

In view of the importance of friendly and harmonious legislation on immigration, pauperism and settlement throughout New England, I have authorized the officers of our charities to confer with the Executives or Legislatures of the other States, and to take measures, if possible, to secure it. New Hampshire has already responded by Resolution of her Legislature, and I should be gratified if our own would formally sanction the individual action of her Executive authorities.

THE MILITIA.

The number of men present at the last fall encampments of the Volunteer militia was five thousand seven hundred and fifty-three; an increase from the attendance in the previous year of nearly seven hundred. It is my opportunity and pleasure to assure you, from my personal observation, that the appearance and service of the force during the five days of camp duty were in the highest degree creditable. One-third of the present number of enrolled men have served the United States in the recent war, and their cheerful enlistment into our volunteer companies entitles them to the grateful appreciation of all citizens. The laws relating to our military system, as they stand since the amendments made by the last Legislature, work apparently well, and no essential revision appears to be necessary.

The change of the period of camp service, from three days to five, has in the single experiment made under it manifested most satisfactory results. Upon a recent occasion of popular demonstration towards a distinguished officer of the army of the United States, Major General Sheridan, nearly five thousand of these men, of their own volition and without pay, performed the duty of escort; and I do not speak with language of extravagance in saying that never before has the militia of Massachusetts, by a thoroughness of discipline and practice, and an entire absence of ostentation, so well justified to every observer the expenditure necessary to maintain this organization for our protection and defence.

The number of companies which now constitute this arm of the public service comprises ninety-two of Infantry, six of Cavalry, and four of Artillery. The amount expended for military bounties and for armories has been nearly ten thousand dollars below the appropriations made by the last General Court.

The annual cost of maintaining such a force as the present, under existing laws, is not far from one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. However large this sum may appear, it is my deliberate judgment, formed in the light of the lessons of experience, and with a full knowledge of the present admirable condition of the force, that no item of public expenditure is better justified than this. I challenge comparison from all the States of an equal amount expended and an equal array of results accomplished.

The public stores in the arsenal at Cambridge are now in excellent condition, and it will be the pleasure of the patriotic officer in charge to exhibit the buildings and military material at any time to the members of the General Court.

TROY AND GREENFIELD RAILROAD AND HOOSAC TUNNEL.

In my communication to the Legislature one year ago I stated that under direction of Chapter two hundred and ninety-three of the Acts of 1866 the construction of the railroad between Greenfield and the Tunnel had been contracted for, and that a lease of the same had been executed under the approval of the Executive Council. The road has now been completed as far as Shelburne Falls, a distance of thirteen miles, and the corporations, lessees, have commenced the running of regular trains. It was formally opened two months ago, and the great attendance of people, and the deep interest manifested by them in the first advent of the locomotive into the valley of the Deerfield, afforded striking proof of the value fixed by the whole population of the North-Western portion of the State upon their new connection with general commerce. The remaining portion of the line, extending from the Falls to the mountain, seventeen miles in length, will be finished in the next summer, and will constitute the completion of a road of thirty miles, built at a fair cost and holding a strong relation to the interests of the whole public.

The progress of the work upon the Tunnel itself, though prosecuted at some points under adverse circumstances, has as a whole been highly encouraging for the future. During the year a contract was made with three experienced men for work on the Central Shaft and the East End, but after a sufficient trial it appeared that the parties would be unable to execute it, and the relinquishment of the contract was accepted by the Governor and Council and operations at those points were resumed by the State.

The prosecution of the work at the Central Shaft was arrested in October by the destruction of the buildings and machinery by fire, which was also attended by a lamentable loss of human life. Measures have been commenced for the earliest replacement of the fixtures, and for the continuance of that excavation. Notwithstanding this and other drawbacks, there was at this point in a period of twelve months an increase of progress over the preceding, of seventy-six feet.

At the West End, which, under a policy initiated by Mr. Brooks, the former chairman of the Commissioners, has been worked upon the contract system for nearly a year and a half by the very efficient contractor, there has been a good advance and reasonable success. The original contract has been repeated upon terms more favorable to the State, and its execution promises every anticipated result.

At the West Shaft, upon the two linear headings, there has been a decrease of advance compared with the corresponding months of the previous year, of one hundred and twelve feet. This loss has come from the great influx of water without a pumping capacity to dispose of it. A policy, in this particular, intended for economy, has in my judgment been found to be erroneous, and I cannot doubt that it would have been a true economy to have provided one year ago at a greater expense for larger and more efficient pumps. But the knowledge of present difficulties has now prepared the Commissioners to meet them with a proper application of power to overcome them. The obstacle of water can be and will be overcome, and a rate of advance corresponding to the prosperous results realized at the East End may be expected.

At the East End the linear advance has been within the year one thousand and fifty-one feet, showing an increase over the previous year of four hundred and fifty-nine feet. The drills have proved an entire success, and this class of machines will be soon introduced into the West Shaft, where they should accomplish similar results.

The Report of the Commissioners and that of the consulting Engineer will be transmitted to the Legislature at an early day. The consulting Engineer, Mr. Benjamin H. Latrobe, has, during the year, visited the Tunnel of the Alps, and has presented in his report a variety of facts learned there which will be found to possess much interest. That great work has now proceeded nearly twenty-five thousand linear feet, leaving fifteen thousand yet to be accomplished. That enterprise, like our own, was beset with many difficulties in its earlier stages; but by a constantly accelerating progress from year to year, it has attained a result of nearly four thousand feet in the nine months preceding last October. After weighing carefully all the unfavorable as well as the favorable circumstances which surround our own work, it is my firm belief that a similar acceleration may be expected here; and that this undertaking can be finished within the time and cost estimated by Mr. Latrobe in his report for 1866, which will be found stated in my last address to the two Houses.

AGRICULTURE—THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The success of farm labor has been signal, notwithstanding the adverse character of the seasons. The display of stock and products at the public fairs in the autumn was gratifying, and the number of people who gave attendance was without parallel in the past years. It is manifest that while the pursuits of trade and the practical arts obey tendencies to centralization in the cities and large towns, yet of the population thus massed together for business a proportion constantly increasing choose homes in the country with the attractions of rural life. Such expend much of their time, their capital, and their faculties upon experimental agriculture and horticulture. The influence of this has been already perceived in the improvement of the quality of stock, and in a larger development of the productive capacity of our soil. Simultaneously, and not less benefi-cent, has been the effect of this change in the modes of life, of a large and influential class of citizens upon the character of our whole population, creating ties of common interest and sympathy between classes hitherto in many respects widely differing; displacing jealousies by the substitution of good will, and extending harmony through the social and industrial relations of all.

The last General Court added four to the number of incorporated agricultural Societies, making twenty-nine in all. It may well be doubted whether of these there are not now quite enough for their own efficiency and for the public finances. Many of these bodies are already well supplied with means, and scarcely need the aid of bounty from the treasury. I suggest for your consideration, whether a reduction in the amount of the bounties might not wisely be effected by encouraging one-half of the societies in alternate years, and by limiting the patronage of the State to biennial exhibitions instead of annual. Doubtless annual shows would still continue to be held.

The annual report of the Massachusetts Agricultural College will in due time be submitted to the General Court. This institution was established by the Legislature of 1863, upon the foundation of the grant by Congress of three hundred and sixty thousand acres of the public lands. The proceeds of the sale of one-tenth of these were allowed for the purchase of a farm, and two-thirds of the income of the fund obtained by the sale of the remaining nine-tenths was given to the College as an endowment. So far as I am informed, our own is the only State which has applied the gift from Congress to the purposes of education explicitly and wholly in the interest of agriculture. In October last the institution established in the town of Amherst was opened for the reception of pupils, who already number forty-seven, comparing favorably in every respect with the classes in the other colleges of the State. It has been the policy of the trustees, to apply the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars, pledged by the town of Amherst, to the erection of buildings requisite to carry out the experiment; and such buildings have been completed and are now used to their full capacity by the first class that has entered. A plant house has been constructed upon a liberal scale, at a cost of ten thousand dollars, given for that purpose by Mr. Nathan Durfee, a public-spirited citizen of Fall River. The whole sum already invested in the College is $275,000. A detailed statement of the plans of study and management of the institution, the operations upon the farm, and the general success thus far of a system of agricultural education which combines theory and practice, will be found in the report of the Trustees.

I am aware that this whole enterprise is in its beginning regarded by many with that kind of incredulity which is too apt to disparage all great experiments ; but the College has been established by the Commonwealth, and the magnitude of the amount invested, the public demand for more liberal training of those who will devote themselves to this too long neglected class of industrial pursuits, and the demonstrated tendency of every school of learning in the interest of practical labor to increase the wealth and improve the character of the people, call for the exercise of a large patience and liberality in awaiting and judging the results. The well approved character of the president and other officers of the institution is a guaranty that the experiment will not fail for want of zeal or ability in its friends.

BANKS FOR SAVINGS.

I have been greatly impressed by the results returned to me by the Commissioner of the Institutions for Savings. It appears that in October last the amount of deposits in one hundred and eight savings institutions was more than eighty millions of dollars, $80,431,583.71 ; with a surplus of earnings on hand of $3,172,877.01 ; making an aggregate of $83,604,460.72. Of this sum five-eighths have accumulated within the last ten years. This amount exceeds the paid-in capital of all the National banks in Massachusetts by more than three and a half millions of dollars. The increase of deposits during the year has been $12,699,319.40 against an increase of $1,795,781.79 in the previous year. The cause of this extraordinary increase may in part be found in the facts, that these institutions have very generally raised their ordinary rate of interest, and that they have paid large extra dividends during the past three years, which they have been enabled to make by reason of their income from National Bank stocks, (one-eighth of which in this Commonwealth they own,) and from interest and premiums upon United States and State securities.

I shall not venture to indulge in conjectures or speculations concerning the future prospects of these institutions, in the present unsettled condition of the financial policy of the federal government. One thing is quite evident ; that however others may reason about the national securities and the national credit, there are in Massachusetts three hundred forty-eight thousand five hundred and ninety-three persons, depositors in the banks of savings, who are by that relation the owners of thirty millions of federal bonds and eleven millions of national bank stocks, which is one-half of the whole of their deposits, and to whom it is of vital importance that the government of the United States should keep good faith with its creditors.

Under the operation of the law relating to the rate of interest, enacted by the last General Court, the savings banks almost without exception have charged seven per cent. upon their loans; and this practice appears to have been entirely satisfactory to borrowers. One result which I commend to the attention of our citizens is expressed by the fact that five millions [5,000,000] have recently been loaned by these institutions upon the security of mortgages of real estate. I hear from many parts of the Commonwealth that there is a drift of opinion in favor of extending the line of loans in this direction; and in my judgment this must be received as one but not an inconsiderable proof of the practical benefits of this change of the laws of usury.

THE INLAND FISHERIES.

I invite your favorable attention to the very interesting report of the commissioners on fisheries. The Lowell and Lawrence fishways were opened last spring with such success that during the summer both salmon and shad were taken near Nashua in New Hampshire, for the first time since 1849. Since their completion, that State, having made successful experiments with spawn, and taken measures to restock the Merrimack with salmon, awaits only the construction of fishways over our mill-dams on the Connecticut, to stock that river also. By the report of the commissioners it appears that the proprietors of the dams at Hadley's and Turner's Falls on the Connecticut, withhold, or positively refuse, that co-operation which the mill-owners of Lawrence and Lowell were glad to afford. I ask your consideration whether it is not possible to overcome by legislation the difficulties which the commissioners recite, arising from the indifference or opposition of the proprietors at Hadley's Falls. The movement to restock the New England rivers with useful fish is one in which all the New England States, except Rhode Island, are engaged, through commissioners who have associated themselves informally into one common board in order to insure harmony of action. In respect to the Merrimack and the Connecticut, its success depends on harmony of legislation between the States traversed by those rivers. Having pledged ourselves to Vermont, New Hampshire and Connecticut, to co-operate with them for this common object, I cannot but think that those States will have reasonable cause of complaint if we shall neglect to remedy the obstacles on the Connecticut River for which we, as a State, are in part responsible by having incorporated the proprietors who have built the dams; and if, after consideration, it shall seem to you to be impracticable or injudicious to require them to remedy at their own cost the damage to the fisheries which the dams are causing, then I see no other course than to construct a fishway at Hadley's Falls at the expense of the Commonwealth according to the estimate of the commissioners. The State of Connecticut has passed an act prohibiting the taking of shad in the Connecticut River at any season of the year except during the three months following March 15, and prohibiting the taking of salmon there absolutely until March 15, 1872; but on the condition that Massachusetts, at the present session of the General Court, shall prescribe the same limitations on the taking of those fish in that part of the river which lies within our territory. I cordially advise concurrence in this legislation.

I commend to especial attention those portions of the commissioners' report relating to the artificial propagation of fish, and to the experiments of Mr. Seth Green, at Holyoke, which it treats with great earnestness. The subject is one not of mere scientific interest, but of great practical importance to all classes of our people by its bearing on the prices and supply of food. If the results attained by Mr. Green, of increasing the production of fish seventy-fold by artificial breeding are capable of general repetition, it opens a new and very important field of productive industry, of the value of which the commissioners afford significant indications by reference to the value of the inland fisheries of Scotland, Ireland and Wales. In 1863, those countries, with an area about equal to New England, furnished to the London market alone 3,712,016 pounds of salmon, worth more than a million dollars; the fishing-rental of the river Tay alone for 1864 was $75,000 gold; and these results, considerable though they may appear, have been greatly surpassed in later years during which the artificial breeding of fish has been more extensively and intelligently prosecuted.

STATE AGENCY AT WASHINGTON.

I beg to recommend the renewal of an appropriation for the support of the State agency at Washington. The past year has been the first, since the agency was established, during which Massachusetts has had no troops in service in the field ; but with the close of the war arose a large business in the prosecution of our soldiers' claims for bounties, pensions, and arrears of pay, and in the investigations necessary to correct and certify the military records of the adjutant-general's office, which has kept the agency constantly and usefully employed. On December 1, 1866, it had in its charge 2,316 unsettled claims of our soldiers. During the year which ended December 1, 1867, 2,697 additional claims were prosecuted by it, almost all of them being received through the office of the Surgeon-General of the State ; and 1,879 claims were finally settled, on which there were collected from the United States for the claimants $203,458.41. The number of unsettled claims now in its charge is therefore more than three thousand. During the past year it has also ascertained and certified for the records of the adjutant-general's office the military history of 3,719 men. The total of its expenses for the year has been less than seventy-five hundred dollars. I am satisfied that among all the benevolent expenditures of the State, none is productive of more good at less cost. The amount of money which the agency has saved to poor families of soldiers, who otherwise would have been preyed upon by dishonest claim-agents, exceeds many times the expense of its support, to say nothing of the ease of mind it affords to such poor people by the consciousness that their affairs are in the hands of officers of approved character, responsible to the Commonwealth for their conduct. In other ways also the experience of our State agent at Washington has been availed of, especially in regard to the preparation and settlement of the claims of Massachusetts on the general government for re-imbursement of military outlays, to which I have alluded elsewhere. The time, doubtless, is not far distant, when the agency may be discontinued ; but for the present, I am persuaded that its continuance is needful. I refer you to the report of the Surgeon-General for an account in detail of its business and expenses.

THE PAYMASTER AND BOUNTIES.

At the commencement of the present year I directed the Paymaster's department to be finally discontinued, believing that the payment of any bounties subject to call may reasonably be conducted through the permanent departments of the government ; at the same time employing a single person to complete the records of that office which will be absolutely essential in years to come.

Of the bounties still purporting to be due and uncalled for, a large portion date back two, three, four or more years. Considering the extensive desertions in the last years of the war in connection with the bounty system, and bounty brokerage in its various modes of fraud, it may be reasonably assumed that in a great number of cases those who might have claimed these bounties uncalled for, were deserters, knowing that they have forfeited the allowance to which actual service would have entitled them. In the last two years many instances have occurred of claimants and others ascertaining the names of soldiers having sums of money standing to their credit on the rolls, and then manufacturing evidence upon which to secure the payment of the same. In some cases, when rejected by the Executive, these have been urged upon the Legislature, generally without success. You will permit me to suggest a close scrutiny of any such claims which may be presented during the present session. Desiring to do substantial justice to the soldiers and to the treasury, I have directed the Paymaster to turn over to the Adjutant-General for revision all bounty rolls in his possession which accrued under the jurisdiction of the provost-marshals, all other rolls having been previously transferred for the same purpose. I have also requested the Treasurer to furnish to the Adjutant-General for that purpose a descriptive list of all to whom full or monthly bounties still appear to be due on his unpaid rolls, and not himself to make further payment of the same unless duly certified on new and properly approved rolls. This course will unquestionably accomplish justice to all, and will legitimately close up what remains of this great account.

THE HARBOR OF BOSTON.

Much has been done and still more proposed during the past year for the benefit of Boston Harbor. Immediately after the appointment of the Harbor Commissioners in 1866, they caused surveys to be made by their engineer, Mr. Albert Boschke, to ascertain what ought to be done for the protection and improvement of the lower harbor. These surveys were made with great care. Mr. Boschke's estimate of the expense of the necessary works amounted in the aggregate to something more than a million dollars. The plan of the whole work was approved by Major-General A. A. Humphreys, Chief Engineer of the United States Army, and recommended by the Secretary of War.

At the final session of the last Congress the Harbor Commissioners presented a petition for an appropriation to protect and improve the outer harbor. The necessity of the aid sought being apparent, Congress granted an appropriation of three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars for the "preservation and improvements of Boston Harbor." This grant of Congress has enabled Major-General Benham to continue the construction of the sea-wall on the Great Brewster, which it is hoped, will prevent further waste of the island and further extension of the Spit.

Other works, under the skillful superintendence of Major-General J. G. Foster, which will be of the greatest benefit to the lower harbor, have been ingeniously and successfully prosecuted. Two rocks,—known as Tower Rock and Corwin Rock,—very dangerous to ships of great draft, lay in a narrow part of the main ship channel. The entire removal of the Tower Rock to a depth of more than twenty-three feet below low-water, and the partial destruction of the Corwin Rock, have been already effected. The deepening and widening of the main ship channel in another narrow part, by cutting off a portion of Lovell's Island, has also been begun under the charge of the same able officer, and will, together with the destruction of the Corwin Rock as far as necessary, be finished, it is believed, in the ensuing season. For the details of these and other interesting operations, begun and planned to protect and improve the lower harbor, I refer to the Harbor Commissioners' Report. I congratulate the Commonwealth on having secured the co-operation of the United States to such an extent in aid of our navigation.

For the continuation of these important operations, the Secretary of War has recommended to the present Congress an appropriation of $287,000. There is every reason to hope that the work so well begun will be consummated by the United States, as I am sure we have a right to expect.

Good progress has been made in establishing the basis upon which the projected improvement of the South Boston Flats shall be made. In the year 1866, the Legislature adopted a plan for the improvement of these flats, the execution of which in its essential features would involve a very considerable extension of the wharves on the Boston side of Fort Point Channel, and a filling up of the flats on the south side of the channel, after enclosing them by a sea-wall which would be available in the construction of wharves and docks bordering on the deep water of the harbor. But occupation of the flats in this manner was believed to involve, also, the necessity of large and very expensive excavations in Charles and Mystic Rivers, the most effective tidal reservoirs of Boston Harbor, to compensate for the water displaced by the proposed filling, and so to preserve the scouring force of the tide. It was feared, if this system of compensation was an inseparable part of the plan, that all the profits to the Commonwealth aside from the improvement itself, would be swallowed up in the necessary measures for preventing the injuries that must result to the harbor from the displacement of so much tide-water. Fortunately, however, for the immediate pecuniary success of this great enterprise, new investigations have been made and a conclusion has been reached, having the high sanction of distinguished scientific men, that an equivalent for compensation for tide-water displaced, much cheaper than compensation in kind can be obtained, 1. By dredging certain portions of the main channel of the harbor to the depth of twenty-three feet below mean low-water and using the material so dredged to fill up the South Boston Flats which lie in close proximity; 2. By the guarantee of the Commonwealth to defray out of the profits of the enterprise the expense of annually removing by dredging such accumulations in the channel as may take place. The income of half a million of dollars it is thought will be sufficient for the complete protection of the harbor, and should such a sum be set aside by the Commonwealth for this object, there will undoubtedly still remain a larger surplus of pecuniary profit accruing to the State. For the purpose of making this improvement the Legislature of the past year authorized the Harbor Commissioners to contract for the construction of a continuous sea-wall on the south side of Fort Point Channel on a line parallel with the line as laid down upon the plan adopted by the General Court. They also provided for the appointment of an engineer who should determine the line of the wall and prepare the plan and specifications for building it. Two hundred thousand dollars were appropriated for the work. By the provisions of the law the location of the line of the wall by the engineer, his plans and specifications, and the contract for the work to be executed by the Board of Harbor Commissioners, were all made subject to the approval of the Governor and Council; while the construction of the work was placed in charge of the engineer under the direction of the board. Under this Act I appointed Mr. George R. Baldwin, an engineer of experience in this kind of work. The Commissioners were also authorized to change the lines of Fort Point Channel as laid down on the legislative plan of 1866, in order that, by conveying the channel nearer the Boston side, the requisite extension of wharves might be reduced to the lowest amount and the area of improved flats on the other side of the channel enlarged. This change in the line the Commissioners have made.

After considerable discussion before the Executive Council I have approved a line for the wall running fifty feet inside of the outer line of the legislative plan of 1866, and parallel with it,—a space of about fifty feet width being reserved for the construction of platforms at the ends of the wharves that will be built upon this improved land. My reason for approving this line is that the intention of the Legislature, derived from the construction of the statute under which the Executive was to act as well as from the explicit testimony of the members of the Legislature who framed the law, seemed to be that the wall should be built on or near the line approved. If, however, the wall is to be built upon this line the cost will be very much larger than the $200,000 appropriated for its construction, and the Legislature will be obliged to increase the appropriation, or give to the board of Harbor Commissioners, who are charged with the duty of building this wall, authority to pay for it in land which shall be filled in.

Moreover, in order to make this wall and improved territory available for commercial purposes, the Commissioners should have authority to build, not a continuous wall, but a wall which shall serve as the outer wall of wharves, separated by docks, whenever they may be wanted along the deep water front of the land improved. It is also to be borne in mind that it is important for the security of Boston Harbor that the extension of the wharves on the Boston side of Fort Point Channel should be secured during the progress of these works.

I have thought it advisable not to approve any contracts before the meeting of the Legislature, but to lay the whole matter before you, that you may give the requisite authority to the board having the construction of the wall in charge, for building it in such a manner that it may be available for commerce and of value to the State, and that the means may be provided for paying for it at the cost at which it must be built, either by further appropriation or in land to be created by this improvement.

CAPE COD HARBOR.

By chapter eighty-six of the Resolves of 1867 a sum not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars was allowed and appropriated to the protection and preservation of the Harbor at Provincetown, to be expended by Commissioners upon plans approved by the Governor and Council. At an early day the Commissioners provided by the Resolve were appointed and they have since industriously attended to the grave duty assigned to them. Quite recently their report, with plans and models, has been submitted, and it will be transmitted to you for information and for such further action as in your wisdom may seem proper. The eminent engineer who has made the necessary surveys and whose judgment upon the subject is embodied in the report, has now retired from the commission; but his presence as a member of the House of Representatives will enable the Legislature to become familiar with the exigencies of the case. The report presents the urgent necessity of immediate action by somebody, either on the part of the State or the Federal government, for protecting this harbor from the rapid wearing of the sea. I have been constrained to decline any action upon the plans reported, because the estimates of the cost of the work, if carried out in the manner recommended by the Commissioners, exceed by fifty thousand dollars the amount allowed by the Resolve. You will permit me to invite your early attention to the subject; for if the State is to prosecute the undertaking it will be essential, both for the object itself and for economy in attaining it, that contracts for material may be made during the present season.

THE PROHIBITORY LAW.

In a free Commonwealth the will of the people must be acknowledged, respected and obeyed as the supreme law of the land. After ample consideration and free discussion, they have expressed at the ballot box their emphatic disapproval of the prohibitory law, so called, with its present penalties and methods of enforcement. Precisely what policy shall be adopted in its stead they have not so distinctly intimated. But it is to be supposed that the representatives of their own selection, fresh from the popular assemblies, have been made fully aware of the sentiments and desires of their immediate constituents.

Under these circumstances, it would be presumptuous in me, however decided my convictions, to propose and maintain a policy which might conflict with the expressed pleasure of the people.

In response to an order of inquiry addressed to me by the House of Representatives of 1867, I had the honor to state that "It is not for the chief executive magistrate to assume at his discretion, in one instance to enforce, and in another instance to suspend, existing laws. For this would be virtually to exercise legislative power ;” and further, that “ if laws which are deemed unwise are found upon the statute book, they must nevertheless be enforced impartially and faithfully by all the officers of the government, until amended or repealed by the Legislature, with whom alone rests the power of making and repealing the laws.” By the principles expressed in that communication I propose steadfastly to abide ; and accordingly I respectfully refer this whole question, so momentous in its relations, and so interesting to the people, to the careful deliberation and wise judgment of their representatives in the General Court.

I must, however, be permitted to record my deliberate conviction that the moral and religious sentiment of our community will not tolerate the absence of all legislative provisions regarding the traffic in intoxicating drinks, but demands its restraint, regulation, control, by positive enactment. And further, that no statute will command the respect and permanent support of the people of Massachusetts, which shall conflict with the paramount claims of industry, sobriety and good order, or be inconsistent with their reputation as an intelligent and Christian Commonwealth.

THE STATE CONSTABULARY.

I shall have the honor to transmit to the Legislature the Report of Major Edward J. Jones, the Constable of the Commonwealth, (a conscientious and efficient officer, who has my confidence,) with the accompanying statistics exhibiting in detail the operations of his force for the past year.

As a magistrate, responsible for the administration of the laws, I cannot pass by in silence this record of faithful service rendered in the execution of an enactment the justice and expediency of which are questioned by so many citizens of intelligence and probity.

The great majority of the Constabulary is composed of veterans of the Army and Navy, many of them disabled in the service of the country and all of them presenting an honorable military record. They have been inured by martial discipline to unquestioning obedience to orders, whether in fulfilling the duties of the camp, or facing the dangers of the field. Hence, doubtless, they have performed the duties assigned them with an exactness and a stringency novel to citizens unfamiliar with military methods and unused to summary proceedings. But it must be remembered that whether in carrying out the specialties of a particular law, or in encountering the desperate burglar or midnight assassin, or in threading as detectives the intricacies of crime, they have for the most part displayed coolness, alacrity and skill. Then, "since we punish not the sword itself, the instrument of the law," it is unjust that obloquy should fall on those who have discharged their disagreeable and often painful duties with courage and discretion. It is also unjust that they should suffer in the public esteem by reason of the incapacity, infidelity, or rashness of a few, whose counterparts are to be found in all similar bodies, and who were introduced to the Constabulary by the efforts of eminent men both among the friends and opponents of the policy they were expected to enforce. That I should say this much, is due not only to meritorious men, faithful to a public trust under reproach and contumely, but also to the cause of law and order, which must be sustained and vindicated in its dignity and integrity by the support of its administrative officers.

It is well known that my lamented predecessor, when called upon to interpose the power of the Commonwealth in an exigency affecting the right of free speech in the City of Boston, found himself without any civil force whatsoever for the maintenance of public order. In his last special message to the Legislature he took occasion to use the following language in relation to the Constabulary: "I should be unfaithful to the people of Massachusetts, if I omitted to declare the opinion, resulting from five years' experience in executive affairs, that the maintenance of such a civil force, directly responsible to the chief executive magistrate, is of high importance, and will yet prove essential to the Commonwealth. This opinion has no especial connection with any class of legislative enactments. All the laws may be altered or repealed the infractions of which led to this establishment, yet still it would be needful, unless it is deemed best to leave the chief magistrate without power to execute the laws." These words of advice emanating from the clear head and true heart of him who has left us, will doubtless have their due weight with the people of the State and with their representatives; and it will be for your wisdom to determine whether the minimum of this force, as fixed by the original Act establishing it, shall not be retained to aid in the preservation of the public peace and to carry out with efficiency such provisions of law, if any, as you may choose to substitute for those now existing.

NATURAL HISTORY.

Under the provisions of Chapter thirty-two of the Resolves of 1867, I appointed Mr. William G. Binney, one of the best of American naturalists, to edit and arrange the republication of the Report on the Invertebrate Animals of Massachusetts, which had been before authorized by Chapter forty-four of the Resolves of 1865; a work which had been left unfinished by the death of the late Dr. A. A. Gould. No compensation is asked or expected for this important labor. The appropriation of $4,000 made by Chapter two hundred and eighty-two of the Acts of 1865 was reaffirmed by the Resolve of 1867, and it was provided that the work should be done as nearly as possible in accordance with the plans and views of the original author.

Mr. Binney, who was appointed with the full concurrence of the representatives of Dr. Gould, has entered upon his duties and made informal reports of his progress, from which it appears that an additional appropriation of $4,000 will be necessary to bring out the work in a style creditable to the State and uniform with the other works of a similar character which we have published, and which have helped to give to this Commonwealth a reputation for liberal culture in other countries. This additional cost results in part from the fact that the original estimates were made some years ago, when everything connected with book-making was much cheaper than now; in part from the fact that the present editor has been able to procure many additional drawings for illustrations which should be included in the work; and somewhat from the fact that the original copperplates on which Mr. Gould depended, cannot be found, although every effort has been made to discover them, and which, unless soon discovered, it will be necessary to replace. If they shall be found the whole of this additional $4,000 will not be required. I also respectfully suggest further legislation relative to the distribution of the books when published.

THE STATE HOUSE.

The Legislature of the last year provided for a thorough change in the condition of this building, and for additional and more commodious rooms for the committees of its two branches. Improvements had long been needful to the health and comfort of the members of the Legislature and of the various officers and clerks who pass here the business hours of every year. By an inadvertence, the main outlay necessary to the prosecution of the work was not provided for in any bill of appropriation; but the commissioners rightly judged it to be their duty to proceed at once with the undertaking, relying on the present General Court to appropriate the money. The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives were invested with full powers to direct and carry on the whole work. The late day of the final adjournment of the Legislature postponed the commencement of active operations till July; and consequently the progress which has been made, which I am sure must satisfy if it does not surprise us, has been accomplished within the brief period of six months.

Of the assiduity and fidelity with which the commissioners have performed their duty, it has been my own opportunity to be a daily witness, and it is my pleasure to make public mention of it upon this occasion. The President of the Senate, the Honorable Joseph A. Pond, was suddenly removed by death in October last. The Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Honorable James M. Stone, has therefore been obliged to discharge alone the difficult and responsible task of the commission. I think you will concur with me that he has performed these functions with extraordinary success, and I am confident that no better officer could have been intrusted with the completion of the entire work and the settlement with all the contractors. The State House, thus changed to the great benefit of the public, may reasonably be expected to satisfy the essential wants of the present generation, with only inconsiderable additional expense to repair damages by weather and time.

THE NATION.

The close of the conflict for national unity finds the country perplexed by questions of finance, and confused by the uncertainties of the future. In these embarrassments the people of this Commonwealth, from the wide extent of their commercial relations, inevitably share. But the great principles of civil liberty transplanted to her soil, cherished through the lapse of centuries, and ever maintained by the treasure and the blood of her sons, have been vindicated in the contest. As then, faithful to her traditions, she was the first to assert their supremacy on hostile soil, so may she, as a Christian Commonwealth, be the first to recognize the new duties of a conquered peace. Suffering severely as they must from the waste and material loss of the conflict, her people cannot forget that the work of the warrior is done, and that the duties of the statesman have begun. I am sure that they will agree with me that no word is to be retracted, no principle compromised. But I am equally sure that they will remember that it is of vital import to our citizens that the waste of war should be repaired, that our productive energies should be fully employed,—every spindle set in motion, every laborer supplied with work. I am confident, too, that in accordance with the teachings of their pious fathers, while fidelity to freedom forbids them to forget, they will admit their duty to forgive, and that magnanimity to the defeated is not necessarily compromise of principle.

We have destroyed involuntary servitude. We have manumitted a race of men and conceded to them equality of civil and political rights. In the exercise of these rights in the proceedings of the conventions in the Southern States, which they have mainly controlled, I believe that, after making due allowances, they have displayed a praiseworthy moderation. It is a sacred duty to insure them protection in the enjoyment of the rights we have guaranteed. But we must also remember that there are millions of the white race who cannot and must not always be retained in the position of abject foes; millions whose productive labor is necessary for the discharge of national obligations which must never be repudiated, and whose good will and co-operation are essential to a complete and thorough re-union. Let us then hear no more of confiscation and attainder for the Southern masses. Let us make an end of illiberal and unfriendly legislation, and while compromising no principle for which we have contended let us restore those lately in rebellion to equality of rights as speedily as is consistent with the national safety.

The present obstacles to re-construction must come to a speedy end, whether interposed by unrepentant rebels, by a President who does not make treason odious, or by those whom his policy has deluded into renewed resistance. The welfare and the will of the people require it. They demand peace; peace from turmoil of mind, as well as from turmoil of war; peace for their finances, for their industry, for their commerce; and, having the determination and the power, there is no mistaking the agency by which they intend to enforce it. If embittered men refuse to accept the boon that is proffered, the responsibility, the shame and the ruinous consequences will be theirs alone. If they are so blind to their own interests as to incite hostility between races, they will find that the nation is strong; that the nation will maintain its guarantees. No rights of loyal men will be surrendered to effect any settlement whatsoever. Equality of rights and universal suffrage are irreversible facts. The wheels of revolution do not roll backward. In the march of civilization and democratic ideas, this nation takes no backward step.

ULYSSES S. GRANT.

It is the record of history that in great public crises the instinct of a nation points with unerring sagacity to some man of the people whom they adopt at once, in assurance of faith, as their chosen champion and deliverer; and by a natural law this abiding confidence is through its own soothing power the surest guaranty of success.

In this dark hour of national exigency we have need of a leader whose integrity is uncorrupted by political associations and whose patriotism has not permitted him to descend to the arena of partisan warfare; of a tried leader of undaunted courage, who will be swayed neither by popular passion nor sectional prejudice; of a man of cautious reticence, who has no inconsistencies to explain, no policies to maintain, no theories to promulgate; of a leader who comprehends the position and relations of all sections of our common country, and who will bring to the administration of public affairs executive ability, economical ideas, a clear head and an honest heart.

It is manifest that it is the same Providence which brought us safely through the storm of war, that moves this whole people now with singular unanimity to recognize in a plain, unpretending citizen him whose energy, discretion and exalted patriotism will restore peace and prosperity to discordant States and a distracted land. The man for the crisis—the man for the hour—the man of the people—is ULYSSES S. GRANT. Before his pre-eminent fitness for the high office to which a grateful nation would elevate him, let personal preferences yield, let faction subside, that peace, good will and union may once more and forever abide throughout the Republic!

JOHN ALBION ANDREW.

Within a few weeks past the people have been deeply affected by the death of JOHN ALBION ANDREW. His remarkable abilities, his political and professional eminence, his protracted and arduous service in a high public trust during a period of unprecedented difficulties, have caused his death to be universally lamented and have earned for him an enduring place in our history. His honesty and courage, his sagacity and simplicity, his kindness and frankness, his fidelity to friends and generosity to all, the purity of his life and the patriotism of his principles, have already surrounded his name and memory with testimonials of respect and affection such as are rarely witnessed. The records of the Executive Department of this Commonwealth will bear perpetual testimony to his labors. So great and various duties as fell to him have not happened to any chief magistrate before, and could not have come to any other more safely than to him. In the performance of duty, nothing moved him; he marched directly forward upon the road where that called him. He was "clear in his great office."

But for myself, his breadth, and scope, and genius for public affairs, do not so much affect me on this occasion, as do the personal memories of the hour. It was my fortune, in another office of the State, to be associated with him during the entire term of his administration; to have constant opportunities to observe his methods of faithful service; to witness the play of those private qualities which underlie the official service of a public man; and which, if he be just and generous and great, reach beyond everything contained in his published record. For these, above all things else, it is my pleasure to remember him; a contemporary in years and fellowship; stricken down when if he might have lived, higher honors were awaiting him; but dying in the maturity of fame, and leaving to those who best knew him the recollection of one who was not greater in results than he was youthful and ingenuous in heart, when death overtook him in mid career.

SPECIAL MESSAGES.

THE FOLLOWING SPECIAL COMMUNICATIONS WERE MADE BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR, TO THE LEGISLATURE,
DURING THE ANNUAL SESSION.

[To the House of Representatives, January 15.]

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the information of the General Court,—

1. The Report of the Constable of the Commonwealth.
2. The Report of the State Paymaster.
3. The Report of the Surgeon-General.
4. The Report of the Commissioners on Fisheries.

Reports of State
Constable, Paymaster, Surgeon-general and Commissioners on Fisheries.

[To the House of Representatives, January 23.]

I have the honor to forward the Report of the Commissioners appointed under the Resolves relating to Cape Cod Harbor at Provincetown.

Report Commissioners on Cape Cod Harbor.

Appended thereto will be found a communication from Professor Benjamin Peirce, Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey, and the able report of Assistant Henry L. Whiting, together with a map of the harbor. A model which accompanied the report of the Commissioners cannot conveniently be sent in with these documents, but will await the order of any committee which shall call for it.

[To the Senate, January 24.]

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the information of the General Court, the Annual Report of the Board of Education; also, the report of the officer appointed under chapter 285, of the Acts of 1867, "in relation to the schooling and hours of labor of children employed in manufacturing and mechanical establishments." I desire to commend to the consideration of the legislature the able and exhaustive report of this officer, which not only presents a full statement of the results of his investigation into the subject committed to him within the Commonwealth, but a comparison with the facts as they exist in the manufacturing establishments of England. And I also transmit the report of

Reports Board of Education and of the committee on schooling and hours of labor of children employed in manufacturing establishments, and Commissioner on the Hoosac Tunnel.

Alvah Crocker, Commissioner in charge of the work at the Hoosac Tunnel together with a copy of the report of the Consulting Engineer, Benjamin H. Latrobe. Accompanying these documents will also be found the report of Alfred R. Field, Chief Engineer in the construction of the Troy and Greenfield Railroad.

[To the Senate, January 23.]

Sale of certain heavy ordnance to Wm. H. Cilley for $165,836.58.

In reply to the request of the Senate concerning the sale of heavy ordnance belonging to the Commonwealth, referred to in my last Annual Address to the legislature, I have the honor herewith to transmit a transcript, marked (A,) from the official records of the governor and council, together with the copy of a communication marked (B,) from the treasurer and receiver-general; and also, to refer to the official report of the quartermaster-general, which was printed with Public Document No. 7, of the series of last year.

In June, 1865, overtures were made to me by Mr. William H. Cilley, for the purchase of these munitions. Deeming that it was very desirable for the Commonwealth to sell them, and that such an opportunity might never occur again, I at once entertained his proposal for a negotiation. Accordingly, I appointed his honor the lieutenant-governor, the major-general of the militia and the quartermaster-general an informal commission to conduct the negotiation in my behalf. They reported, on June 26, that they could procure from Mr. Cilley a price nearly equal to the cost of the munitions to the Commonwealth, and submitted a memorandum of an agreement of sale and of terms of payment. This, on June 29, was approved by the governor and council, as appears by the transcript (A,) above referred to. In pursuance of that agreement, the munitions were thereupon delivered to Mr. Cilley as they lay at the State arsenal, at Cambridge, and the stipulated price was paid by him in the draft for one hundred sixty-six thousand two hundred and ten dollars, ($166,210,) as agreed.

Early in September, deeming it not according to the regular course of business on the part of government for the Commonwealth to be a holder of commercial paper, I requested the executive council to concur with me in instructing the treasurer and receiver-general to sell the draft. A copy of this order in council is annexed to the communication (B) of the treasurer.

In pursuance of that order, he, on September 19, sold the draft to the National Bank of Redemption, the net proceeds of the sale being one hundred sixty-five thousand eight hundred thirty-six $\frac{58}{100}$ dollars, (\$165,836.58,) as appears by his communication ; by the statement of Mr. W. D. Forbes, the president of that bank, thereto annexed, and by the report of the quartermaster-general for the year 1866, already referred to. That negotiation and sale of the draft I approved according to the terms of the order of the council, and the money passed into the treasury.

I think it proper to add that these munitions were a part of the large purchase of heavy ordnance made by my predecessor during the late war, under the Resolves of the legislature relative to coast defence. He endeavored, ineffectually, in the latter part of the last year of his administration, to sell them ; and I have regarded it as very fortunate for the Commonwealth that the opportunity has since happened to make the sale of so large a part of them. The Armstrong guns, still lying in England, which cost even a larger sum than those already sold, I have made repeated attempts to sell during the last two years ; but thus far, without receiving an offer of price, either in Europe or in this country.

[To the House of Representatives, February 15.]

I have received the copy of an Order adopted by the house of representatives, requesting me to furnish, for the information of the legislature, any communications I may have received in relation to the Hoosac Tunnel, from either of the former chairmen of the board of commissioners, or from any member of said board, or from the consulting engineer of the governor and council. Hoosac Tunnel.

It will be perceived that a literal and exact compliance with this request would involve the transmission of all communications from the persons mentioned received by me in the years 1866, 1867 and 1868, covering private letters as well as official, and making no discrimination as to whether such communications were written before or after the authors of them had retired from office. This material occupies a very considerable space in the files of the executive department ; and to make copies of the whole would require more than a month's time of my clerical force. Many of these communications relate to mere matters of detail, and have been embodied in more concentrated form in the annual reports made by the officers alluded to and heretofore transmitted to the legislature. In some instances these papers are accompanied by elaborate plans made by the highest skill of engineers, which are essential to a complete understanding of the communications ; and these cannot well be spared from the executive files, nor have I at command the clerical skill requisite for the production of duplicates. Unless I shall be otherwise apprised by the house of representatives, I shall deem it a respectful construction of its intent to take it for granted that the Order was not meant to be thus comprehensive.

The correspondence of this department, relating to the Hoosac Tunnel, is both public and private. All the essential public communications, which are held here, have already been forwarded to the general court, either by copies of the originals, or in the form of reports which contain their substance. In addition to these there are many others which were intended as confidential, and which have been so treated by the governor and council. I am constrained respectfully to say that, according to my sense of public duty and of propriety towards individuals, this class of communications ought to be retained upon the executive files without publication, in conformity with the purpose of the writers. But it will be my pleasure at any time to exhibit their contents to any committee of the legislature, having the general subject in charge, which shall desire to obtain from them information concerning the public work referred to.

During the last two years the general court has charged the governor and council with the duty of oversight of this enterprise. It must be apparent, upon reflection, that the execution of such a trust brings the governor and council into relations with the commissioners and the consulting engineer, which at times are quite likely to be in their nature confidential. Especially has this proved to be true whenever personal differences have arisen among those officers. In some such instances the executive has received from those gentlemen communications which are ex parte in their character, the promulgation of which might work injustice to others having had no opportunity to reply. Under the recent re-organization of the commission consequent upon the retirement of two of its members, and by the adoption of certain orders in council for the direction and government of the commissioners, it is believed that no further troubles of this kind will arise. Whatever dissensions may have arisen heretofore in the board, whether relating to measures or to persons, I cannot think that the public interests would be promoted by a discussion or publication of them. Still, as I have before intimated in this communication, if it shall seem best to the legislature to institute inquiry or investigation in this particular, the correspondence now resting in this department shall be open to the inspection of the committee to which the subject may be intrusted.

I transmit a copy of one communication received by me from the late chairman of the commission before the passage of the Order of the house of representatives. This was not sent in with the annual reports, for the reason that it was written nearly one month after that gentleman had resigned his office, and it was therefore not regarded as an official paper.

[To the House of Representatives, February 17.]

I have the honor to reply to an Order of inquiry which I have received, requesting me to inform the house relative to the improvements at the State prison, authorized by chapter eight of the Resolves of eighteen hundred and sixty-seven;—whether or not the same have been completed and at what cost.

Improvements at State prison.

The Resolve referred to placed this work under the direction of the governor and council. Accordingly I appointed a committee of the council to have the whole matter in their charge. By appointment they assigned the practical management of the improvements to the efficient warden of the prison, who has completed them in a manner which reflects upon that officer the highest degree of credit. Upon the first day of the present year he made a report to the committee of the council above referred to. That report furnishes so complete a reply to the Order of the house of representatives that I append a copy of it to this communication.

[To the House of Representatives, February 19.]

I return without my approval the Bill entitled an Act to repeal chapter two hundred and fifty-nine of the Acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, entitled an Act to establish a State Police, and the Acts and parts of Acts in addition or relating thereto.

State police.

The people of the Commonwealth, dissatisfied with the prohibitory law, uneasy under its unwonted restraints, believing it not only an infringement of personal rights, but of doubtful expediency as a question of ethics, and equally uncertain as to its moral results, have recently recorded their verdict against it by an expression of their will so emphatic and so mandatory that it must be recognized alike by the legislature and by the executive. But in this earnest utterance of their desire for a change of policy in regard to the traffic in intoxicating drinks, I fail to find satisfactory evidence that they also demand an absolute repeal of those enactments which confer upon the chief magistrate of the Commonwealth the power and the means, commensurate with his constitutional obligations, to execute not merely the objectionable statute I have mentioned, but those other laws devised by a long succession of legislatures to preserve the morals of our community and to protect our tax-paying citizens. Indeed, in the abundant representations which have reached me from all sections of the State, alike from friends and opponents of the prohibitory law, and in my personal knowledge of the efficiency of the State Constabulary in maintaining public order and securing the ends of justice, apart from any specialty of legislation, I find strong reason to believe that the people do not desire a discontinuance of this force.

I invite the attention of the representatives of the people, uninfluenced by prepossession or prejudice, under a sense of the solemn obligations we have assumed for the faithful maintenance of the laws, and of our common responsibility to our constituents of the present time and to the generations to come, to a candid consideration of the fast-changing condition of our social life, and to the new duties thus imposed on us as legislators and citizens of a Christian Commonwealth. A prosperous commerce, progress in the arts, and the increase of manufactures have condensed our population in large towns and cities, intensified vicious inclinations, and multiplied the actual number of crimes. This is apparently the price of public prosperity and wealth. Official records display to the public gaze an alarming increase of offences against person and property; of licentiousness and gambling, as well as of insanity and pauperism that are directly traceable to lives of vice. Private reports made to the executive by his subordinate officers reveal a condition of affairs yet more deplorable. Temptations are increased manifold. Restraints are removed or disregarded. It is immaterial whether this comes from a vicious practice of passing laws with a kind of expectation that they are not to be enforced, or from the actual non-enforcement of the laws, or from both causes combined. The evil exists, and the remedy is apparent. Punishment should be speedy and sure, as speedy and sure as possible, consistent with a proper regard of personal rights and personal liberty.

To deal with this advancing demoralization, the municipal police, however honest or well-disposed, seem to a great extent inadequate. They are engrossed in the execution of local ordinances, or perhaps in some instances are withheld from efficient action by the understood or expressed desire of those in authority. Else why do these haunts of vice exist, with their full and admitted knowledge, earning the wages of iniquity in their very presence? Till this question is satisfactorily answered we have a right to conclude, either that public sentiment has become demoralized, or that the local force is insufficient for the execution of the laws. And in either case it is apparent that public decency and order, and public justice require the maintenance of an executive body which shall not be controlled by the public sentiments of any locality; which shall be competent in its spirit, its discipline and its numbers to a reasonable and judicious but just and impartial enforcement of the statutes of the Commonwealth.

The experience of the past two years has convinced me of the superior efficiency of the present system in the administration of our criminal laws. In the detection of crime a conspicuous degree of skill and perseverance has been witnessed, and the record of that department of the Constabulary has been marred by no mischievous and disreputable compounding of felony; while in the arrest of desperate offenders a resolute courage has been displayed, which has more than once evoked the respect and admiration of the public. And when we consider the facility of escape afforded to the wrong-doer by our varied means of communication, it is reasonable to suppose that his opportunities for evading justice would be greatly diminished under a central bureau of police whose arm of power would reach at once to every section of the Commonwealth. In view of these facts, I feel that the chief magistrate in his efforts to maintain the supremacy of law, and to abate those pests of society, heretofore comparatively unmolested, which are a snare to the young and inexperienced of our own people and to the stranger sojourning among us, has a right to expect the co-operation of every conscientious legislator and every honorable and law-abiding citizen.

In adverting in my annual message to the expression of the popular will on the question of prohibition, I had the honor to "record my deliberate conviction that the moral and religious sentiment of our community will not tolerate the absence of all legislative provisions regarding the traffic in intoxicating drinks, but demands its restraint, regulation, control, by positive enactment." Events have only confirmed that conviction. Whether the prohibitory law be retained, unaltered or modified, or be replaced by some other form of statute, it will be equally the constitutional duty of the executive to enforce thoroughly and impartially the expressed will of the legislature when it shall have become a law of the Commonwealth. Without such enforcement it cannot command the respect of the people or stand as the settled policy of the State. Under any law of regulation certain rights will be conferred on licensees for a consideration, and the good faith of the State will require it to make good its guaranty. That any one will seriously claim that this faith can be kept, this equality of right maintained, by the action of the local authorities, I cannot for an instant believe. Our own experience is against it. Positive evidence from abroad contradicts it. In the discussion before the committee of the legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, the great mind of the leading advocate of more liberal legislation could conceive of no other method of securing equality of right and the public safety than by a power superior to the municipal authorities.

From the State of New York I have official information that the success of the excise law has been due to the placing of the licensing and the enforcing power in a body not directly dependent on local elections, and that without this safeguard the law would have been a failure. And in support of this statement the following facts are adduced. The excise district includes three towns in Queens County, where there is no metropolitan police, but only the local constables. In these towns the law is almost wholly a dead letter. The local authorities will not enforce it. As a result, but twenty licenses have been taken out there, though there are one hundred and fifty avowed sellers of liquor. On the other hand, in Richmond County, which is included in the excise district, and is, like the towns of Queens County, a country district, one hundred and forty-two licenses have been taken out there, and there are no unlicensed vendors. The reason is, that Richmond County has a metropolitan police, while Queens County has not. This positive testimony from such undoubted authority confirms my conviction that a due regard to public justice and private rights requires that the enforcement of any law of regulation should be committed to officers compensated from the revenue received from licenses, untrammelled by local influences, and responsible directly to the executive of the Commonwealth.

Because, then, I am convinced that the great body of the people of Massachusetts have indicated no desire for the abolishment of the State Constabulary; because, in my judgment, the public interest and safety demand additional means for the sure and speedy detection and punishment of crime; and because, in the event of the passage of any such law of regulation as is obviously expected by the people, the protection of the public, the faith of the State and the rights of individuals should not be imperilled by intrusting its execution to the municipal officers, I am constrained to withhold my approval from this Bill.

[To the Senate, March 13.]

I have the honor to transmit to the General Court certain communications received from the Engineers' Department, Washington, requesting the aid of this Commonwealth in obtaining for the United States the title to tracts of land on Long Island and at Point Alderton, needed for the national defence and for the preservation and improvement of Boston Harbor; and asking a cession of the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth over the same. As these requests relate intimately to the prosecution of work in the harbor which is of great interest to the people of this Commonwealth, I respectfully invite the early attention of the legislature to the subject.

Request of U. S. for cession of jurisdiction.

Boston Harbor.

I also transmit a communication received from the Secretary of the Navy asking a cession of jurisdiction to the United States over certain land in Charlestown adjoining the main entrance to the Navy Yard. Accompanying these papers are plans of the several tracts referred to.

Charlestown Navy Yard.

I forward for the consideration of the legislature two communications received from the Commissioners having charge of the Soldiers' National Cemeteries at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, and at Sharpsburg, Maryland, requesting action on the part of the several States to transfer the care and supervision of those burial places of Union soldiers, upon their completion, to the United States Government. I respectfully recommend a compliance with this request, and for the reasons in that behalf I beg leave to refer to the accompanying papers.

Soldiers' National Cemeteries.

I also herewith transmit the Annual Report of the Adjutant-General of the Commonwealth for the year eighteen hundred and sixty-seven.

Adjutant-general's report.

[To the House of Representatives, March 19.]

By a Resolve, chapter eighty-five, of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, concerning the "Hutchinson Papers," the Governor was requested to ascertain whether any books, manuscripts or other documents now in possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society, are the property of the Commonwealth; and to take such measures as he might deem proper to determine the question of title and procure the restoration of the same to the Library of the Commonwealth; and report to the present General Court the results of his action under the Resolve.

Hutchinson Papers in possession of Mass. Historical Society, right of the Commonwealth to.

I inclose herewith copies of the correspondence which has occurred between the Executive and certain officers of the Historical Society relative to this subject. It will be perceived from the communication of Messrs. Ellis, Parker and Washburn that the title of that society to the papers in dispute rests upon allegations which it is not in the power of the Executive to controvert without a thorough investigation, which it is more practicable for the legislature than this Department to pursue.

I therefore respectfully suggest that all the facts necessary to a just conclusion in this matter can be best ascertained upon an investigation made by a legislative committee clothed with power to send for persons and papers, and to examine witnesses under oath. This power seems essential in a case like the present; but the Governor does not possess it under our laws.

[To the House of Representatives, April 17.]

Imprisonment of Wm. C. Nugent.

In compliance with the request of the legislature, I forwarded to the Secretary of State of the United States a copy of the memorial of Richard Nugent relative to William C. Nugent, an adopted citizen of the United States and of this Commonwealth, and asked the prompt attention of that officer to the case as set forth in the Resolve.

I have received from the honorable William H. Seward, Secretary of State, a reply to my communication, and a copy of the correspondence is hereto annexed.

It will be perceived that before any action of the legislature in relation to this subject, upon representations made to the department, the Secretary of State and the Minister of the United States at London had taken most prompt and honorable measures to procure the release of Nugent, and these efforts appear to have been attended with such success that the person named has been released and is on his way to the United States.

[To the Senate, April 18.]

Boston Dental College.

I respectfully return to the Senate, in which it originated, the Bill entitled, "An Act to incorporate the Boston Dental College."*

In cordial sympathy with every measure looking to the diffusion of knowledge among the people, I can freely concur in the general purposes of this bill, so far as it tends to developing and perfecting a useful and honorable profession. But in examining its details, I notice a remarkable omission, which does not occur in any similar Act in the legislation of this Commonwealth, so far as I have been able to discover. Its first section grants the "right to confer the degree of doctor of dental surgery," without any of the qualifications or conditions which hitherto, by an unbroken line of pre-

* This Act having been put upon its final passage in the manner provided by the Constitution, two-thirds of the Senators present and voting thereon having failed to "agree to pass the same," it was declared lost, and the Act was subsequently passed in a new draft, and received the approval of the Governor.

edents, have been, by the General Court, attached to analogous grants. It appears upon investigation that the New England Homœopathic Medical College, established in eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, is only permitted "to confer the degree of doctor of medicine, subject to the restrictions and regulations which are adopted and required in conferring the same degrees" by like corporations previously chartered. Also, that the same restrictions, in conferring degrees, are applied to the Worcester Medical Institution, the school of eclectic medicine, chartered in eighteen hundred and forty-nine, and invested with the power of giving degrees in eighteen hundred and fifty-one. And that the Berkshire Medical College, founded in eighteen hundred and twenty-three, is empowered to confer its degrees only "under the same rules and restrictions as are adopted and recognized in conferring degrees of the same nature" by the only medical corporation then existing in the Commonwealth.

But in the bill now before me, this rule of just impartiality, enforced or maintained by successive legislatures for nearly fifty years, in the interest of sound learning and professional competency, and for the protection of all the people of Massachusetts, would seem, perhaps inadvertently, to be entirely ignored. The diploma of the schools is understood to imply that its recipient has completed a prescribed course of study, and has passed an examination deemed to be a suitable test of his fitness to enter upon the duties of his chosen profession. This is recognized by our people as an endorsement of that competency by the men most experienced and most reliable in such departments of professional pursuit. It is a safeguard to the people; too valuable to be trifled with; so indispensable that we cannot afford to attempt to overthrow it. And yet, in the bill which is now returned, this endorsement of professional skill and capacity may, at the mere caprice of the corporation, be conferred upon the student of a day, or be withheld from the patient toiler for years. The reasonable and equal standard adopted in all our schools of medical science is, as it seems to me, inadvertently thrust aside; and uncertain methods are to usurp the place of that steady persistence in professional study which has hitherto been necessary to secure the approbation of experts and the confidence of the intelligent public. I cannot consent by any act of mine to sanction a departure from that thorough training which has given to the scholars of Massachusetts pre-eminence in the land, and to her statesmen, her jurists, and her men of science a reputation not bounded by either ocean, and scarcely dimmed by the lapse of time.

I am happy to believe that the sentiments I have expressed will not only commend themselves to the older and more conservative of our people, but will receive the cordial approval of the young men who have been drilled in our public schools and seminaries of learning, trained to thoroughness and accuracy in our counting-rooms, and inured to skilled labor in our workshops and factories. I therefore deeply regret that a school of science, which may prove so useful to those pursuing its specialty, should include in its organic act a germ of distrust and a certain source of the loss of dignity and prestige. And I can but hope that a reconsideration of the subject will induce its friends to consent to such changes as will tend to elevate it to that position of commanding respect already attained by other schools of medical science.

Because then this bill is not, in my judgment, in the interest of good learning and thorough education ; because it will form a precedent which will expose a confiding public to the impositions of partially taught and irresponsible practitioners ; because it is unequal in its operation, and will necessitate the conferring upon all similar existing medical corporations of the unrestricted power to grant degrees ; and because I believe that the usefulness and standing of the proposed corporation will be greatly impaired by the omission of the usual restrictions, which might however be so modified as to meet its peculiar needs, I am constrained to withhold my approval therefrom in its present form.

License law.

I have the honor to inform the House of Representatives, in which it originated, that the bill entitled, "An Act to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors" has to-day become a law of the Commonwealth by its failure to receive the approval of the Governor within the limits of time prescribed by the Constitution.

Having publicly recognized in my annual message the judgment of the people as decisively favoring a change of policy in regard to the traffic in intoxicating drinks, I have no desire to thwart their will as expressed through a General Court elected on this specific issue. I am content that the responsibility for this legislation should rest where it has been placed by the deliberate action of my fellow-citizens ; and to remit to them, as the tribunal of final resort, for their approval or reversal, the policy adopted by their immediate representatives.

But I am not content that the withholding my formal assent to this bill shall be construed as a tacit approval of its provisions, or as indifference to the important principles it involves. I desire, by this direct method, to place upon record my earnest conviction that the restrictions it provides are not in accordance with the measure of regulation demanded by the people of the Commonwealth.

I am not unaware that, by a summary and unconditional repeal of existing statutes, it imposes a heavy burden upon the treasury; and that, releasing convicted violators of law in large numbers from the penalties due to their offences, it makes no provision to exclude them from the full privileges of the Act; while a violation of the Act itself not only works a forfeiture of these privileges, but subjects the offender to fine and imprisonment. And further, that it remits to the chances and vicissitudes of municipal action, at annual meetings, that grave and momentous authority of legislating for the whole people of the Commonwealth by their representatives in General Court assembled, which is our constitutional guaranty for the enactment of laws impartially affecting and restraining all.

While I am not insensible to these and other minor but yet serious objections, I feel that there is another, which, in the magnitude of the threatened evil, overshadows all. The fourth section of the bill throws open public bars and tippling houses in every quarter of the State. It leads into temptation the young and the weak; it spreads a snare for the stranger and the unwary. It replaces thrift with waste; and the peace of quiet neighborhoods with boisterous and reckless disorder. It is destructive to the influences of the family and the fireside; adverse to good morals; and repugnant to the religious sentiment of the community.

To a measure like this, which as a citizen I could not support, as the Chief Magistrate of the Commonwealth I cannot affix my signature in approval; and declining to return it with my objections, for the reasons I have given, I refer it to the judgment and the conscience of all the people of Massachusetts.

[To the House of Representatives, May 9.]

I herewith return without my approval the bill entitled "An Act for the better enforcement of the laws."

State Constabulary.

This bill only differs from a previous proposition to repeal the Acts and parts of Acts establishing the State Constabulary, in that it proposes to substitute for that effective body of State officers a special corps in each county "for the better enforcement of the laws."

Having set forth distinctly in my communication to the House of Representatives of the nineteenth of February last, my judgment as to the superior efficiency of the present system, and my objections to its abandonment, I deem it unnecessary to repeat them here, especially as they have failed to satisfy the House of Representatives upon a full opportunity to reconsider and revise the bill then laid before me. It only remains to state concisely those objections to the present substitute proposed which compel me to withhold my assent from the measure.

It contemplates the appointment of a special force of deputy sheriffs in each county, not however to exceed ten, who shall devote their time and efforts to the prevention and detection of crime, and the prosecution and conviction of violators of any of the laws of the Commonwealth. These officers are to be selected and controlled by the respective sheriffs: their number only is to be regulated by the Governor and Council, subject to the limitation just mentioned. For the purposes named I deem this force altogether inadequate in numbers and efficiency. Even should the appointment of the maximum number be directed by the Governor and Council, it would allow in the larger counties but one officer to a population of more than twenty thousand, for the duties of prevention, detection, prosecution and conviction. And yet it is in these counties that the aggregation of population is accompanied by a disproportionate increase of vice and a multiplication of crimes. But further, being simply local officers, and limited in their action by county lines, they would be without that advantage of mutual communication and assistance which renders a State force, directed by a central bureau, even though no larger numerically, so formidable and effective by its ability to unite its clues of information, combine its counsels and mass its men. It should not be forgotten that the limitation of a detective force to narrow confines impairs its efficiency, and furnishes to offenders increased facilities for eluding or baffling the officers of the law; while from a State Constabulary there can readily be organized a corps of picked men, who can render service with advantage in any section of the Commonwealth.

But there is yet another element of confusion. The proposed force is virtually elective; for the sheriffs, who hold the appointing power, are chosen by a mere plurality of votes in their several counties. It can hardly be denied that upon sundry enactments, defining certain acts as crimes, and affixing thereto the penalties of fine and imprisonment, there are grave differences of opinion according to localities; and it is only reasonable to suppose, what municipal experience for the past few years has fully confirmed, that the action of the appointing officer and of his deputies will be more or less influenced by the sentiments of his own local constituents as expressed at the ballot-box. Hence will inevitably arise, in some sections of the State, a laxity, and in others, a rigor of execution, which will thwart that just and impartial administration of the laws which is the constitutional right of every citizen. If, as is unfortunately the case in some other communities, it should ever happen here that the turbulent element should prevail in any of our electoral districts, the condition of the occupancy of public position will be a virtual pledge to nullify the laws of the Commonwealth.

To give up the present force for one thus constituted, appears to me a substitution of division for union, of weakness for strength, and as exceedingly unlikely to result in a "better enforcement of the laws." Indeed it is not impossible that, in the approach for the past two years to their thorough and impartial execution by the energy of a compact and homogeneous force, the outcry of convicted violators of law and wrong-doers, hampered in their nefarious work, may have been hastily and erroneously construed by some as the demand of a majority of the people for a change in the instruments of enforcement. But in the voice of the press, and in the representations and appeals which have come to me from all quarters of the State, I find a confirmation of my judgment, previously expressed to the legislature, that the people do not desire the discontinuance of the present force. The admonitions which reach us from the other States, and their persistence in retaining the constabulary power where it cannot be controlled or affected by the vote of the large cities and towns, ought not to be lightly regarded by us. And for myself, I trust the time is far distant when throughout the borders of Massachusetts the strong arm of a government of the people will fail to secure for every citizen, however humble, the same assurance of protection and personal safety that awaits him as a sojourner in imperial France, or as a traveller through any city or village of the mother country.

Passing by other considerations of moment, I object to this bill that it detracts from the powers conferred for the common welfare upon the Executive Department of the Commonwealth, taking therefrom practically the means of enforcing general laws, and vesting them in local officers, who are responsible only to their immediate constituents and not to the whole people. It is no relief to this state of facts that the fourth section of the bill confers upon the Governor certain powers over "the municipal force in any place;" for that will indeed be an "emergency" when the Chief Magistrate of the Commonwealth shall be compelled to assume in person the duties of a chief of local police. A careful examination of this section, which is borrowed in the main from the fifth section of the Act to establish a State Police passed in 1865, proves that it has been materially changed from the intent of the original.

As the point that a municipal force alone is insufficient for the execution of the laws appears to be conceded in this bill, I am unable to see why administrative efficiency should be impaired by distributing the executive power among fourteen distinct officers, having no mutual relations or system of co-operation; and if fourteen executive heads are better than three hundred and thirty-five, why one central bureau, exerting a uniform action over and in behalf of the entire State, should not be preferred to fourteen.

But viewing this measure apart from its general bearings, and with special reference to recent legislation, I am strengthened in my conviction of its want of adaptation to the existing exigency. A law purporting to regulate the traffic in intoxicating drinks is now upon the statute book. It is received with distrust by a large portion of the people; and I feel bound, so far as it rests upon me as a magistrate, to insist that a statute like this shall be executed under every safeguard provided by existing laws; by the special force whose experience qualifies them for the task, and as far as possible in the interests of sobriety and good order, until the people of the State shall have an opportunity once more to pronounce their judgment. Changes of systems of police involve at all times grave responsibilities and should not be undertaken without the weightiest cause. I am not convinced that such cause has been shown, or that a force which will be virtually created in the heat of the next general election will be likely to secure any better enforcement of the law than is secured by the present State Constabulary.

In view of the objections previously communicated to the legislature; because I believe that the force proposed to be substituted for the State Police is inadequate in number, inefficient in administrative powers through a lack of co-operation and centralization, and mischievous in its tendencies through a dependence upon local constituencies whose varying verdict will embarrass and prevent an impartial administration of the laws; and because I am satisfied that the rightful prerogatives of the Executive Department are thereby infringed to the sacrifice of the best interests of the people, to the injury of good morals, and the detriment of law and order,—I have withheld my approval from the bill.

[To the House of Representatives, June 4.]

I transmit herewith the Report of the Commissioner appointed under Resolve of 1867, chapter 84, on alterations, repairs and improvements of the State House. This Report was forwarded to the executive rooms in my absence on official business, on Monday, the first instant, and my engagements, as well as absence a portion of the time since, have delayed its transmission to the legislature till now.

Repairs and improvements of State House.

The work has been prosecuted by the Commissioner with fidelity and ability, and the improvements made are such as to commend themselves to favor.

Much has been accomplished which was not embraced in the original plans contemplated by the Resolve, and it will be perceived that an additional appropriation will be required to cover the expense of the same of $94,320.88.

[To the Senate, June 11.]

I herewith return to the Senate, in which it originated, a Bill entitled "An Act to incorporate the Maverick Bridge Company," which I am unable to approve. The late period of the session at which this very important measure has been enacted—at a time, too, when numerous other enactments of great importance are presented to the Executive for revision, the consideration of which requires time for proper investigation—prevents me from making to your honorable body so full a statement of the reasons which compel my dissent from this bill as would otherwise have been possible. Passing by, therefore, various minor objections to details of the bill, which, under other circumstances, I should suggest to your attention, the main reasons which compel my dissent are briefly these:

Maverick Bridge Company.

First. I am not satisfied that the proposed structure will not lessen the depth of water in the ship channels of the harbor by shifting the places of deposit of the material which is brought down by the tidal and river currents; and without being so satisfied, I can under no possible circumstances approve of its erection.

I am advised by Professor Benjamin Peirce, the Director of the United States Coast Survey, (whose capacity to pass an intelligent judgment on the question is indisputable, and who, as a citizen of Massachusetts, long residing in the immediate vicinity of Boston, can have none but the true interest of the commercial capital at heart,) that such, in his opinion, will be the result. And I am further advised that such also is the opinion of other eminent scientific authorities. I have no need to enlarge on the detriment which the structure will produce to the welfare and importance, not only of Boston and Massachusetts, but of all New England, if it shall be erected and be found to cause such an effect. The local benefits which it would confer would be but slight compensation for the misfortune of shoaling, by ever so few inches, our harbor channels.

Second. I am advised by large deputations of eminent merchants of Boston and its vicinity, that the proposed structure will injure the maritime commerce of the capital in various ways, among which are the following:

(1.) By lessening the anchorage ground in the harbor, which is already very limited.

(2.) By diminishing the area of wharfage at and near both termini of the bridge. And I desire to call your attention to the fact that the bill does not designate the points of termination of the bridge on either side of the harbor, but leaves to the option of the corporators the selection of them anywhere along a line of several hundred yards on each shore.

(3.) By diverting foreign commerce to other localities, perhaps to other ports, as the wharves now principally devoted to that branch of our trade, which is carried on in vessels of the greatest draught, are situated above any line on which it is probable that the bridge would be built.

(4.) By the diminution of all the various and extensive trade along the shores of Boston, Charlestown, Chelsea and Cambridge, which lie above the bridge, certain to result from interposing such an obstacle, which, according to this bill, is not to be raised to a height sufficient to permit the free passage of any class of vessels, but is to be traversed by them only by means of a draw.

Third. I am informed by the commandant of the Navy Yard at Charlestown, that certainly the interests, and, in his opinion, the rights, of the United States in that establishment, will be infringed by such a structure.

Fourth. The Harbor Commissioners of the Commonwealth, and the distinguished military and civil engineers who are engaged on the public works in the harbor, are unanimous in condemning the project as injurious on the foregoing and on other grounds; and to their judgment, in a matter so directly within the province of their investigation, I am constrained to render great deference, since I cannot regard it other than intelligent and impartial.

It is said that there are grave constitutional objections also to the assumption of power by the legislature of a State to authorize such an erection over navigable waters. But in the light of the decision of our Supreme Judicial Court, in the case of the Commonwealth vs. The Proprietors of the New Bedford Bridge, 2 Gray's Reports, pp. 346, 347, I do not doubt our right and power over the subject, provided our enactments do not interfere with the regulations of Congress; and neither can I doubt the right and power of Congress to interpose at its discretion, and overrule the legislation of the State. Nor have I doubt that, if this bill shall, by your action, become a law, the interposition of Congress will be sought; and, even if the structure were otherwise unobjectionable, I respectfully suggest whether, as the interests and rights of the Federal Government, not only as the guardian and regulator of commerce, but as itself the actual owner of an immense property at Charlestown and Chelsea and Watertown, are directly affected by the question, it would not be a suitable course to seek first the opinion of Congress as a guide to the legislation of the Commonwealth.

Suggestions have been made from respectable and intelligent sources, that this measure has been precipitated, and that the Executive sanction should be withheld from the bill in order to make delay, because the merchants of Boston have not believed that it was a serious project, and therefore have neglected to remonstrate with the legislature concerning it as they otherwise might have done, and as it is represented they will do in the future. I hardly need to remark that to such suggestions I give no consideration, and that they deserve none; in the first place, as conveying an unjustifiable imputation on your honorable body; and in the next place, because no class in the community has any right to appeal to the Executive for protection against its own negligence. I rest no objections to the bill on such grounds.

But, in reference to a matter of such vast importance, which affects directly or indirectly the value of at least a hundred million dollars' worth of property along the shores of Boston and neighboring cities; enhancing it in some quarters, diminishing it in others; which brings us into positive conflict with the Navy Department of the United States, and into possible conflict with Congress; which is disapproved by the Harbor Commissioners and the engineers employed in the harbor of Boston; which is condemned by certainly a large part of the mercantile community as, on the whole, more injurious than beneficial, apart from any consideration of its effect on the depth of water in the channels; and which, more than all, in the judgment of competent scientific authorities, will result in shoaling the whole harbor; I am unable to give my approval without further discussion and further information to enlighten my judgment than is now possible without delay.

I fully appreciate the local benefits which are expected to result from it to East Boston. I wish for the prosperity of that locality, that it were possible to attain those benefits in some other way than at the risk of great injury to a community embracing more than the whole of this Commonwealth, and of which the people of East Boston are but a small fraction. But as, after such investigation as I have been able to make, such injury seems to be a probable result of the measure, I cannot give it my assent.

If, upon reconsideration, the General Court shall be led to give such weight to these opinions as to concur in a postponement of the enterprise, I trust that I may not be considered to exceed the limits of Executive revisal in respectfully suggesting that the bill be referred to the next legislature; and that a commission be specially appointed, or the duty imposed on some existing commission, to investigate meanwhile and report next January upon all the grounds on which the project is now either opposed or advocated. Possibly also Congress, at its present session, might think advisable to appoint a commission in behalf of the United States to act in concurrence with our own. And if, in the light of the report of such a joint commission, the objections which it has been my duty to set forth, shall be shown to be groundless, the measure can then be carried into effect with confidence in its beneficial results.

[To the Senate, June 12, 1868.]

I return, without my approval, the bill entitled, "An Act repealing a part of the 87th chapter of the Acts of the year 1852."

This bill provides that "so much of the Act of the year 1852, entitled an Act authorizing the Hartford and New Haven Railroad Company to increase their capital stock, as authorizes said company to make any lawful contract, and merge or make joint stock with any other railroad company, without the limits of this Commonwealth, is hereby repealed." The Hartford and New Haven Railroad Company is a corporation holding charters and valuable franchises under both the State governments of Massachusetts and Connecticut. The main trunk of its road is sixty-two miles long, and extends from New Haven, in Connecticut, to Springfield, in this State. It has also three or more branches. Six miles only of the whole road lie within this State.

Over that portion of the road which lies in Connecticut, our State, prior to 1852, had no control, and, of course, could obtain none by adverse legislation. In that year, the papers before me indicate that the corporation asked of the Legislature of Massachusetts authority to consolidate with any railroad company owning a branch of said road, or "with any other connecting line without the limits of Massachusetts, in such manner as might be authorized by the General Assembly of Connecticut." The legislation thereupon adopted seems to be in the nature of a contract. The company are to have the authority asked for, in consideration of opening their charter controlling that portion of the road lying in Connecticut, and thereafter becoming "subject to all the general laws of this Commonwealth to the same extent as if their road were wholly therein."

This legislation could not become binding upon the company, as to the portion of their road lying in Connecticut, without their consent; but by accepting the Act, it became binding upon them as a contract; and I am not informed that complaint is made that they have not faithfully observed its requirements. I respectfully submit for the reconsideration of the Legislature, whether the repeal which this bill proposes to effect of that portion of the Act which was favorable to the company and conferred franchise upon it, while we retain the benefits secured to our Commonwealth by the acceptance and adoption of the Act on the part of the company, is consistent with public faith and honor, or with our constitutional obligations.

The Act of 1852 confides to the General Assembly of Connecticut the regulation of such Acts of consolidation or merger as may be had within the limits of that State. Such, it appears to me, is the only just construction of that law. The policy of consolidating continuous roads has been adopted by us in reference to our own most important line of railroad; and although a considerably longer section of that road was in the State of New York than the six miles of the road of this company in our State, we acted upon the reasonable expectation that the consolidation at Worcester would be permitted by the State of New York, subject only to such fair regulations as we should adopt; and the comity of our sister State verified our anticipations. By the Act of 1852, we specially committed the regulation of such consolidation or merger as might be had by the road now in question, with roads in the State of Connecticut, to the General Assembly of that State. Such consolidation has, since that Act, been so regulated by that General Assembly in two or three instances; and I am informed that a proposal for consolidation with the New York and New Haven Railroad Company is under consideration by a committee of that Assembly. Will it be consistent with the comity which we expected and received from the State of New York under similar circumstances, and which States so intimately related (especially in railroad system and necessities,) as Massachusetts and Connecticut, ought to extend to each other, if we now adopt this bill, and thereby substantially declare our want of confidence in the discretion and careful legislation of the General Assembly of Connecticut over a subject as fully within their jurisdiction as the consolidation of the Boston and Worcester, and the Western Railroad Companies, was within ours, and which we, by the Act of 1852, seem to have specially referred to them?

The returns made by this company, since the Act of 1852, indicate that consolidation has been had with some branch roads in Connecticut. Important contracts for consolidation with another branch road are said to have been made, which are not completed. Without such knowledge as should govern my official action in this particular, I submit to your reconsideration that this bill, if otherwise unobjectionable, should have guarded the corporations which might be affected by it against unnecessary injury, by reserving all rights acquired by this, and other companies, under Acts of merger or consolidation heretofore had, or under such agreements for consolidation as have been heretofore made.

Whether the effect of this measure on the interests of stockholders be favorable or adverse, (which in questions vitally affecting the general interest, should not be too closely regarded by public-spirited and patriotic legislators,) it cannot fail to postpone that unity of interest between Boston and New York which is demanded for our commercial welfare, and by the spirit of our time, and which has already been aimed at by this Commonwealth in the railroad connection between Boston and Albany.

Because then this bill, in my judgment, tends to make the public welfare subservient to individual advantages; and because it seems to me to impair the sanctity of contracts, and to infringe that comity which should always be observed between neighboring States, I am compelled to withhold my approval therefrom, and to submit it to the careful reconsideration of the legislature.
